Also: Judge Dredd patrols, D&D challenges, Paranoia travels & Cthulhu stuns!
From the fury of the Norsemen, o Lord deliver us!

Citadel Miniatures have unleashed a new series of Viking figures upon an unsuspecting world, designed by the fearsome Perry Twins. Modeled and cast to Citadel's usual high standards, the figures are suitable for use with both historical and fantasy games.

The Norse in Warhammer

The Norse live in the Northlands, or Norsca, upon the northern borders of the Old World, and occasionally serve as mercenaries in the armies of the Old World, particularly those of Kislev and the Empire.

Norse warriors have a standard human profile, and may have Champions and Heroes as normal. Standard equipment is hand weapon, shield and sometimes chainmail; plate armour is never used. Spears, throwing axes and longbows are the most common missile weapons; the Norse rarely use crossbows, and never use gunpowder weapons.

One group of Norse worthy of special note are the Berserkers. Berserkers never wear armour, but may carry shields and use any hand-to-hand or throwing weapon. In battle, they will never fight in any kind of formation, but will always bring as many models into contact with the enemy as possible. They cannot be pushed back, and cannot be held in reserve. They will never rout except as a result of magically-induced Fear or Terror. Berserkers must make a Frenzy test every turn; when they become frenzied, the frenzy always lasts for the rest of the battle. Frenzied Berserkers who find themselves without an enemy unit within their movement range must pass a Cool test or charge the nearest friendly unit.

Basic Profile

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M</th>
<th>WS</th>
<th>BS</th>
<th>S</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>A</th>
<th>Ld</th>
<th>Int</th>
<th>Cl</th>
<th>WP</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

f8 Vikings £1.95 for 5.

Available Now from your local retailer or, in case of difficulty direct from:
GAMES WORKSHOP, CHEWTON STREET, HILL TOP, EASTWOOD, NOTTINGHAM NG16 3HY

Mail order charges

UK, BFPO & Eire: add 95p P&P ORDERS OVER £10 POST FREE Overseas: add 35% P&P (minimum £2.00)
Overseas Airmail: add 55% P&P (minimum £2.00)

Payment should be by cheque or postal order, payable to GAMES WORKSHOP LTD., and in pounds sterling.

US customers please contact:
Games Workshop US
8950 Route 196, Columbia
MD 21045, U.S.A.

Models Miniatures are not toys and are not suitable for children under 12 years of age. They contain lead which may be harmful if chewed or swallowed.
ISSUE 83 NOVEMBER 1986

EDITOR: Paul Cockburn
ASSISTANT EDITOR: Mike Brunton
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR: Marc Gascogne
PRODUCTION MANAGER: Martin Clement
DESIGN & PHOTOGRAPHY: Charles Elliott
PRODUCTION CREW: Mark Crossen, Ian Varley, David Oliver, Joanne Podolski, Sue McLoughlin, Ruth Jeffery
COVER: Baron Heinrich von Teutschheim, Master of the Imperial Order of the Knights Panther © John Blanche 1986
ILLUSTRATION: Rod Voss, David Stevens, Colin Dixon, Euan Smith
ART EDITOR: John Blanche
TYPESETTING: Julie Weaving, Gail Morgan
ADVERTISING: Ivor Chomacki
PUBLISHER: Games Workshop Limited
PUBLICATIONS MANAGER: Alan Merritt
THE MANAGEMENT: Bryan & Bryan Annell
Printed by ThamesMouth Web Offset, Basildon, UK.
All correspondence should be addressed to:
White Dwarf, Games Workshop Design Studio, Enfield Chambers, 14-16 Low Pavement, Nottingham NG1 7DL.

"Ere, Cockburn, why don't you -"
Not now, kid, I've got this editorial to write.
Fresh home in the Chaos-carpeted vaults of the WD editorial office, I've been thinking about all the "Why don't you..." questions we were asked by discerning citizens at Games Day, the annual jamboree in London where gamers from all over the country gather to meet the famous, the infamous and to find out all about their favourite games, and why no-one has brought them out yet. It looks like there is no end to the demand for new games, and to the potential for new games, and to the new games that someone is working on somewhere... And that's going to make life even harder for us poor, overworked WD slaves, as we try to find space for them all. Ho hum. Well, just to cut back on the tailback a little, we're going to push a small prezzie your way next month - a bigger Dwarf! Yep, eight extra pages for the same price, and not just extra advertising either. Amazin'. Now then, where did that kid with the Dogtanian png go??

Paul Cockburn

CONTENTS
Open Box
D&D. Warlock of Firetop Mountain, Call of Cthulhu, and even more

Critical Mass
Dave Langford sneaks up on another group of innocent little books...

A Day in the Life of Sector 255
On Patrol with Judge Hugh Tynan

2020 Vision
Ice cream during the intermission with Colin Greenland

Counting the Cost
Training in AD&D by Carl Sargent

The Crude, the Mad and the Rusty
Warhammer boardgame by Graeme Davis, Jes Goodwin and Aly Morrison

And Then Everything Went Black...
Hitting people in Call of Cthulhu by two-fisted Marcus Rowland

The Black Knight
Adventure for Pendragon, Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay and AD&D by Brian Sturdy

Illuminations
Fantasy Art from the Art Editor's drawers...

Psionic Combat
Steve Palmer can melt your brain!

Thrud the Barbarian
Is on holiday... by Carl Critchlow

'Eavy Metal
Exactly why do Citadel designers paint their figures green...

Letters
Paul Cockburn earns his crust

Fracas
Games Day, by Our Man on the Spot, Paul Mason

Classified
Lots of Small Print

OVERSEAS DISTRIBUTORS:
USA: Games Workshop US, 8920 Route 108, Columbia, MD 21045.
Canada: RAFT Company, PO Box 82, Peterborough K9J 3G7, Canada.
New Zealand: Blackwood Gayle Distributor, PO Box 2355, Auckland, N.Z.

The publishers of White Dwarf regret they cannot accept responsibility for financial transactions between readers and advertisers.
White Dwarf reserves the right to amend or reject any material submitted for publication as an advertisement.
Contributions: The editor will be pleased to accept any previously unpublished articles or artwork for inclusion in White Dwarf. Submissions should be typewritten, double-spaced, on one side of A4 paper only. Please send for our submissions guidelines.

All rights in White Dwarf is copyright Games Workshop Limited.

SUBSCRIPTIONS:
Please send and make remittance to Games Workshop, Chawton Street, Hilborne, Eastwood North NG3 3HY. Telephone (0773) 767739. White Dwarf is published monthly. Annual subscription rates are: UK £12.00; Europe £24.00; other overseas surface £24.00; other overseas airmail £28.00. Please make all payments in Pounds Sterling.
US USA - contact Games Workshop US, 8920 Route 108, Columbia, MD 21045, USA, 301 994 0262.

SUBSCRIPTION NOTICE:
When you renew inform us of a change of address or subscription renewal, or if you have a query, please write to Games Workshop, Chawton Street, Hilborne, Eastwood North NG3 3HY and make sure that you tell us your present name and address (and your old address if you are moving). When you subscribe, please tell us whether you are renewing on old subscription or starting anew one.

ISSN 0265-8712
who drops his/her Anti-Magic long enough to cast a spell will normally get fried by incoming magical attacks, and Immortals rarely get close enough to slug it out physically.

Advancement through the various levels, or Ranks, of Immortality is covered, and is again slightly different from normal D&D character advancement. As I mentioned before, 10,000 Experience Points make up 1 Power Point, and the requirements to advance in Rank vary from 1,000 to 10,000 Power Points - 10 million to 100 million Experience Points. In order to maintain rank, the Immortal must keep a 'credit balance' of enough Power Points, balancing this against permanent expenditure on attribute boosts and temporary expenditure on special abilities. Progression from one Rank to the next is not automatic - having accumulated enough Power Points, the Immortal character must compete in the Olympics (honestly!) pertaining to his/her own sphere in order to gain promotion to the next Rank.

The D&D Multiverse system is expanded, now that characters will be traipsing hither and yon through it on a regular basis. As in A&D, the Astral Plane permeates and connects the entire Multiverse, but the system of planes is much more open and less regulated than in A&D. As Astral magic, movement and encounters are all covered, and - a nice touch, this - the encounter table has a blank column for your own djinn ranges, alongside those suggested by the designer. There is a new selection of jargon to deal with concerning plane sizes - they can vary from the Atoplane (one-third of an inch across) through the Standard Plane (a dinky 0.85 light-years across) to the Teraplane (85 billion light-years across), and stars and planets vary in size accordingly.

A great deal is said about creating and maintaining physical forms - the Immortal can have any number of forms, but creating and maintaining them is yet another drain on the old cosmic bank balance of Power Points. Avatars are also covered - they have a lot of potential, but are correspondingly expensive.

For the DM, there are useful notes on Immortal campaigns, covering the goals of Immortal characters, their place within Immortal society, and their duties and responsibilities. The DM is encouraged to play the roles of the Immortals' superiors - the Hierarchs of each Sphere - keeping them in line and maintaining game balance. There is a useful section on Immortal Justice, which shows the DM how to deal with irresponsible characters and avoid grossouts - one of my main worries about Immortal characters.

Finally, there are sample plots for Immortal adventures, and 22 pages of suitably powerful monsters, including a range of demons which will look strangely familiar to anyone who has read the A&D Monster Manual. They've come full circle, really, since most of them first saw the light of day in the original D&D supplement Eldritch Wizardry, if my memory serves me correctly.

All in all, I found the Immortals' Set interesting. I can't imagine ever playing it, but it provides just about everything necessary for dealing with characters who have worked their way up through the mortal levels and attained immortality. There is a real feeling of having gone on to greater things, and the considerable powers which the Immortal character commands are nicely offset by checks and balances which let the experienced DM use to avoid critical over-the-top-ism in most circumstances. The expansion of the D&D cosmology could be useful for campaigns at mortal levels as well, and the new monsters can also be used (with care!) for mortal adventures.

Not an indispensable addition to the D&D stable, but an interesting and well-thought-out one. Collectists won't want to miss it, and DMs of high-level mortal campaigns will find some of the information it contains interesting.

Graeme Davis
Fantasy Boardgame Games Workshop £12.95

All right, hands up how many of you thought Fighting Fantasy was for kids, eh? Yes, I thought so! Well, FF may be played by plenty of young people, but it's also an excellent way of introducing new gamers to the sophisticated and heady delights of our hobby. And if it wasn't for all those fresh young gamers enthusiastic introduced to roleplaying by the original Warlock of Firetop Mountain book, this hobby would be much smaller and far less interesting. This game is likely to be snapped up by rabid solo-gamers in their thousands, but I reckon it deserves more than a second look from us too.

The Warlock of Firetop Mountain boardgame is very roughly based upon the original premise of the solo gamebook, which I'm sure is owned by more of you than would care to admit. The evil archmage Zagor has secreted himself away in his dungeon, and you are a brave and fearless warrior who intends reclaiming all his loot. However, in the game, you are just one of six adventurers exploring the subterranean passages and rooms. Whether you co-operate or fight each other is up to you, but it's probably a combination of both that wins the game.

Scattered around this dungeon, guarded by the usual army of monsters and traps, are all kinds of treasures. The ones you want, though, are the bunches of keys you can use to help you open old Zagor's treasure chest. Every time you find some keys you are allowed to make what's called a Key Challenge, which operates very much like the clues in Cluedo. You say, for example, 'I believe that one of the keys to Zagor's chest has the number 6 on it.' Everyone shows you one of their own keys - if no-one shows you one which can be certain that it's the key to the chest!

Of course, once you know what keys open the chest, your adventurer then has to get there in one piece, with the relevant keys picked up from around the dungeon, negotiate the Maze, and knock off Zagor and his guardians! There's nothing simple or childish about this game! It requires deduction, determination, some skill, and quite a bit of luck to get all the way to the end without losing your character.

Production quality on the game is up to GW's increasingly excellent standards, with fairly clear rules and some very pretty pieces. The board is very nice, though unclear in places (this is sort of owned, perhaps from a rulebook, but surely it would have been easier to produce a clearer board in the first place?). I rather wish I had a few more niggles about the game. It could have done with some zip-lock bags to keep the pressed-out pieces in, and I still can't see why the six supposedly-identical adventurers include a dwarf, elf, cleric and wizard, together with two proper warriors. Still, that's nothing to get steamed up about. On the whole this game is very neat and stylish, and deserves to do well. The slight resemblance to Cluedo is actually no bad thing, as it adds a degree of depth that most dungeon-bashing boardgames have never had. The Warlock of Firetop Mountain is the sort of boardgame I'd probably buy for my little brother and end up playing myself!

Robert Neville

Call of Cthulhu Adventure Chaosium £15.95

At the centre of the universe dances the blind ideogram of the Demon in the body of an off small starlike object which hurtle through space forever. But not all of its spawn are destined to travel endlessly through the void, some settle into the solar systems which they have the power to change irrecoverably.

But in downtown Providence it is life as normal, or is it? Strange goings take place, a human body makes a surprise midnight visit to an unsuspecting investigator and the mystery begins.

Spawn of Azathoth is the latest boxed for Call of Cthulhu and gets off to nicely horrific start. Following a trail of clues, the intrepid investigators journey around the world uncovering sanity blasting horrors and trying to avert a world threatening disaster. Spawn certainly has its fair share highlights - there is even more than enough horror here to send even the most hardened investigator insane, and lots of good detective work is called for to piece the story together. Apart for the opening and ending adventures, the stories are playable in any order, allowing the investigator some measure of freedom over the course of the adventure. As an added bonus, it even includes a couple of surprises into the magical realms of the Dreamlands, but it is playable without that supplement.

Spawn of Azathoth also includes a number of excerpts from myths books, rather than just notes on Cthulhu. This greatly adds to the atmosphere and flavour of the game. Insane insights are also provided to be given out at suitable times - a nice touch these as they are directly related to the story and also humorous.

However, unlike the weighty Masks of Nyarlathotep, this package seems a little lone in it's box. On reading through I got the definite impression that this was a standard booksize adventure panned out to fit into a box - and even then some useful pieces of information seem to have been overlooked. There are three books inside the box, but the first book doesn't start until page 8, even with 7 pages given over for the contents, title page and the obligatory picture of H.P. Lovecraft, there is a lot of empty space on the first page. The second part begins - an awfully big chunk out of a 32 page book.

Presentation of a few of the adventures is also very sketchy in places, resembling author's notes rather than a polished roleplaying product. There are NPCs by the score, but little advice on how to play them or structure their arrival. As for one scene, it is highly unlikely the PCs will ever uncover it if the way it is written - a clue as to its whereabouts would have been very useful here.

Having read Spawn of Azathoth I came away feeling that although it had some nice ideas in it, it had not been developed as much as could have been. While the overall plot is good and most of its component adventures are interesting, it lacks the vital "oomph!" which would have made it a classic adventure...

Peter Green

First there was the MERP booklet produced by ICE which developed the idea of playing adventures in Tolkien's world of Middle-earth. Games Workshop in the UK improved on the 1st Edition by boxing it and including cardboard figures, map sheets, and so on. Now ICE have improved again on the 1st Edition by replacing the dubious 'purple orbs' artwork of the GW box and strategically re-arranging the rulebook - but most importantly by including a proper introduction booklet.

ICE are demonstrating the same determined effort to attract newcomers to the hobby as Chaosium did with the inclusion of Basic Role-Playing in RuneQuest. The 32-page 'Introduction to Fantasy Role-Playing' booklet that comes with MERP is exactly that. It starts with a simple adaptation of a system already in existence for use with their solo gamebooks. A short solo adventure is used to demonstrate various facets of roleplaying, adventures, characters and the 'feel' of roleplaying. Finally in the way MERP puts over the flavour of Tolkien's world.

The use of a solo adventure (which can also be run by a GM for a single player) is both novel and helpful and, apart from the dialogue, well written. It is followed up with an additional party adventure using the full MERP rules. Six pregenerated characters are provided for instant play and the adventure is intriguing and well designed.

Throughout the introductory booklet helpful notes and explanatory asides are included to tell the novice and inexperienced roleplayer what terms mean, how rules can be used and why various conventions are adopted to ease play. MERP bills itself heavily as a game based on the idea of a 'living novel' and follows this philosophy accurately; it is a game which despite having a parentage rooted in '70s rpgs (D&D etc) still manages to adhere to the narrative approach. New players will certainly be encouraged in this direction by the new starter adventure and the use of explanations included in the modules for MERP already released by ICE. The introductory material will also help GMs who wish to design their own adventures and create adventures in the existing fantasy campaign material already available.

2nd Edition MERP remains the same game, just re-edited and rearranged somewhat. Much of the old confusion of tables, lists and rules has been cleared by a sensible group of thing charts onto single pages and into a larger batch on the rear of the book. Hopefully new players will find the organisation a lot more satisfactory than the old. Along with this, there is more artwork, including a number of character sketches by Angus McBride, ICE's current favourite artist.

The rules, basically unchanged, will (as with any system) either appeal or not. Newley included are notes on roleplaying in Middle-earth using other systems: RoleMaster, the game from which MERP was developed; and Fantasy Hero, ICE's third roleplaying system recently acquired on the demise of Hero Games. Other additions to the rules book itself include a handy index and extra illustrations for the sample adventure.

There are a few omissions and less good aspects of this new package. The two hideous twenty side dice and minute and unreadable. The cardboard characters are not as well produced as in the GW boxed set. The rules also fail to incorporate much new information devised for supplements written since the 1st Edition, which is a pity.

Overall, ICE have opted not to produce a new game, but to upgrade the production values of MERP as it existed. Those who have achieved, and MERP remains (for me) one of the more inventive and enjoyable roleplaying games currently available. Its background is certainly as deep as or better than any other, surpassed only by those set in our own world. If you haven't yet got MERP, now must be the time to try it!

Graham Staplehurst
GURPS - GENERIC UNIVERSAL ROLEPLAYING SYSTEM BASIC SET

Roleplaying Game
Steve Jackson Games £14.95

Sometimes it's difficult to learn new rules when you buy a game. Several manufacturers have tried to avoid this problem by making each new system compatible with previous products. Chaosium's Basic RolePlaying is the most famous example: originally intended for fantasy systems, it's now also used for superheroes, SF, horror and other genres. Palladium and Hero Games have also tried to retain this sort of compatibility. The snag is that this 'add-on' approach tends to add complexity whenever there's a new addition to the system, with the intended compatibility gradually lost as rules drift further and further apart.

GURPS is an ambitious attempt to design a system which will be compatible, as originally designed, for every genre known. To avoid making the rules 500 pages long, the system is sold as the basic game (covering general character creation and game mechanics) plus a series of specialised modules. Each module will develop rules for one type of RPG: the first is Man to Man, an expansion of the combat system, mainly intended for fantasy adventures, but a supplement containing rules for magic seems likely to be next.

The game system resembles a streamlined and simplified version of the Champions/ Hero System rules. The rules are explained in the main body of the text, while side paragraphs give examples and mention special cases that change rule effects. Characters spend points to modify four characteristics, and buy background, personal abilities and skills. The rules allow characters to get extra points by taking various disadvantages, from familiar the 'dependent NPC's' and 'hunted' to 'low status' (does anyone really want to start their career as a slave?), ugliness, and odious personal habits. All skill use and combat requires a 3d6 die roll against abilities. Combat is a little complicated, involving a lot of skills and manoeuvres, plus many optional rules. It probably won't suit beginners.

In all, there are nearly 200 pages of information in the game, including two rule books, a scenario book and some charts and tables. Although the rules occasionally mention technology, the scenarios and nearly all the examples seem to be in terms of a curiously colourless fantasy setting, without magic or monsters. This lack of colour may be GURPS main weakness; in trying to be useful for every type of campaign, it's somehow lost much of the believability of other systems. It's worth remembering that the two most successful cross-genre rules systems began with fall over some literature-based roleplaying game - some are good, and some aren't. This particular specimen, based on the Well World books by Jack Chalker, tends towards the latter.

The contents listing sounds quite impressive - a 112-page rule book, introductory scenario, dice, a map of the Well World, combat charts, starship blueprints and all in a sturdy box. Wonderful. Except...

For a start, production is adequate - it's good quality paper, startrightforward narrative, and surprisingly free from typos (bigger companies take note!). The real fun starts when you start reading - it suggests you find 2 to 10 or more players (!) for one thing, which raises the rather implausible character generation is simple, with five basic and three derived attributes, and a Call of Cthulhu-style styles system in which a character divides a certain number of points, determined by his age, amongst whichever skills he wants. These are measured in percentage terms. Most (if not all) of the skills seem to have been culled from the pages of Traveller and Ringworld not directly, but close enough to smell strongly of these rpgs. Other options of the text are also familiar if you've read either game - the opportunity Fire section for example, is similar to that in Ringworld. Nothing surprising here then, except some of the skill descriptions themselves: 'CHEMISTRY... represents a character's knowledge of the science chemistry,' etc. Hmmm. Wouldn't have guessed that one...

The box claims this game is fast-paced. I hate the initiative system, bulky and slow - a first factor (based on DEX), another derived from weapon type, and a third on Tactics/Straggy skill all modify a d6 roll to determine who acts before whom in a combat turn. Yeehaw! Hot on realism, perhaps, but a stinker to play. And if you've played RQ2, the combat system is familiar...

The other notable feature of the rules book is its chapter on character races - 150 of them, and all ridiculous. Six foot tall bipedal wasps, intelligent sharks and apes with bat wings proliferate. Funny, until you realise that you're in imminent danger of dying laughing. If you've not read Chalker's book this will certainly put you off. Personally, I haven't, so maybe I'm not getting the joke. There is a joke, right?

And if the races don't get you, the 'starship blueprints' will. Five computer-produced types, all looking like a 4-year-old's Lego models.

The most impressive feature of the game is the stellar generation system, used by permission of Trilith, and taken from FTL:2448, a game that appeared in the early '80s. Yup, it ain't even original - and it takes time too. Don't try to map the galaxy, warns the rules book. It seems hazardous to your mental wellbeing to try.

I endeavoured to like this game. Honest. I looked for nice things to say about it, but I couldn't really find any. I can see the intentions behind it, and the designer ought to be commended for his perseverance - few people could ever manage anything like this without being a professional games company. The box makes it sound all very wonderful, but it doesn't seem to amount to much when you've read it - a sort of third-rate Ringworld, actually. Worth buying if you're a rabid Chalker fan, hopefully rich, or 90% insane.

Marcus L Rowland

MIDNIGHT AT THE WELL OF SOULS

Roleplaying Game
TAG Industries £12.95

Seems like everywhere you turn nowadays, you
TALISMAN THE ADVENTURE - Boardgame Supplement - Games Workshop £4.95

Had you asked me before I opened the box about expansion sets for Talsimian, I would probably have said that Workshop could probably churn them out in their sleep, and people would still buy them by the truckload. It was a pleasant surprise, therefore, to find that GW have put a good deal of thought into this neat little package. Open the lid and there are six A4-sized card play-sheets, with places to stick all those fiddly little counters and cards during play and stop them skidding about all over the place. Next up are the usual range of new cards, 60-odd, with some more new characters (cheekily including the Samurai from a past WD, I noticed), spells, monsters and all the rest. Most of these are standard fare, but variety is the spice of life, I guess. The most important thing in the box, however, is the single sheet of card with the new rules on it. Henchmen - like Followers but handier - have been added, as has something called the ‘Chaos Bloodbath Option’ (what is it with GW and that word, ‘option’?). Under this rule there is only one Talisman card, so when one poor sucker finds it all the rest have to try and take it off him again! This can give you a very short game! As will, in fact, the new Alternative Endings. Now when you struggle your way across the Valley of Fire to your goal, one of six surprises could be waiting for you. Maybe the Dragon King, who promptly eats you; Pandora’s Box, full of spells; or even the Horrible Black Void, into which you immediately fall. This is just the thing for those irritatingly smug people who always win at Talisman - just watch their joy turn to misery as their beloved hero disappears down into the darkness. All in all, Talisman The Adventure is a fun package, and will do much to refresh the parts of Talisman that other expansion sets can’t reach.

R.N.

INTRODUCTION TO STAR FLEET BATTLES - Wargame Supplement - Task Force £4.95

For those of you who’ve tried the classic Star Fleet Battles and turned away boggled, Task Force have released a learn-as-you-play introductory rulebook, designed to build you up to understanding the basic rules. Aside from the 48-page rulebook, the game includes 54 playing pieces and a hex-map and is written in step-by-step manner. Once the introduction is out of the way the prospective starship commander is plunged into a series of twelve scenarios, designed to teach you the game by letting you play with only the rules you need for each episode. The rules are clearly written, though perhaps a little technical at times, and the scenarios get more involved and enjoyable as they go on. The book even gives you a guide of how you should approach Volume I of Star Fleet Battles - interestingly, the 32-impulse movement table and the rules for Boarding Party Combat are superior in the Introduction to those in Volume I! This product is a handy starter for those who didn’t understand its fully-fledged big brother, or simply want to test the waters before splashing out on the system.

P.F.

THE REVISED RECON - Roleplaying Game - Palladium £9.95

Once upon a time there was a game called Recon. It was offensive rubbish in which players could recreate lots of American ties about how they won the Vietnam War. Luckily, it was badly produced and had poor distribution, so few people were ever exposed to it. Luckily, Palladium have now revised and re-released it in a snappy new edition. Luckily, the game system is as scrappy and as unwieldy as ever. Luckily, some people may well realise that the sections on military hardware and equipment are probably the best in any contemporary roleplaying game. Luckily, I hope people have more sense than to touch this with a bargepole. Luckily, I’m not so sure they have.

R.N.

(Reviews by Graeme Davis, Phil Frances & Robert Neville.)
A Grim World of Perilous Adventure

The Old World. On the surface, it is a vast and fertile place, filled with teeming cities, Elfhau ted forests and lofty crags where Dwarfs battle with Goblins and their kin. But a shadow hangs over the world, cast by the dark, corrupting hand of Chaos. From the pirate-ridden coast of south Tilea to the fortified villages of the defaced East, a few heroes strive to hold back the endless tide of Chaos spilling from the north. But Chaos also gnaws from within, its hidden servants constantly striving to bring the world to its knees before the Dark Gods.

Enter the realms of Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay - an exciting world of epic adventure, matchless treasure and sudden glory!

Warhammer is all set to become the complete fantasy games system you always wanted.
Already there is the Warhammer Battle rules, the complete guide to large-scale fantasy com-batt. Now comes Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay, a complete roleplay system in a single volume, packed with detail and completely compatible with the Battle Game. Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay offers a unique character system with over 100 careers, a fast-moving, realistic comba t system, and a coherent system of clerical and individual magic; all this, set against the Warhammer world, a dangerous and foreboding setting for adventure, where nothing is ever as simple as it seems.

The one-volume Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay will be out in November - and that is just the beginning. Following soonafter will be the first in a regular series of campaign packs, supplements and adventures, The Enemy Within
- A Guide to the Empire, the greatest realm of the Old World. This is the starting point for a sequence of campaign modules, an epic adventure which will slowly lead the players into confrontation with the Forces of Chaos.

Shadows Over Bögenhafen is the first episode in that epic adventure, in which the players will come to suspect that all is not what it seems, and in which they will have to learn fast - or pay the price!

This is Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay - an adventure on a grand scale, and a game produced to the highest standards. Order your copy now!

GAMES WORKSHOP

WARHAMMER FANTASY ROLEPLAY retails for just $14.95 and will be available at all good hobby and games stores from late November.
The Enemy Within and Shadows over Bögenhafen will be released shortly thereafter and will retail at $4.95 each.

If you have difficulty obtaining any of these product contacts: GAMES WORKSHOP, CHEWTON STREET, HILL
TOP, EASTWOOD, NOTTINGHAM NG16 3HY.
US customers please contact: GAMES WORKSHOP US,
8920 ROUTE 108, COLUMBIA, MD 21045 USA.

Postage & Package:
UK: BFPO, 8105, Order Value under $1.50 p&pk 95p. Order value over $1.50 post free.
OVERSEAS: Please add 35% p&pk. To guarantee Air Mail please add 55% p&pk.
CRITICAL MASS

A regular book review column, written by Dave Langford

At last, the paperbacks! Geoff Ryman's The Unconquered Country (Unicorn 134pp, £2.95) is a remarkably powerful "alternate world" fantasy which painfully mirrors the recent history of Canada. It is difficult to describe: a vision of an organic civilization where even the houses live and move, a symbiosis ripped apart by political upheavals which will never can never - be explained to the people of the Unconquered Country. It packs a terrific punch. In its shorter Interzone form, it won two major awards. Sacha Ackerman's many line drawings work well with the text.

After being harrowed, it's fun to turn to The Light Fantastic by Terry Pratchett (Corgi 217pp, £1.95), a direct sequel to his wonderfully silly The Colour of Magic. Again, Rincewind the magician cavorts across the apparently doomed Discworld, helped and hindered by the many-legged Luggage, Druids with stone-circle software problems, the non-canon magicians of the Disc, Death (who gets upset when summoned from cocktail parties) and millions more. Abandoning the cruel fantasy parodies of his previous book, Pratchett leans more heavily on one-line gags: the result isn't as pointedly funny, but still evokes more laughs than anything else around. Especially Thrud.

It's not often that I come in at the second reel, but this happened with Peter Morwood's The Dragon Lord (Arrow 318pp, £2.95), sequel to The Demon Lord. Its plot involves shifting alliances and betrayals centred on an elaborate Code of Honour whereby (as far as I can make out) even God has lost considerable social standing and would no longer be admitted to the best clubs. Morwood works up a tense and exciting atmosphere - his horse-trappings, typography and drag are particularly good - which left me disappointed by occasional stylistic let-downs. It's bad enough when the inhabitants of a fantasy world quote Kipling; when they use words like "laxenalin" and "bespattering" the spell definitely fades; and even the author realizes that "paranoia is a mistake. "It was an odd, cumbrous, unAlban word..." Near the end of the drama is dispelled, at any rate, of a cameo appearance by Anne ("Aiyian") McAaffrey, reciting from her own books. This kind of thing should be left to Terry Pratchett.

In brief: Anne McCaffrey herself returns with the paperback Killashandra (Corgi 346pp, £2.95), a frothy piece of romantic SF in the great literary tradition of Mills & Boon. To paraphrase Star Trek, it'll leave your crystals drained. Larry Niven's Limits (Orbit 240pp, £2.50) includes some good recent short stories: it's a pleasure to see him sweating an interesting idea down to a few pages and effective without bloating it beyond all endurability (Ringworld Engineers, Integral Trees). His "Draconian" pieces are particularly entertaining. The collaborations with others (Bournelle, Girard, Barnes) work less well. So it goes. Top Fantasy (ed. Josh Pachter, Dent 31pp, £3.95) is an above-average anthology of two dozen authors' favourite stories, which I know I needn't describe because my fairly readers will have committed last year's review of the hardback to memory. And Dragons of Winter Night (Penguin 399pp, £2.95), by Margaret Weis and Tracy Hickman, is... er, nice weather for the time of year, isn't it?

Raymond Leonard's Omega (Popular Press 197pp, £9.95) suffers badly from the fact that its theme is too familiar, one of the great SF cliches, on a par with stories which end "And I shall call you... Eve!" It's been done and overdone by Fredric Brown, Isaac Asimov, D.F. Jones and Frank Herbert; it's been set up by Douglas Adams. Humanity unites to build an omniscient super-computer, innovatively called OMEGA, which will solve all our problems! Despite Leonard's vaunted engineering qualifications, the technical obstacles are glossed over, the vast artificial intelligence is lashed together with suspicious ease, and right from the start people are talking in theatrical terms. Need I go on? It takes endless pages of dreadful portentousness and worse dialogue to reach the time-worn punchline of Fredric Brown's one-page, which (as every fan knows) goes "Yes, now there is a God!"

Eye (Gollancz 328pp, £9.95) is a "definitive" collection of Frank Herbert's short SF, with the bonus of skilled half-tone illustrations by Jim Burns, plus Herbert's own mixed feelings about the Dune movie. It's a good anthology, free of the grotty potboilers which filled out earlier collections. I would have preferred another "real" short story or two in place of the extract from The Dragon in the Sea (which deserves to be read in context): otherwise, OK.

An unknown Arthur Conan Doyle novel? That's what Brian Stableford has dug up for the Greenhill fantasy museum: The Doings of Raffles Haff (256pp, £8.95), which reminds me that you must all buy Sidgwick & Jackson's lovely softcover edition of my and Brian's The Third Millennium... oops. Doyle has an old and familiar tale to tell: The Well-Meaning (but Mad) Scientist who can Make Gold, yet like King Midas finds that Wealth Is But A Curse. Fascinating for collectors and completists.

The most science-fictional thing I've read all month is a travel-agent's placard - Coming Soon: Summer 1987! Register Now! So that's why I got no perceptible summer this year. I should have registered for one in 1983...

There's still less available summer in David Brin's The Postman (Bantam 294pp, £9.95, paperback to follow in January), set in North America after a mini-holocaust and 16 years of nuclear near-winter. I've long been nervous of those peculiarly American "survivalist" types who seem eager for World War III and its glorious aftermath of no taxes, no liberals, and freedom to shoot whom they like. Clearly they worry Americans too; Brin's macho, kill-happy survivalists are the chief obstacle to a returning civilization.

His plot has a mythic simplicity which in synopsis reads more like mind-numbing corniness. Gordon Krantz (a sort of seedy jongleur) stumbles on that awesome relic of the Old Reckoning, a postman's uniform. As a symbol of lost order, this has a certain lingering power; trying to capitalize on it as a con-trick for safe passage through suspicious communities, Krantz finds himself spreading a self-fulfilling prophecy of re-established mail services... At first glance the notion panders too much to readers' own wild thinking. Brin carries it off by showing that people in that ruined world would themselves be ripe for wishful thinking - glad to accept the half-believed lie.

The story is complicated by Krantz's intersection with another myth in the making, and then by a muddle of battle, murder and enhanced consciousness, all a bit of a needless distraction, but never mind. It's nicely written, sometimes moving, and ends as it should. Well worth reading.

Good old William Gibson is back with ten stories in Burning Chrome (Gollancz 200pp, £8.95). After Gibson's massive success, this was a collection which had to win, and even if three collaborations and an over-arty first published story are needed to fill it out. They're strong, punchy tales with his glittering "technosleaze" trademark: some are obvious precursors of the novels, and the fine title piece's hair-raising cyberspace jaunt is echoed all too closely in Neuromancer. Still, I like the story: it's that one about the young punks who get hold of... .45 and try it on the big heist, only Gibson's punks are computer jockeys and the .45 is a Russian military killer program.

Ian Watson offers his own alternative to cyberspace in Queennagic, Kingmagic (Gollancz 205pp, £9.95): a sort of "game-space": The idea of modelling a story on a chessboard isn't new to fantasy - even if three collaborations and an over-arty first published story are needed to fill it out. They're strong, punchy tales with his glittering "technosleaze" trademark: some are obvious precursors of the novels, and the fine title piece's hair-raising cyberspace jaunt is echoed all too closely in Neuromancer. Still, I like the story: it's that one about the young punks who get hold of... .45 and try it on the big heist, only Gibson's punks are computer jockeys and the .45 is a Russian military killer program.

Ian Watson offers his own alternative to cyberspace in Queennagic, Kingmagic (Gollancz 205pp, £9.95): a sort of "game-space": The idea of modelling a story on a chessboard isn't new to fantasy - even if three collaborations and an over-arty first published story are needed to fill it out. They're strong, punchy tales with his glittering "technosleaze" trademark: some are obvious precursors of the novels, and the fine title piece's hair-raising cyberspace jaunt is echoed all too closely in Neuromancer. Still, I like the story: it's that one about the young punks who get hold of... .45 and try it on the big heist, only Gibson's punks are computer jockeys and the .45 is a Russian military killer program.
Calling All Dungeon Masters

Dungeons & Dragons and Advanced Dungeons & Dragons

It's an Attack...!

An Army of TSR Modules from Virgin for only...

£2 each

Choose from the massed ranks...

Modules A1, A4, B1, B2, B5, B6, C3, C4, C5, CB1, CB2, CM2, EX1, EX2, I2, I3, I4, I5, I6, L1, L2, MV1, N1, O1, R2, R4, RPG1, RPG2, RPG3, RPGA1, S4, T1, U1, U2, U3, UK1, UK2, UK3, W4, WP, X1, X2, X3, X4, X5.

But our stocks are going fast - so make haste!

Plus more Special offers from Virgin...

"DEsert Of DeSolation" 3 module pack. I3 to I5 only £6.95

"ORiental ADVentures" Official AD&D Hardback edition only £9.95 « "SalTMarSH"

3 module pack. U1 to U3 only £6.95 « "GAnGBUSTERS" Box set of Modules 1 to 5. only £14.95.

These treasures are all at Virgin

The no. 1 choice for games

ABERDEEN 46 Union Street ■ BIRMINGHAM 98 Corporation Street ■ BRIGHTON 157/161 Western Road ■ BRISTOL 18 Merchant Street ■ BROMLEY 140/144 High Street ■ EDINBURGH 131 Princes Street ■ GLASGOW 28/32 Union Street ■ LEEDS 54/56 Biggate ■ PLYMOUTH 105 Armada Way ■ LONDON 100 Oxford Street ■ TOP MAN Oxford Circus
This is a patrol adventure for up to five Judges, covering the activities of a typical day in a typical sector of Mega-City One. A Day in the Life can be dropped into a campaign or included as part of a single, longer adventure. It could even be chopped into pieces and used in other adventures!

by Hugh Tynan

SECTOR HOUSE 255, BRIEFING ROOM:
SHIFT 3 - 10.50 HOURS

+++ITEM 56+++ SKEDWAY ATTACKS Over the past three days 67 Mo-Pads have been destroyed on this sector's skeds. There have been no survivors, but witnesses (from nearby Mo-Pads) state that the vehicles simply exploded. There's a chance that somebody is leaving remotely controlled bombs on the Mo-Pads. Each squad will perform a crime blitz one Mo-Pad. I'll give you the target with your patrol orders.

+++ITEM 57+++ WALLY SQUAD OPERATIONS The Wally Squad are working the sector this week, investigating an empty-bagging epidemic. All other Judges are requested to stay off the case and allow the Wally Squad a shot at infiltrating the group. The Wally Squad will also be organizing a couple of bank heists and other crimes to gain the baggers' confidence. Whatever you do, try not to kill any heisters you happen across. No assigned routes should take you near these operations, but for those of you who can't resist shortcuts - you've been warned.

+++ITEM 58+++ BOPAROUND A Fancy Dress Open Air Boparound is being held in Marc Gascoigne Plaza at 11.00 hours. The Littlehouse Juve Crew are demonstrating their new dance at 12.00. Large crowds are expected to attend. You all know what the juves in this sector are like. Your patrol will include a 20 minute stop in the Plaza. The presence of Judges will make a few perps think twice.

+++ITEM 59+++ PUBLIC MEETING A new citizen's group called "The Friends of Dredd" are holding their first public meeting in a hall at the Marvin Gaye Skyrail Station. We don't know what kind of nut club this is, but we want to be ready for trouble. Keep your eyes peeled. We'd like to prevent any incidents. The civos are beginning to think they can't belong to any organization since the Chief Judge made it illegal to be a pacifist.

+++ITEM 60+++ H-WAGON SHORTAGE Several H-Wagons were destroyed recently in a fight with a mutie-hijacked Strat-Bat. Replacements will be delivered next week. So don't call in the H-Wagons unless you really can't handle it...

+++ITEM 61+++ SATELLITE ATTACKS Communications Satellite QD-155/173 has been subject to laser fire from this sector. It is suspected that the power for the laser has been taken from the Skyrail tracks, as the trains have suffered momentary power failures all week. All squads will be supplied with special detection equipment that will pinpoint any laser fire. Most of the shots are just bouncing off the satellite's solar panels, but some have hit - and eight Tech Judges have been killed. We're cracking down on this, so please try not to cause false alarms by using Cyclops lasers.

+++ITEM 62+++ ESCAPING PERPS Someone is going round releasing perps from holding posts. Be on the lookout for anyone hanging around near an apprehended or cuffed perp at a holding post. Make a special effort on this. We've lost 222(l) perps in the last three days. This creep may pass on the secret, copy his master key or whatever.

+++ITEM 63+++ Let's be careful out there.

A DAY IN THE LIFE
SECTOR 255
Judge Jude, the assigning officer, then turns to the PCs and gives them their specific patrol orders:
"You’re on Zippers today—no, hang on, that’s Squad Bracken. You’re on Lawmasters as usual. This is your route, along the North edge of the Sector on City Bottom and then circle around towards the centre. You’re stopping at the Marc Gascoigne Plaza Boparad at 12.00 for 20 minutes—try to be on time, huh? At 13.10 you’re blitzing a Citizen Duff in his Pad ‘Around the Bend’—big orange Royale job. Look at all the usual stuff, of course, but look especially for bomb making, radio and remote control gear. We’ve got nothing on this Duff, which is a teeny bit suspicious.

This is the laser detector thingy. The indicator lights up and beeps if any fires a laser within 2000 metres. You’ve got two minutes to follow the trace to where the shot came from. The H-Wagons have these as well."

As the PCs leave, they will overhear Judge assigning a temporary room on floor 17 to apathy (but aren’t they all?) SJS officer, close to the SJS resident Judge.

GM’S INTRODUCTORY DATA

Read through the events before you run the adventure for your players, so that you know roughly what is going to happen. This is supposed to be a more or less average patrol in the day of a Mega-City Judge, without a ‘main adventure’ as such. You don’t have to go to great lengths and give subtle warnings that lead up to a climax. Play it as it would happen in MC-1: without apparent logic or connections.

All in all, the events here are just a few hours work for the player character Judges. Assuming, of course, that they can survive those few hours...

ON PATROL

Phase 1: 11.00 - 11.30

The PCs’ patrol commences at 11.00 hours, and initially the Judges are heading North through City Bottom along Memory Lane. The street is temporarily deserted, apart from a small creature sitting atop a street camera — clutching what looks like a very, very powerful thermal grenade! As the PCs approach it, they will see that its wrist is through the pull-ring. If it jerks its arm, the PCs — and thousands of citizens — will have less than four seconds to live.

The creature is a Gribig (see 2000AD Progs 464 & 465) - a small, furry, unbearably cute and highly intelligent little alien pest. The grenade is actually inert, although the PCs aren’t going to know this! Normally, its burst area would have a radius of about a kilometre.

The street camera is simply a pole protruding from the side of a building, about 5 metres above ground level, with several viewing guns mounted at the end. It is slowly swivelling, making it difficult to shoot the Gribig — the only feasible course of action. Any other plan, such as trying to reach the Gribig from a nearby window or using Stumm (Gribigs are immune to Stumm, by the way) — is not to be made for the PCs, will simply result in the creature running away down the street, waving the grenade above its head. The Gribig will simply dodge a clatting net and return to its perch.

Just as the PCs draw a bead, the Gribig and shoot, the creature will leap through an open window about a metre above the pole. You did tell the PCs about the window, didn’t you? Shame. The grenade will fall to the ground — and not explode. The grenade will simply bounce, and then roll around quietly on the pavement, still not exploding.

Gribig

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>S</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>CS</th>
<th>DS</th>
<th>TS</th>
<th>SS</th>
<th>MS</th>
<th>PS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>99</td>
<td>000</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

You must be joking

The Gribig’s attempt to leap through the window will be automatically successful (will, look at its initiative). The PCs will automatically miss the Gribig, although the street camera is a different story. The shot will hit it if the missed the Gribig (the die roll was a failure); if the shot hits one of the moving viewers; or because the Gribig’s leap makes the camera vibrate. Whatever the case, the street camera will explode (this is not the case for the next phase of the patrol) and crash to the street.

Back to the grenade. This is a real grenade with the explosive charge removed. The only obvious way to discover if it is live is to pull the pin. If the PCs ask MAC they will be told that there should not be any live grenades in MC-1. The PCs could call for a Tech Judge, and if they do this they will get lucky — one is nearby.

Renouf will arrive after two minutes on his Lawmaster, examine the grenade for about a second, and then pull out the pin. If he is asked how he knew the grenade was a dud, he will explain that ‘Drok! I didn’t. The shot had started when I was going to look it down the street and run like Sriup!’ The PCs can and should report him for such an irresponsible attitude, gaining EPs for doing so. Control will send some experienced Judges to pick him up, but Renouf will not offer any resistance.

Once the pin has been removed a tiny tag reading ‘Cyn’s War Artifacts’ can be seen. Any Judge checking his roll will remember that Cyn’s is on the other side of the block. Failing that, MAC can give the PCs a list of possible sources of grenades, and Cyn’s is the nearest.

The front door of the shop is wide open, and behind the counter the back room is also open. A few more Gribigs are playing near the dead body of the proprietor, ‘Mad’ Amme Cyn (there are ID papers on his body). His skull has been shattered by a blunt instrument, and he has been dead for about two hours. Only one item is obviously missing from the shop’s stores - taken from a broken glass-fronted display case. A small card identifies the contents as ‘An extremely rare and valuable long range flak gun, c1961. Type UI/RR-05’. MAC can supply information about Amme Cyn: ‘Lives alone in apartment above shop, family killed in Apocalypse War, no known friends or associates; and on the flak gun: Range 350 metres, area burst radius 8 metres. Cyn’s apartment above the shop contains nothing unusual.

Phase 2: 11.31 - 11.59

If the street camera was not destroyed in the incident with the Gribig, ignore this incident and adjust the time of Phase 3 accordingly. At 11.38 a message comes through for the judge who actually shot at the Gribig and destroyed the street camera: ‘Judge (name) of Squad (name of Squad leader), return to sector House and report immediately to Room 201, Floor 17: 11.37... The SJS... Remember? The PCs will...

If the wanted Judge does not leave for the Sector House immediately, the other PCs should be encouraged to make sure that he does so. If he doesn’t reach the Sector House within 10 minutes (which he will, if he leaves immediately), three more messages will arrive in quick succession. The first will be from the Sector Chief, the second from the resident SJS Judge and the third from the Chief Judge — a Rogue Judge is an important matter! These are just warnings, because if it comes to a fight, the player might as well roll up a new character, rather than deal with the full force of Mega-City Justice.

When the PC arrives back at Sector House, the resident SJS Judge and the visitor will be waiting in Room 201, which is dark, forbidding and equipped with a table covered in huge syringes... The PC will be hooked up to a lie detector, and the interview - interrogation - will start. You should make sure that the PC feels really uncomfortable, and that the SJS Judges are played as nasty, harsh, disbelieving and authoritarian figures, who are looking for an excuse to find the PC guilty of something...

You might like to use some or all of the following questions:

How long have you been on the street? Have you ever known a bent Judge? Did you report him? Have you ever thought of performing a crime or breaking regulations? How many perps have you killed? Were the deaths necessary? Why is the camera being turned on you? Why don’t you want us to see you? When did you start damaging Justice Department property, accidentally or otherwise? Have you damaged anybody else’s property? Was it necessary to shoot at the creature? Was it a real grenade? Are you investigating the matter further?

And so on... Eventually, the PC should be released to rejoin his squad at the Boparad in Marc Gascoigne Plaza.

Meanwhile the other PCs should have resumed their patrol. As they pass the William Holden Block, their progress will be halted by a body falling (with appropriate repulsive sound effects) to the ground in front of the lawmasters. To the right of the PCs is an ‘up’ anti-grav chute (with huge arrows painted on the sides indicating the direction) running up the side of the block — and the leaper (if that is what it is) seems to have come from there. If the judges look up at this point, they will see, 105 floors up, another speck in the sky turn into the frantically screaming figure of a falling citizen...

If the PCs look closely at the chute they will see that there are several other figures being carried upwards, that all the chute exits into the block seem to be closed and that yet another citizen has just popped out of a hole in the top of the chute and is plummeting downwards. Calling for H-Wagons is a waste of time, as there are none available in the sector at this time.

There is a control box next to the chute (roll Strength or under on a D4 to open), with a two position switch inside. This is currently in the ‘up’ position, and the PCs may leap to the conclusion that ‘down’ is literally that - but this is one way AG chute, and the down position is actually ‘off’. Turning the switch to ‘off’ will result in the six citizens in the tube dropping back towards the bottom of the chute. The first one to hit bottom after 4 phases and the other six citizens will arrive D10 phases apart. All will be killed in the fall. If one of the PCs tries juggling the switch, it is important to note that the citizens will keep the same vertical spacing as they fall, so turning off the chute for three phases will mean that the lowest citizen will be only 1 phase away from death at the bottom of the tube. The topmost citizen is D4 + 4 phases from the hole at the top of the tube, so the 'juggling' will have to be carefully timed so as not to lose any more lives.

Inside the reception area of William Holden block, sitting behind a desk, is the robot in charge of the AG chutes. It will not respond to any speech or actions. Fortunately, there is a bank of switches labelled 'AG Exit hatches'. Those for chute 3 are in the closed position, so it is a simple matter to open the exits and allow the citizens to escape from the chute into the block. You may deduct EPs if the PCs don't think to open the chute exits from the top downwards - especially if this results in another death.

While the PCs are engaged in trying to sort out the mess, the floor manager of the block, Ernest Boon, will arrive. Boon will be horrified by what is going on, and will tell the PCs that the exits should be open. Boon will further explain that, because the top of the chute was shattered by vandals, the block's managers decided to close the chute exits at night to prevent any criminals getting into the block. Theoretically, the inactive robot should have opened them first thing in the morning.

The PCs may suspect some sort of robot malfunction, but if they closely examine the robot they will realise that it is, in fact, a Botter! Robert Smythe has disabled the genuine robot, hidden it in a storeroom, and taken its place at the desk. Then he lost faith in his ability to fool people, and has simply decided to sit still and do nothing.

Robert Smythe

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>S</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>CS</th>
<th>DS</th>
<th>TS</th>
<th>SS</th>
<th>MS</th>
<th>PS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>21</td>
<td>17</td>
<td>35</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>31</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The PCs can charge Robert with almost nothing from damaging a robot to mass murder, and it should be interesting to see what charges they can come up with!

Phase 3: 12.00 - 12.25

The PCs should meet up in the watching bay overlooking the Marc Gascoigne Plaza, which is packed with citizens waiting to see the Littlehouse Juves give a demonstration of their latest dance. A platform covered in criss-crossed conveyor belts except for a small section in the middle, is set up in the centre of the plaza. A group of dancers in fancy dress appear and leap onto the platform, trying to work their way to the statue in the centre area of the plaza, the preparations, contortions and effort of even trying to stand in one place on the conveyor might be called dancing, and it might catch on - the PCs should be encouraged to decide if this is an activity that might need banning at some point in the future. Eventually, the crowd joins in, leaping onto - and being whacked off - the platform. This goes on for about 10 minutes, and then the scene changes to one of complete carnage.

Around the platform appears the dome of a force field, and as a juve topples into it, she screams horribly as she is consumed. Each combat round after the force field goes up, D6 juves are incinerated as they fall over on the belts and are carried into the field, and the dancers panic as they see the fate that awaits them if they don't reach the safety of the centre section. The PCs will be able to do little, other than move down from the watching bay towards the platform. Once the dancers have been 'thinned out' (after three combat rounds) the PCs will be able to see the cause of the havoc.

Standing on the steady area of the platform, and pushing off anybody else who reaches it - is a juve (not in fancy dress and wearing a T-Shirt with 'Roy Hattersley Block Revivalist Dancers' on it). Any PC making a TS roll will realise that he is holding a Remote Activation Unit for a force shield - a fairly rare item in MC-1. Destroying this will result in the shield's deactivation.

Kane Lansky

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>S</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>CS</th>
<th>DS</th>
<th>TS</th>
<th>SS</th>
<th>MS</th>
<th>PS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>32</td>
<td>20</td>
<td>23</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>43</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Special Ability: Sector Knowledge

If the PCs think of shooting the juve, bullets will simply not penetrate the shield. Just keep telling them that solid matter cannot penetrate the shield until they think of using a Lawmaster's Cyclops Laser. Any laser shots will suffer a -30% penalty thanks to the shield's deflection effects.

If the shot hits the activation unit the shield will drop, although a near miss (your discretion) could be ruled to make Lansky drop the unit into the conveyor belts, where it will be chewed to pieces by the motors.

Whether the shot misses or not, two rounds later several H-Wagons will come screeching down out of the sky and spray the whole plaza (including the PCs) in riot foam. If the shield is still up, the H-Wagons will bring their lasers to bear on the perp, with somewhat devastating results!

The H-Wagon crews will dig the PCs out first and if Lansky is still alive there will be little trouble in digging him out as well. He is simply a sworn enemy of the Littlehouse Juves - but this leaves open the question of where he found the shield generator. His answer of 'Found it...' is perfect-ly true, even to a lie detector.

This answer is also so unlikely, however, that it can't be true - and it isn't the whole story. The unit was deliberately left in a spot where it would be found by an adult enemy of the Littlehouse Juves, along with a note explaining how to use it. Lansky can't read, so he ignored the note - and can't even remember it. A Psi Judge will be able to find memories of the note in his unconsciousness. There is no way of tracing the original perp, as all fingerprints have been obliterated and the unit was in his possession for long enough for a Psi to pick up an image from it.

After this incident, the PCs may resume their patrol, hopefully not much later than 12.25.

Phase 4: 12.26 - 13.00

As the judges leave Marc Gascoigne Plaza and head off past Walt Disney block, a message comes in from the Sector House:

Emergency! Judge needs assistance. All squads in vicinity of Horst Wessel, Walt Disney, and Pik Botha blocks, proceed immediately to Temporal Biological Research Laboratory OA S23. Armed Futsies. Judges have been wounded.

The PCs are two minutes away from the Lab. MAC has extensive files on the Lab, which was set up to work on the problem of re-evolving the citizens of the Charles Darwin Block, after Professor E Northcote Fribs reversed evolution enzyme leaked into the block (see 2000AD 184 & 185). Research has carried out in the hope of curing the citizens and re-evolving Fribs (now a giant amoeba) so that he can serve his sentence. The research scientists were on a lunch break when the futsies arrived.

The front doors of the building are wide open. Judge Bracken and his squad are under cover behind a jugger (see JD p72), but the futsies have a clear view of the doors so they have been unable to leave. Only one of Squad Bracken's Zippers is still in one piece; the others have been destroyed.

Judge Bracken

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>S</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>CS</th>
<th>DS</th>
<th>TS</th>
<th>SS</th>
<th>MS</th>
<th>PS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>30</td>
<td>38</td>
<td>52</td>
<td>32</td>
<td>22</td>
<td>28</td>
<td>26</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Special Ability: Fast Mount, Control Spin
A DAY IN THE LIFE OF SECTOR 255

The contents into the gun. This will cause the gun to explode, covering Sors in Friib's enzyme - and possibly (4%) anybody else in the Lab as well. Those affected will immediately start to de-evolve into lower forms of life.

There are, however, some problems in dealing with Sors. The cages in front of him hold former citizens from the Charles Darwin bock, now de-evolved into monkey-types, lizards, the odd bipedal worm and some rodents. Heat-seekers will home in on them rather than Sors, and if the PCs don't realize the nature of what is in the cages, Bracken or one of her squad will point out that the creatures are innocent citizens who have a chance of being re-evolved. They are therefore not to be killed out of hand in the hope of getting Sors. The futsie is, of course, under no such obligation to protect the lives of the de-evolved citizens.

The rest of the equipment in the Lab is extremely valuable, in particular the Med-Computer and the prototype Re-Evolving Machine. You should feel free to set Acc-Div on PCs who damage/destroy the research laboratory to any degree.

Phase 5: 13.01 - 13.30

The next item on the agenda is the crime blitz on Duffy's "Round the Bend" mo-pad. Sector control will remind the PCs of the 'appointment', and direct them to the junction between Rick Priestley and Stan Laurel Skewdays. The big orange mo-pad will sweep past as they sit on their Lawmasters, without stopping (obviously, as Citizen Duffy doesn't know that he is about to be blitzed).

Chasing the mo-pad is no problem, as it is on a fixed course and speed (210kph), and the Lawmasters can be put on automatic to follow and match its progress. However, the mo-pad has no porch, so somebody must knock on the door (a DS roll to succeed) to get Duffy's attention.

The door will be answered by a small, happy-looking man, who will immediately invite the PCs into his home, which is rather luxurious and comfortable for a mo-pad (Duffy is actually quite well-off). He has a good outlook and a happy disposition, and will immediately ask if this is a Crime Blitz. When told that it is, he will sigh and say 'Errr. Well, I may as well save you the bother. There's a box of sugar in the cupboard in the kitchen - I like it in my synthi-synth and, ummm, well, I don't know how much you can, err... find out, but I was doing about an hour ago... Like I say, I don't know what you know, but I'm an umm honest citizen and do my best. Errr... sorry.'

Putting a lie detector on Duffy will show that he is telling the absolute truth. The confession may well make the PCs suspicious, but go over the mo-pad with a (very fine) tooth comb will produce nothing else at all. That remains is to sentence Duffy and leave.

However, the Lawmasters will not be there when the PCs try to leave the mo-pad. One can be see in the grabber of a Big Mo mobile service station. It is a relatively simple matter to order the Big Mo to stop via a helmet radio pad. Once it is stopped, the robot in charge will be very apologetic, and claim that he had orders from 'Judge Glisten' to collect the bikes from the side of the mo-pad. You don't need telling that there isn't a 'Judge Glisten' in Sector 255, do you? The robot will offer them all a service anyway, now that they are here.

As they are clearing up this confusion, the 'laser detector thingy' will beep and indicator will point into the midst of a group of mo-pads going past on the other side of the sked. From here, run this as a normal chase. Each PC will have to mount his or her Lawmaster, let it down from the side of the Big Mo and then they can begin the pursuit. The PCs have only two minutes until the race is gone. The indicator could have been pointing at one of three vehicles which are 370 metres ahead of the PCs and travelling at 200 metres per second. As the PCs get closer, one of the mo-pads, a green Don Juan Roadhugger, will slew sideways and decelerate, in the hope that a PC will be just a little too close! If there is a PC close enough (a DS roll, at the GM's discretion), he or she should make a DS roll and avoid a collision. The driver of the mo-pad, Russell T'bag, will drive erratically and make life as difficult as possible for his pursuers. If he fails a DS roll and ends up crashing off the skedway and down to the city below, fine! This will be a case without any explanation for the PCs.

Russell T'bag

S I CS DS TS SS MS PS
1 31 20 24 99 99 12 5 7

Special Ability: Perfection in anything technical - this is not just a person with a lot of special abilities, this is a genius.

In the event that the mo-pad is boarded, the first PC will be attacked by Russell with an electro-prod. He is very scared, but he will reveal nothing at all, under any circumstances short of full torture - and PCs who indulge in this should be reported immediately!

Behind a locked door at the back of the mo-pad is a small room with a computer terminal in it. The disk drives are active as the PCs enter, and

---

Judge Curry

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>S</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>CS</th>
<th>DS</th>
<th>TS</th>
<th>SS</th>
<th>MS</th>
<th>PS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>24</td>
<td>28</td>
<td>30</td>
<td>26</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>18</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Curry has been wounded in the head.

Judge Folan

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>S</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>CS</th>
<th>DS</th>
<th>TS</th>
<th>SS</th>
<th>MS</th>
<th>PS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>19</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>17</td>
<td>19</td>
<td>22</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>18</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Folan has a chest wound.

Judge Greene

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>S</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>CS</th>
<th>DS</th>
<th>TS</th>
<th>SS</th>
<th>MS</th>
<th>PS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>0</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Greene has been hit in the head and in the abdomen, and needs urgent medical attention.

The perp, Tobin Sors, is hidden behind a set of shelves which gives him 50% armour overall, although he wears no other protection. You should play Sors as a complete loony, who keeps up a constant monologue about how he is going to take over the whole city, free all the Unpeps and Can-dy bars, and kill everybody. He is quite happy to let the PCs into the building, so that they can talk to Bracken and the other Judges, but he will fire his gun (the flak gun from Cyn's) should the PCs try to leave or if they get too close - within 15 metres or so.

Tobin Sors

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>S</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>CS</th>
<th>DS</th>
<th>TS</th>
<th>SS</th>
<th>MS</th>
<th>PS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>22</td>
<td>44</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>48</td>
<td>17</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Special Ability: Knock Out and Weapons Knowledge

Weapons Knowledge is a new T5 ability that gives a thorough working knowledge of most weapons and allows expert alterations and expansions to be made to a weapon. Sors, for example, has modified some spit gun ammunition for the flak gun, which gives a +2 effect modifier.

The battle should be fairly straightforward to run. Sors has only 8 rounds for the flak gun (range 350m, burst area 8m). When he has only one round left, he will grab one of the jags in front of him and pour then the screen lights up and there is a Wiffle... as Russel T's bag's concealed laser goes into action. You may like to choose to have Duffy's mop-pad blow up a moment later... This depends on whether or not your players are psychopaths who appreciate the little guy getting it in the back of the neck.

The disks in the computer are labelled as 'Traffic Data' and 'Satellite Path & Main Program'. A TS roll (+10% bonus) will enable a PC to work out that the program calculates the position of Communications Satellite OD-155/173 and fires the laser at it. A second TS roll - and accessing the 'Traffic Data'--will show that the program actually bounces the laser off OD-155/173 and then hits a mop-pad, destroying it utterly. Russell is a technological show-off, and on the few occasions when he has hit the satellite, it was because he meant to do so. Even more impressive than the skill used to destroy his fellow mop-padders, is the fact that T's bag is able to take power from the Skyrail tracks by radio wave! T's bag is also responsible for the false message telling the Big Mo to take the Lawmasters in for servicing.

T's bag may be a genius, but is also guilty of the murders of eight Tech Judges, the destruction of 67 mo-pads and their occupants, impersonating a Judge, power theft from the Skyrail tracks and dangerous driving.

Phase 6: 13.31 - 14.00

When T's bag has been sentenced, killed or whatever, the PCs may realise that they are a little off their patrol route. If they report in, they will be told to return to their assigned route immediately.

As they do so, they will hear coming from a crowded pedestrian way: 'Call me SIR, Punk, or it's knee-popping time! Right! Hold it Creep...' 'BLAM! BLAM! Sorry for him are you? Well, you're scum as well! BLAM! Leaving the scene of the crime, huh? OK! RAPIDFIRE!' BUDDABUDDABUDDABUDDA! As Judge Dredd makes an arrest in his own inimitable style. Gradually, however, the PCs may realise something is wrong when the firing doesn't stop and the crowd begins to panic.

The PCs will then see Dredd emerge from the crowd, run east, pick up a citizen by the scruff of the neck, shake him, and shoot him through the head! If they still don't realise that something is seriously wrong, Dredd will go through the whole procedure again with another terrified and apparently innocent citizen.

'Judge Dredd' is actually one of eight 'Call-Me-Sir' androids, unveiled by the Friends of Dredd at their meeting at Marvin Gaya. The 'Dredds' are exact copies of the FoD's hero, even down to the programming to uphold the Law. Unfortunately, their programming is a little bit too literal, so anybody and everybody is a Lawbreaker in the visual scanners of the androids.

'Call-Me-Sir' Judge Dredd Android

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>S</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>CS</th>
<th>DS</th>
<th>TS</th>
<th>SS</th>
<th>MS</th>
<th>PS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>35</td>
<td>35</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>000</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The android will not listen to reason, and will attack any PCs who try to restrain it - claiming that they are Rogue Judges in Dredd's loudest tones. Further fun (for you) can be added to this incident by having another squad of Judges arrive (use the statistics of Bracken's squad, but without the wounds) and misinterpret the PCs actions as an attack on Judge Dredd!

Calling the Sector House will clear up some of the confusion. They will immediately call off the second squad of Judges. Fortunately, five of the robots - including this one - have been traced, but there are still three somewhere out there... You may like to add extra encounters with the mad androids over the next few days of your campaign or to this patrol. The PCs might get called in to protect some genuine criminals (they have rights to imprisonment, you know) from the Call-Me-Sir androids, or they might get assigned to watch Dredd's back when the word gets out that 'he has gone Rogue...'.

'AS WE COME TO THE END OF A PERFECT DAY...':

This adventure should reflect the irrelevancies and confusion of a series of everyday incidents in MC-1. EP awards depend on how your players coped with everything that was going on, but an average award of 65 is probably in order.

The adventure may also be continued as another patrol and/or expanded into several full cases. Some of the Call-Me-Sir androids are still on the street... Citizen Duffy might still be cruising the roads (slightly under the speed limit, of course) and may turn his hand to crime now that he has a record and everything... The Friends of Dredd are all now safely tucked away in Kook cubicles, but supposing that there are still one or two of them out there, building another set of Call-Me-Sir Dredds - improved, tougher, more Law-abiding models... There is also the mysterious character who left the shield generator for Lansky to find... A technical genius like Russell T's bag is hardly likely to be confined for long... And then there are the Griblgs; your PCs didn't catch them? They are breeding even as you read this...
YU ARE THE LAW IN MEGA-CITY ONE!

THE GAME OF CRIME-FIGHTING IN MEGA-CITY ONE

Mega-City One, where more than 400 million citizens live on a knife-edge of tension. Crime is a way of life for many, but one fact can be relied on - Judge Dredd is the Law! Whether the crime is littering or murder, no one escapes his justice. Now you can join Judge Dredd in this fast-action board game of crime-fighting in Mega-City One. You can arrest the Angel Gang, Judge Death, and other notorious lawbreakers - but look out, they're tough, and sometimes you might need a robocow to fix you up.

THE ROLE-PLAYING GAME

In Judge Dredd - The Role-Playing Game you become a Judge and strive to uphold the law in a city of over 400 million (every one a potential criminal). This is a game playable by upwards of two players plus a controlling Game Master who acts as the players' guide, taking them from adventure to adventure in their relentless battle against crime. Special game features include:

- Judge's Manual covering all you need to know about creating your own Judge character, developing special abilities, and using all of the Judges' equipment such as the Lawgiver, Lawmaster, etc.
- Game Master's Book giving special rules for running the game, detailing the Mega-City, city blocks, perps, etc. A unique collection of information about Mega-City One culled from the pages of 2000 AD and assembled into one package. Includes a guide to the crimes, perps and even slang of the 22nd century!
- Plus/Out Character sheet with over 60 stand-up card characters for you to use with the game. 2 play sheets and a set of polyhedral dice.

JUDGEMENT DAY THE FIRST ADVENTURE PACK FOR JUDGE DREDD THE ROLE-PLAYING GAME

Judgement Day contains a complete scenario for the Judge Dredd game. As a team of Judges temporarily assigned to the SJS, the players pursue a trail of mystery to the prison colony of Titan. They will learn of the terrors in store for the inhabitants of Mega-City One, before they return to earth to face one of 2000 AD's greatest villains in a cataclysmic fight to the finish! Look out for future Judge Dredd Scenarios.

GAMES WORKSHOP

FOR ACCESS & VISA ORDERS RING THE MAIL-ORDER HOTLINES ON (0773) 768522/760462
Of Mice and Marines

Aliens (Fox, 18): they’re coming out of the ventilation shafts on colony planet LV-426. Only one woman on Earth knows anything about them — and the Company doesn’t believe her. Still, they send in the marines, and Ripley (Sigourney Weaver) too, thank goodness. Adrenalin surges. The aliens win round one, after which Ripley takes over. There ensues the most exhilarating mayhem these tired eyes have ever seen. James Cameron, who directed The Terminator (and co-wrote Rambo), has transposed the concept of Ridley Scott’s creepy original into a film full of menace, conflict, zip and zap. Oh, and big machines. There may be only one real character in it this time, but she’s magnificent, and the others support her perfectly.

We really should celebrate the number of strong and capable heroines there are in fantastic cinema today. Macho men are having a harder time of it. Jake Speed (Entertainment, 15) is actor-producer Wayne Crawford’s idea of a new adventurer-hero after Indiana Jones — a long, long way after. Speed, played by Crawford, is supposed to be the star of a pulp paperback series, like the Saint or Doc Savage. No one knows he’s real until he turns up offering to find an abducted teenager, having been persuaded to take the case by his sidekick, who reckons it will make good material for the next book. The film makers seem to be in some uncertainty whether this is a joke or not. Actually, the film makers seem to be in a great deal of uncertainty altogether. Until John Hurt turns up, having fun being a sleazy villain, the cast hang about, wondering what to say to each other. The result is the dullest and least speedy caper movie ever.

Elsewhere, Kurt Russell does a good job of self-parody in John Carpenter’s unexpectedly enjoyable Big Trouble in Little China (Fox, PG). Russell plays a red-necked, ham-fisted trucker who stumbles into an infernal battle of ancient wizardry and spends the rest of the movie trying to catch up. A 2000-year-old evil magician has kidnapped his buddy’s fiancée, there’s a clueless reporter hanging on his arm, and worst of all, he’s lost his truck. Carpenter’s been watching those cheap Chinese movies where the plot has to dodge between marital arts and special effects. His version is better financed and technically slicker, and sensibly uses a lot of Chinese talent on and off screen. Ameable nonsense, delivered with panache by fearsome demons and flying swordsmen; and the jokes work. Wayne Crawford should take notes.

Another nice surprise is the latest cartoon feature from Disney, Basil the Great Mouse Detective (Disney, U). This is a rodent Sherlock Holmes with Vincent Price as the villainous Professor Ratigan, a singing psychotic crimelord rat who feeds unruly henchmen to his enormous pet kitten. The irony is turned up, the sentimentality down — and there’s even a (modestly) sexy bit. After their dismal fudge of The Black Cauldron, it’s good to see the Disney studios taking a step, however cautious, towards the world of animation as it is today. The style is looser and more vigorous, and, in a climactic fight inside Big Ben, effectively amalgamates computer-drawn clockwork with hand-drawn characters.

Haunted Honeymoon (Orion, PG) is Gene Wilder’s fond compilation of elements from scary old movies like The Cat and the Canary, The Old Dark House and Dead of Night. Unfortunately the result is (a) just another Gene Wilder movie, and (b) a mess. Far too many characters, each trailing abortive sub-plots, assemble at the spooky Abbot family mansion on a stormy night in 1939. Amid Wilder’s overindulgence in timid, repetitive gags, it’s hard to sort out who’s plotting with whom to bump off who else, and harder still to care. Only an admirably unpredictable performance from Dom DeLuise as wacky old Aunt Kate puts any kind of edge on the silliness at all.

Director Stephen Herek claims that Critics (Palace, 15) was originally written years before Gremlins. This tale of tiny, toothy golems from outer space chewing up the Brown residence in Growers Bend, Kansas (‘The Jewel of the Sunflower State’) certainly invites the comparison; but in fact, whereas Gremlins left me with a headache, grousing, Critics scuttled by quite pleasantly. Nothing really stands out, despite M. Emmet Walsh as the sweaty sheriff, and a scene wherein a couple of Heavy Metal bounty hunters blow away a Baptist church, but the film actually thinks through how the Browns react, as a family, to the anti-social little aliens.

Haunted Honeymoon and Critics send up different aspects of the genre of horror, demonstrating once more how few horror films these days have the courage to take themselves seriously. Finest of the few is Day of the Dead (Media Releasing, 18), third in George Romero’s projected tetralogy about the zombie plague. As the brain-eating Dead shake the fences overhead, deep in the security bunker scientists work feverishly to discover the cause while soldiers detailed to guard them shift mutinuously. Organized around a tough performance by Lori Cardille as the determined research leader, the movie is as much a study of the several inhumanities of science and the military as it is a feast of gore and putrefaction. After all, disemberwelling is only one way, the most literal, of taking people apart.
DWARFS

- Mordin
- Kazgar
- Zircon
- Bardin
- Dimbur
- Kostakh
- Fastur the Faceless
- Dorgath
- D5 Imperial Dwarfs £1.50 for 3
- Menukh
- Morkad
- Kargan Ironhead

LELGAS

- ME2 Fellowship Heroes
  - £1.95 for 3
  - Gimli

BORGIR

- ME51 Orcs of the Red Eye
  - £1.95 for 3

Advanced Dungeons & Dragons Miniatures

- ADD32 Dwarf Villagers
  - £1.95 for 3
- ADD40 Men-at-Arms
  - £1.95 for 3

PARANOIA

- Para 1 Paranoia Guards
  - £1.95 for 4
  - Robots are supplied as two halves, randomly assorted.
  - Trooper
  - Trooper Firing
  - Officer
  - Bucker
  - Tomker-Bee
  - Jonk-R-Ter
  - Flashgo-R-Den
  - Barb-R-Ela
  - Ollly-Var

LIMITED EDITION

- LE14 Tinman & Oxy O'cetylene
  - £1.50 pair.

CHOOSING BASES FOR MINIATURES

- Metal miniature bases are available at an additional cost of 3p each base.
- Additional plastic bases can be supplied at an additional cost of 3p each base.
- Additional bases are supplied at an additional cost of 3p each base.

Dungeons & Dragons

- Miniatures and Advanced Dungeons & Dragons from TSR Inc. are a range of miniature products produced under license. The name and logos of the company involved are a trademark owned by and licensed under license from TSR Inc. The company involved is not responsible for the content of this document. All rights reserved. © 1988 TSR Inc.
NEW CITADEL

JUDGE DREDD MINIATURES

JD4 MEGA-CITY ONE JUDGES £1.95 for 3

HERSHEY BAMBRA
GALLAGHER

ADD64 TROGLODYTES £1.95 for 3

models supplied with random head variants.

ADD79 MIND FLAYERS £1.95 for 3

models supplied with random head variants.

DRAGONS

C29 YOUNG FIRE DRAGON £1.95

ORCS

EMOTIONAL ORC ORC HAG ORSHMAN
ORC MUGGER
ORC RUNNER PUNCHED ORC DRUNK ORC DUO PUNCHING ORC
ORC GLUTTON MOTHER & BRAT

C15 ORC VILLAGERS £1.95 for 4

NIGHT HORRORS

WEREMAN VAMPIRE GHOST
WRAITH with SICKLE
WRAITH with SCYTHE
WIGHT ATTACKING
WIGHT

WEREBOAR DEVIL

WITCH with BROOM GOLEM WOLFMAN

MEDUSA
DEMON

C18 NIGHT HORRORS £1.95 for 4

AVAILABLE NOW FROM YOUR LOCAL RETAILER OR IN CASE OF DIFFICULTY CONTACT CITADEL MINIATURES, CHEWTON STREET, HILL TOP, EASTWOOD, NOTTINGHAM NG16 3HY

HOW TO MAIL ORDER

Make cheques payable to: Games Workshop Ltd.
Or direct debit card instructions, add 25% for carriage.
Other Overseas add 55% for carriage.

Send your Mail Order & Cheque to: Games Workshop Mail Order Ltd., Chewton Street, Hill Top, Eastwood, Nottingham, NG16 3HY

HOW TO TELEPHONE ORDER

Simply and quickly telephone your order direct to us on numbers: 07734 769922 or 07734 769923

BARCLAYCARD

VISA

ACCESS

Judge Dredd Miniatures are based upon the 2000AD magazine and are produced under license from IPC Magazines Ltd. All names and characters are © IPC Magazines Ltd., 1986. All Rights Reserved.

© 1986 Tolkien Enterprises. THE HOBBIT™ and THE LORD OF THE RINGS™ and all the characters and places therein are trademark properties of Tolkien Enterprises, a division of Eon Merchandising Inc., Berkeley California. No unauthorised use permitted.
A TUBE WITH A VIEW: Why are there strange noises coming from a suspicious-looking machine that looks like a dryer? What are the.documents, or biological threats? Is it part of a secret society plot, or worse? The action could all take place inside a power station, perhaps even inside a pre-Ruin complex. The characters include a Special Security Controller, the Internal Security Controller, a Troubleshotter, and a Citizen. What if they all fall ill due to a plague of food-poisoning? Can you help them get some Troubleshotters to cover for them while they recover?

MIAMI LASER II: Now we have a transport system, we're bound to get strange noise problems from the mouths of innocent PCs.

JUST ONE CORNET: Say, do you remember those Customs agents? They went sick, it seems to have been food-poisoning. How did those Troubleshotters get there? Did they have any experience? Personally, I want to know which one is going to book that Violet for speeding...

TA-RA MAC 1: A regular epidemic of food-poisoning has hit Alpha Complex. Now the road maintenance men have all gone sick. What can happen next?
Another major issue, the presence of a large number of computer terminals, is that it is difficult to maintain a consistent level of security. When a user logs in to a terminal, they are presented with a list of files that can be accessed. This list is generated by a program, known as the "terminal server," which is responsible for managing the user's access to the system. The terminal server is a critical component of the security system, and its failure can result in a breach of security.

To address this issue, the terminal server must be designed with a high level of security in mind. This includes the use of strong encryption algorithms to protect the data transferred between the terminal server and the user's terminal. Additionally, the terminal server must be able to authenticate the user's identity before granting access to the system.

In addition to these technical measures, it is also important to have a well-defined security policy in place. This policy should outline the procedures that users should follow when accessing the system, as well as the consequences of non-compliance. By combining strong technical measures with a well-defined security policy, it is possible to create a secure and reliable environment for the use of computer terminals.

One-way tickets

The use of one-way tickets, also known as "single-use tickets," can also help to enhance security. These tickets are designed to be used only once, and they are automatically deleted from the system after they are used. This makes it difficult for unauthorized users to gain access to the system, even if they manage to obtain a ticket.

In order to ensure that one-way tickets are used correctly, it is important to implement a robust ticketing system. This system should be designed to prevent users from reselling or sharing their tickets, and it should also be able to track the use of each ticket to ensure that it is used only once.

Overall, the use of computer terminals requires careful planning and management in order to ensure that the system is secure and reliable. By combining strong technical measures with a well-defined security policy and the use of one-way tickets, it is possible to create a secure and reliable environment for the use of computer terminals.
The complete guide to the world of LONE WOLF and GREY STAR

JOE DEVER & GARY CHALK

THE MAGNAMUND COMPANION

A superb, fully-illustrated encyclopaedia of the fantastic world of Magnamund which includes –

☆ THE AGES OF MAGNAMUND
An exciting world history with detailed colour maps & charts

☆ THE KAI LORDS
The full story including a cut-away illustration of their monastery

☆ THE DARKLORDS
Their purpose and rise to power plus detail of the creatures of Helgedad

☆ THE REALMS OF MAGNAMUND
Over 70 nations; their leaders, populations, resources and brief histories

☆ RAGADORN TAVERN
A multi-player game with colour gameboard, counters and scenarios

☆ SOMMERLUND
The story of Lone Wolf's homeland; its army and heroes

☆ MODELLING MAGNAMUND
Colour photographs and tips for constructing three great modelling projects

☆ GIAKS
Details of these ferocious fighters plus their language; how to speak, write & read it

☆ SOMMLENDING TALES
Three short stories about the adventures of three Sommlending boys

☆ 'DAWN OF THE DARKLORDS'
An exciting solo adventure in which you are the hero

ONLY £6.95
FROM ALL GOOD GAMESTORES AND BOOKSHOPS... NOW!

BEAVER BOOKS
A DIVISION OF CENTURY HUTCHINSON LTD.

ALSO WAR OF THE WIZARDS
Ian Page and Joe Dever
AN EPIC CLIMAX TO THE GREY STAR SERIES. OUT NOW
£2.25
A MIDST all the rule revisions and proliferations in Unearthed Arcana, one element of Advanced Dungeons & Dragons which badly needed revising got overlooked - the issue of how characters gain experience levels. The system as it stands is that characters must train for 1-4 weeks to gain a level (the better the character is played, the shorter the time) at a base cost of 1,500gp per current experience level per week. This usually involves a trainer, but for characters who have been played in an 'excellent' or 'superior' manner, self-tuition (which takes double the time and is therefore double the cost) is possible. At 'name' level, characters no longer need a trainer, and the cost of training varies as a function of the character class.

This system has a large number of shortcomings. First, it makes gaining experience levels impossibly expensive for low-level characters. A first-level thief requires 1,251xps to qualify for second level, and even if the thief has been played excellently the gp cost exceeds the xp award. If the thief was merely played in a 'superior' manner, that's 3,000gp to cough up. Unless the GM gives a low xp-for-gp ratio in awarding experience, and is pretty generous with the monster's treasure hordes, the thief simply won't be able to afford the training. Poor reward for a vulnerable first-level character who has been played excellently or in a superior manner, it seems to me. Other classes don't get off lightly, either; the cleric, needing 1,501xps for second level, may also struggle, and the fighter, needing 2,001xps, can forget the 400gp he was hoping to put by for a suit of plate mail to replace the chain mail he (probably) started out with.

Where it gets positively ridiculous, of course, is when characters qualify for third level; because, in the case of every major character class, the xp increment needed to gain third level is exactly the same as that needed to gain second level while the training cost doubles. The thief again needs 1,250 more xps to reach third level, but the (absolute minimum) training cost has jumped from 1,500gp to 3,000gp! If GMs played training costs by the rules in the Dungeon Master's Guide, it's likely that no character would be able to afford training for the third level until long after the xp total qualifies him or her for it. And this assumes that the GM is being reasonable about how well characters have been role-played. If the GM rates a player's running of a character as 'fair, more norm than deviations' (and isn't that an accurate description of many first-level characters played by inexperienced players?), our thief needing an extra 1,251xps for second, and again for third level, would have to pay training costs of 4,500gp for the second level and a staggering 9,000gp for the third. It's pretty clear that the official system is unplayable. Before trying to correct the problems, one central question needs considering; just what is a character learning anyway? Answering that gives us the building blocks for constructing a superior system for determining training costs.

Broadly, there are five major characteristics which change as level does. These are: hit points; mastery of magic; special abilities (notably for monks and druids); new weapon proficiencies; and improvements in hit rolls and saving throws (which change in parallel). Cavaliers and paladins also change ability scores, and barbarians have a rather dubious easing of restrictions with respect to use of magic and the like.

Some of these (eg gaining a new weapon proficiency) seem to be more obviously linked with the idea of training than others (eg gaining another hit die). Yet all of them involve improvements in the character's powers and can plausibly be linked with training. Consider the matter of hit points: a 10th-level fighter with a decent Con score will have more hit points than the average rhino, but obviously this doesn't mean that the fighter can literally take more physical damage than a rhino before falling down. The abstraction of 'hit point total' includes such things as luckily dodging blows, taking a graze where the same blow might kill at a lower level and so on. This could have a lot to do with training - learning how to avoid blows and the like. The point I'm making is that a rational system for determining training costs should be developed by deciding what characters learn and how they change and improve as they gain levels, and exactly what it is that training does for them - this isn't necessarily obvious. Each GM should consider these issues for himself - the system I'm about to suggest is just my idea, other GMs are encouraged to develop their own systems.

In this system, I discard two elements of the DMG scheme entirely. First, self-tuition is not possible (it's so costly as to be virtually impossible for lower-level characters in the official system anyway). This is largely because I like to use training as a way of developing PC/NPC contacts, a point I'll come back to later. Second, training costs do not vary as a function of how well-played I perceive characters to have been. For the life of me, I cannot see why a fighter whose alignment has strayed a little from time to time should have more trouble learning to use a longsword in training than a paragon of virtue. I prefer subtler ways of rewarding well-played characters and providing incentive for others to improve.

The system considers six elements. The first is the current experience level of the character (any system will use this). The second is base cost, which is tied to the first element. The third is spell gains, applicable to spellcaster character classes. The fourth is special ability gains, which can be very tricky to formulate, for reasons we'll discuss later. The fifth is weapon proficiencies gained, and the last is what we may term matrix jumps, level gains where the hit rolls and saving throws of the character change. My system (like any other) makes arbitrary assumptions, and is empirically derived to be affordable for characters - but still a stiff clout in the swagbag for many. The main difference from the official system is twofold. First, low-level characters can afford training. Second, training costs do not increase in a regular manner as the level to be gained increases, sometimes, it can actually be cheaper to gain a higher level than a lower one. As we'll now see, there are excellent reasons for this.

The base cost (B) I built into the system was 500gp + 150 x (current level)^2. It looks ugly, but it works; Table 1 shows that it keeps pace with the xp gain characters need for gaining levels, and the use of the square keeps reasonably low for low-level characters while increasing it sharply for higher-level characters who can afford it. B is a factor which covers expenses for all nonspecific aspects of training, and clearly to justify the increases training must take longer at higher levels - another point to come back to. But now the extras come in.

The first of these is spell gains (SG). There are two parts to this. The first is to consider whether the spellcasting character is gaining any spells of higher level than he/she could previously cast. The cost for this is high, reflecting the greater training necessary for mastering this new skill; the cost is, in gp, 150 x (level of spell gained)^2. Again, use of the square keeps costs down for low-level characters while making higher-level ones pay for gaining increasingly powerful magic. The second part is that a spellcaster may (also) gain an extra spell or two of a level which is already used (of course second-level cleric gains an additional first-level spell), and the cost for this is cheaper (in gp, 50 x (character level) x (spell level)). The charges given apply for clerics and druids (and ranger use of druidic magic); magic-users' and illusionists' spells (and ranger use of MU spells) are charged at double these rates. There is both logic and balance in this. The logic is that clerics and druids master spells at least in part by the power of faith and the aid of their deities, assistance which the MU and illusionist don't have. The balance factor is that MUs and illusionists don't have to pay so much for other elements in training (ie, proficiency gains and matrix jumps), so that a balance is struck across character classes.

Special ability gains (SA) are tricky. The special abilities gained by the druid at third and seventh levels are not charged for, because the PHB states that they are innate and the druid has to pay heavy charges (as a percentage of his total treasure) anyway. Likewise, charging for thief backstab gains would ruin a fourth-level thief trying to pay for training to gain fifth level (see Table 1). Further, continuous developments of talents like the cavalier/paladin gaining of dexterity, strength and constitution, and the ranger's increased damage bonus against giant-class enemies, don't seem to me to be discrete SA gains. What does qualify, though, is the gaining of multiple attacks per melee round by fighters and fighter subclasses, which is a hefty increase in offensive potential and seems linked training-derived skills. The paladin's acquired ability to turn Undead, gained at third level, also seems a discrete and powerful ability gain and is likewise charged for. Many of the abilities gained by barbarians (being able to strike enemies only normally hit by magic weapons, etc) also seem fair candidates for a hefty charge. The real problem is the monk, of course. AC improvements, faster movement rates, multiple open-hand attacks, and the special abilities listed A-K in the PHB. To avoid hammering lower-level monks with excessive training costs, only the A-K abilities are charged in the final system. The charge for gaining any SA is steep, fixed at gp cost of 500 x 100 x (current level)^2. One arguable weakness is that I have counted all the diverse SA gains as above equal, but obviously some are more powerful than others. A fighter gaining an extra melee strike every two rounds has gained rather more than a monk who can induce catalepsy in his/her body, in my view. But to fix different charges for all the different SA gains above would have been to introduce too many personal and arbitrary opinions, and different GMs can make their own decisions on this and adjust the SA charges in Table 1 accordingly.

For Weapon proficiency gains (WP) I charge a flat rate, 1,000gp, more than this is not affordable by lower-level characters. I can't see any justification for increasing this as level increases; there seems to be no reason why a seventh-level MU should have any more trouble mastering the use of a quarterstaff than a first-level one. So a flat charge it is, and, as it has to be affordable for low-level characters, 1,000gp fits the bill.

Finally, matrix jumps (MJ). The cost here is 100 x (current level)^2 in gps. This could well be higher, but again the problem for low-level characters precludes an increase. One specific oddity is the monk, the only character class for whom hit rolls (every three levels gained) and saving throws (every four levels gained) improve at different rates; if half an MJ is involved, just charge half the normal amount. Easy.

Looking over Table 1, there are problems which remain. Clerics and druids are going to stay poor at low levels, but this seems inevitable in almost any system which fixes training costs as a function of what characters gain. For the cleric the problem is caused by the relatively low xp gains needed to gain second and third levels, whereas for the druid the problem is caused by the tremendous gains in spell power this class makes when the third experience level is achieved. Obviously some character classes have to pay a much higher percentage of their treasure for training than others - but that's reflective of the fact that, in AD&D, certain classes (most strikingly the druid and, to a lesser extent, the thief) need many fewer xps to gain levels than other classes (the monk and barbarian).

What looks odd is the fact that training costs can fail sometimes as the experience level to be gained increases. Well, why not? A sixth-level cleric training to be seventh level finds that his hit rolls and saving throws improve and he can now make his fourth level spell (two with 18 wisdom; note that the system does not charge extra for bonus spells gained through high wisdom since this is a function of the individual and not his/her training). A seventh-level cleric training to be eighth level gains four spell levels (a first and third level spell) but no new level of spell, and no improvements to hit rolls or saving throws. Why shouldn’t the sixth-level cleric pay more? He gets a lot more for his money, after all.

A final word of warning: it is still the case in Table 1 that the cost of training can sometimes exceed the xp gain needed to qualify for an extra experience level when the character is acquiring many new skills/spells/proficiencies etc., although this problem is nowhere near as bad as in the official system. However, it is possible for characters facing this prospect to salt away monies gained at lower levels to save up for the later, expensive training. Still, two cautions follow for a GM. First, if you award xps-for-gps on a 1:1 basis the charges in Table 1 will be too high at low levels and you will have to lower them. Second, certain character classes (paladins, monks, rangers, etc) are supposed to give away lots of their monetary gains and you should permit them to pay training costs before extracting the golden readyies for donation to those mysterious worthy institutions the PHB is always going on about.

I must stress again that the formulas used in Table 1 are arbitrary and comprise a system which I find works; the key thing for other GMs is not to adopt this system, but to think about a logical system for determining training costs based on what characters get for their money, and to try it out. Some of my assumptions other GMs won’t agree with, and many may feel there are things I’ve overlooked. Fine! Just be sure your own system is consistent within itself.

But is it all really worth it? Why not do what the D&D game does and just ignore the entire problem? I don’t think this works too well, especially when one considers weapon proficiency gains and, above all, spellcasting classes. They need training to master more complex magics, a source of the spells they want for their master and travelling spellbooks (MUs and illusionists) and, at least in the case of most clerics, they will be affiliated to a temple which will be keenly interested in their progress and they will have responsibilities to that temple. It could be argued they should want to seek tuition from a highly-respected senior cleric. And a scheme for training is an opportunity, not a boring detail to be avoided. NPC trainers can be sources of gossip, treasure maps, adventures, informants, friends, etc and the NPC helps to reinforce the campaign world as a social world. What’s more, NPC trainers give extra flexibility to determining training costs. If a PC really can’t pay the cost, an NPC may agree to train him/her in return for partial payment in the form of some service or other. You can’t do this kind of thing if you permit PCs to train themselves, for in this case costs must be inflexible (unless you charge nothing at all, which is really rather ridiculous considering everything characters gain when an extra level comes along). There are other advantages to creating NPC trainers who form relationships with PCs: I’ll give just two examples. First, you may at some time find that certain PCs are not available for adventuring at some time during the campaign (maybe they have something else to do, or the player(s) involved are not available so you can have a minority of your PCs act as henchmen for trainer NPCs who have some small-scale adventure on their hands. Second, in higher-level campaigns there often comes a time when an Unfortunate Death threatens to ruin an adventure. The PCs are stuck in the depths of the Underdark when the big front man takes one blow too many and then fails his resurrection roll. The adventure is now badly unbalanced; matters can be remedied (perhaps) by the MU teleporting back to base and recruiting an appropriate NPC fighter who has trained one or more of the PC party and knows them and trusts them to come and help out. Of course, a DM can remedy the situation in other ways (the Drow have a high-level ranger prisoner, he suddenly decides, and aren’t the PCs fortunate to find him?) but bringing in a known and trusted NPC, a trainer, is a lot less contrived and is also something the PCs can think up and do for themselves.

Considering higher-level play brings in another point; PCs, at some stage, can become trainers themselves, thus adding even more PC/NPC interaction and maybe providing a little extra income for those expensive higher-level spell components. This can also slow down the campaign to a more realistic time-scale, and brings home to players that even friendly NPCs don’t just exist for their benefit. For example, in my own campaign it is a condition of training by members of temples and official guilds that, on attaining seventh level, the PC must make himself available to act as a trainer for a minimum period of six weeks per year — this helps to reinforce the picture of NPCs as independent characters with their own goals and motives, and when you have to undertake the same responsibilities that they do!

Finally, all this isn’t to say that self-tuition isn’t possible. Indeed, in Table 2 I’ve only computed charges up to ‘name’ level (I’m not certain where this is for druids and monks, so levels 14/17 have been used as cutoffs there), because it seems reasonable that self-tuition should be a major possibility at this point. Indeed, although I don’t usually allow self-tuition at lower levels (because this suits my campaign), if you’re going to run an epic adventure such as the Temple of Elemental Evil, you will have to allow it. ‘Alright, brave Lymeswold, that’s the first level done, enough xps for another level so let’s travel fifty leagues home, get trained, and come back ’n’ give ’em some more welly’ — hmm. Not really on, is it? And what’s more, when you do allow self-tuition you cannot use the official system for determining the duration needed for completing training, because then Lymeswold and his mates will need lengthy holidays between the Temple levels, allowing the occupants ages to regroup and get reinforcements and the like. Now that problem — duration — I’m going to duck, because every GM has to determine this depending on the circumstances of his/her campaign.

One last hint. My own players were required, when their PCs were needing training to gain second level, to fill in forms from official guilds which (amongst other things) required them to state in 100 words or less why they felt they were suitable candidates for training. Now that was fun, and I commend it to any GM!

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Current</th>
<th>Cost for Character Class</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Level</td>
<td>Class</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>B, MJ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>B, WP</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>B, MJ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>B, WP</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>B, MJ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10</td>
<td>B, WP</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11</td>
<td>B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12</td>
<td>B, MJ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13</td>
<td>B, WP</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Current</th>
<th>Cost for Character Class</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Level</td>
<td>Class</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>B, MJ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>B, SA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>B, SA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>B, SA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>B, WP</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>B, MJ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>B, WP</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10</td>
<td>B, SA</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Note for Table 1
* includes assassins and thief-acrobats

Key
- B Basic Cost
- SG Spell Gains
- SA Special Ability Gain
- WP Weapon Proficiency Gain
- MJ Matrix Jump (hit roll/saving throw change)

88 WAR MAMMOTH OF THE UNDEAD LEGION
Now manufactured in Britain this much sought after model is available at £5.95.
Supplied as a simple kit in a colour box.
MAIL ORDER from address at top of page.
Pay by cheque or P.O. made out to Grenadier Models U.K. Ltd.
Alternatively, pay by ACCESS/BARCLAYCARD-VISA (see below). Do not send cash or bank notes.
ACCESS/BARCLAYCARD-VISA CARD HOLDERS use your credit card as a convenient way of paying for mail order Grenadier Figures. Order in the normal way by post, including your ACCESS/BARCLAYCARD-VISA number or ORDER BY PHONE USING ACCESS/BARCLAYCARD-VISA the quickest and most convenient method of all.
Call 0244 56811, place your order and have all your questions answered.
24 hour answering service now in operation.
POST AND PACKING
Magazines - post free.
Other orders: value up to £5 -- add 50p.
value £6 - £9.99 -- post free.
The rates apply in UK and BFPO only.
Overseas customers -- please send IRC for rates.

MIDDLE EARTH BOXED SETS
Set 1 SHELOB'S Lair £4.50 containing:
SHELLOB, YEANTUR, Captain of the Tower, CALIME, HAUFELVUN, Mage of the Tower, SKARGNAKH, Chieftain of the Uruk-ongrum, COCOONED VICTIM, TREASURE, ORC GUARD with SWORD, ORC GUARD with OLAVE.
Set 2 HILLMEN OF THE TROLLSHAWS £4.50 containing:
BROCK, Hill Troll, PRUG, TA-PA-LESCH, Ghost of the Petty Dwarves, DUMAN SCOUT, MIFFLI, Petty Dwarf Mage, MONG-FINN, Leader of the Hillmen, NARLCA, Half-orc Mage, TROLL BOOTY.
also available £4.50 per set
Set 3 FELLOWSHIP OF THE RINGS Set 2 SAURON'S DARK ONES

MINI-DRAGONS
6 new models, each one a perfect representation of one of the smaller members of the Dragon Race
501 Pond Dragon
502 Marsh Dragon
503 Cliff Dragon
504 Pet Dragon
505 Old World Dragon
506 Forest Dragon
507 Black Drake

Incredible value at £1.50 each.

CALL OF CTHULHU RANGE
£1.50 each
201 Federal Agents
202 Ecologists
203 Adventurers
204 Master Criminals
205 Investigators
206 Cops
207 Ghost and Horrible Companies
208 Undead
209 Ghouls
210 Mi-go and Serpentmen
211 Sand Dwellers
212 Deep Ones
213 Daredevils
214 Law Enforcement
215 Newshounds
216 Intrepid Sleuths
217 Monsters of Madness
218 Hound of Tindalos
219 Winged Horrors
220 Dark Young of Shub-niggurath and Shoggoth

From the left: FW13, FW11, FW13.

Grenadier Models UK Ltd.
25mm Gaming Miniatures
Dept W, 19, Babage Road, Deeside, Clwyd CH5 2QB.
Trade Enquiries Welcome

PRICE LIST

Nick Lund's FANTASY WARRIORS range
£1.50 per pack
FW1 Dwarves with Spears
FW2 Dwarves with Two Handed Weapons
FW3 Dwarves with Axes
FW4 Dwarves with Crossbows
FW5 Dwarves Scouts
FW6 Dwarves Heroes and Champions
Dwarf packs contain three figures each.

NEW
FW11 War Troll with Cutting Weapons
FW12 War Troll with Smashing Weapons
FW13 War Troll with Two Handed Stone Club
Troll packs include a separate Shield and SEVERAL separate Weapons

DRAGONLORDS £3.95 each 2516
101 Adventurers
102 females
103 Frost Giant
104 Giants
105 Were Creatures
106 Skeleton Cavalry
107 Halflings
108 Goblins
109 Orcs
110 Dwarves
111 Monks
112 Elves
113 Specialists
114 Undead
115 Bugbears
116 Golems
117 Dragon Men
118 Scorpions
119 Hill Giant 120 Wing Folk 121 Knights
122 Wizards
123 Lizard Men
124 Greenwood Adventurers
125 Armoured Draughtmen
126 Skeleton Cavalry - barded horse
127 Familiars and Hound;
128 St. George and the Dragon
129 Undead Orcs
130 Bolt Thrower with Undead Crew of 2
131 Dwarf Hydra
132 Flying Carpet and Crew
133 Elite Skeleton
134 UMBIRK
135 Armoured Centaurs
136 Goatkin Warriors
137 Storm Giant

FANTASY LORDS RANGE £1.50 each 2517
2518
138 Orcus
139 Demons
140 Searcher of Souls & Writhing Crusader
141 Clerics
142 HippogriFF
143 Captives
144 Barbarians
145 Ogres
146 Skeleton Command Pack
147 Skeleton Mounted Kettle-drummer
148 Skeleton Guard
149 Skeleton Infantry
150 Undead Centaurs
151 Cavalier/Paladin
152 Caversmen
153 Assassins
154 Dark Evils
155 Kobolds
156 Ninja Giant
157 Death Giant
158 Hobgoblins
159 Skeleton Ninja
160 Dragonmen
161 Beauty and the Beast
162 Orcish Giant
163 Skeleton War Dogs
164 Vikings
165 Samurai Command Pack
166 Unicorn and Maiden
167 Orcish Chieftain
168 Warlords
169 Skeleton Lancer
170 Samurai Standard Bearer
171 Wraiths
172 Skeleton Foot Knights
173 Oriental Spearmen
174 Skeleton Flyer
175 Charm - boatman of the Syx
176 Treeman
177 Goblin Champions
178 Skeleton War Dogs.

Please mention White Dwarf when replying to advertisements.
NOTTINGHAM
41a Broadwalk, Broadmarsh Centre
Open Mon-Sat 9.30am-5.30pm
IMPORTED AMERICAN COMICS
NOW IN STOCK Manager: Colin Morris

BIRMINGHAM
Unit 37, West Court Shopping Centre
(Tel. 632 4804)
Open Mon-Sat 9.30am-5.30pm
Manager: Laurence Miller

NEWCASTLE
63 Clayton Street
(Tel. 322 416)
Open Mon-Sat 9.30am-5.30pm
Manager: Ian Henzell

YORK
26 Goodramgate
(Tel. 532 765)
Open Mon-Sat 9.30am-5.30pm
Manager: Evan Moss

SHEFFIELD
96 The Moor
(Tel. 750 114)
Open Mon-Sat 9.30am-5.30pm
Manager: John Steel

LONDON
1 Dalling Road, Hammer smith, W6
(Tel. 741 3445)
Open Mon-Sat 9.30am-5.30pm
Thurs 9.30am-7.30pm
Manager: Steve Baker

MANCHESTER
Unit 162, Marsden Way, Ardale Centre
(Tel. 832 663)
Open Mon-Sat 9.30am-5.30pm
Manager: Karl Hulme

GAME'S WORKSHOP SHOPS
In any Games Workshop shop you will find a gigantic range of specialist games, from straightforward fun games to extremely detailed roleplaying games. Our branches also stock al the accessories you need - including metal miniatures, books, and even comics! But that's not all, you will find staff who know about games. If you want to know the best game for a beginner, or for recreating a particular subject, they'll be able to give you just the right sort of advice to help you choose.

WHITE DWARF BACK ISSUES

We have limited stocks available of the following back issues, all at 95p each.

Issue Nos 42, 44,
45, 46, 47, 50, 51,
53, 54, 55, 61, 64,
65, 66, 67, 68, 69,
70, 71, 72, 73 plus these recent issues

Golden Heroes in The Pitamyre Project, Judge Dredd, plus Death and after, Fiction and Cosmic Encounter.

Brain Power special:
Ghost, Jackel & Pulp, Sari, MERP, palaeons, Inelligence, Dredd 1st,
Judges and Thud...

Things Ancient & Modern Part 1 for CoC and AD&D, Crime Inc. AD&D spells, Special Abilities for Judges

Thieves! Banditry in AD&D, Arabian AD&D adventure, Judge Dredd Accountants(I) and Warhammer.

A Secret Wish for MERP and AD&D, plus
Lonnie, Mesa, City, 1 Star Trek, NPCs and superheroic magic...

Each back issue is available in limited quantities. Please ring on the Mail Order Hotline for details. All back issues are 95p each, postage & packing extra.

Rates are: UK, EIRE, BFPO - order value £10 and under - 95p; order value over £10 - free. OVERSEAS (surface): 33% of order value. OVERSEAS (Airmail): 95% of order value. Make all cheques and postal orders payable to Games Workshop Ltd and in pounds sterling. Send your order to Games Workshop, Cheverton Street, Hill Top, Eastwood, Nottingham, NG16 3HY or phone your credit card order on the hotlines (0773) 769 222/760 462.
shadowed the renegade Ogre, awaiting the chance to avenge his comrades. He has sworn an oath to his master Khorne the Blood-God that he will strike the blow that will end Skrag’s life. Now, he believes that his waiting may be over.

In his travels, Wotan encountered the mad Dwarf engineer Oxy O’Cetylene, and was allowed to borrow one of his latest inventions - a steam-powered fighting robot. He knows that Skrag is weak after the battle, and is hoping that the Tin Man will be able to weaken the Ogre further. Then he can step in and deal the fatal blow, according to his oath. The Dwarf has also gained the services of two fellow-worshippers of Khorne, a pair of Chaos Goblin Fanatics calling themselves Blood and Gore. If they can distract the Ogre long enough to allow the Tin Man to close for combat, his plan might just work.

Setting Up
A full-colour board is provided for use with this game - you can use the counters provided to represent the participants, or the appropriate Citadel miniatures.

One player plays Skrag the Slaughterer, and the other plays Spikes Harvey-Wotan, the Tin Man and Blood and Gore. Skrag starts the game on the square marked S, and the other characters start in the dotted area at the other side of the board. The Wotan player moves first; after the first round, the characters move in descending order of Initiative scores.

Skrag’s Wounds
At the beginning of the game, the Skrag player rolls a D6, halving the result and rounding fractions up, and adds 2. This is Skrag’s initial Wound score, taking into account any wounds that he may have suffered during the recently-finished battle.

Powering the Tin Man
At the beginning of the game, the Wotan player must decide how much fuel to give the Tin Man. The Tin Man can be loaded with up to six units of fuel. Each unit allows the robot to function for one round. When the Tin Man runs out of fuel, it may keep on going for a little while before finally grinding to a halt. Every round after the fuel has run out, roll a D6:
- First round on no fuel - stops on a 6;
- Second round on no fuel - stops on a 5 or 6;
- Third round on no fuel - stops on a 4, 5 or 6;
- Fourth round on no fuel - stops on a 3, 4, 5 or 6;
- Fifth round on no fuel - stops on a 2, 3, 4, 5 or 6;
- Sixth round on no fuel - stops automatically.

Turn Sequence
1. Move - each figure may move a number of squares up to its M score, in any direction. Figures moving over piles of corpses move at half speed (i.e. each square with piled corpses in it counts as 2 squares for movement purposes). The Tin Man cannot move over piled corpses.
2. Attack - a figure that is in base-to-base contact with another figure may attack.
3. Malfunction - if the Tin Man loses Wound points in a round, roll a D10. If the result is more than it’s Initiative score, a special effect has occurred. Roll again and consult the following table:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>D10 roll</th>
<th>Result</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1-2</td>
<td>Shutdown. The Tin Man ceases to function.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Explosion. The Tin Man explodes; every figure in an adjoining square takes one Strength 6 hit.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4-5</td>
<td>Berserk. The Tin Man’s A score is doubled, and it attacks the nearest figure to it. Arm falls off. Equal chance of left or right arm. A is halved.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6-7</td>
<td>Leg falls off. Equal chance of left or right leg. M is halved.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8-9</td>
<td>Head falls off. WS is halved, and the Tin Man moves in a random direction; roll a D8 at the beginning of each round to determine the direction:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1 2 3 4 X 5 6 7 8</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Tin Man will attack any figure with which it comes into base-to-base contact.

Winning
The Skrag player wins the game if Skrag survives, or if Wotan does not survive.
The Wotan player wins the game if Wotan deals the blow which kills Skrag.
The game is a stalemate if Skrag is killed by any figure other than Wotan.

Hints on Play
The best tactic for Wotan is to use the two Goblins to distract Skrag until the Tin Man can close for combat. Wotan must then wait until the Tin Man is destroyed or until the judge that Skrag is sufficiently weakened for Wotan to stand a good chance of killing him.
The best tactic for Skrag is to keep clear of the Tin Man until it runs out of fuel, attacking Wotan if possible.

The Cast
Spikes Harvey-Wotan

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M</th>
<th>WS</th>
<th>BS</th>
<th>S</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>A</th>
<th>Id</th>
<th>Int</th>
<th>CI</th>
<th>WP</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>10</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Special Rules
As a Chaos Dwarf, Wotan does not hate goblinoids, nor does he suffer animosity.
FULL TIME STAFF REQUIRED

Games Workshop is expanding its chain of Retail outlets, and requires trainee managers and sales assistants for branches all over the country.

Suitable candidates should preferably have Retail experience, and be aged eighteen years or over. Applicants are expected to be proficient in Maths and English, or have the minimum qualifications of five O and two A level passes. Knowledge of hobby games an advantage, but not essential.

Successful applicants will be committed to pursuing a career in Retail, and have a strong desire to succeed. They will enjoy the benefits of working for a dynamic and professional Company, which can offer excellent promotional prospects and an on-job training scheme.

Salary negotiable upon age and experience.

Please write for an application form to the following address:

Lindsey DeDoux Paton, Retail Administration, Games Workshop, Chewton Street, Hill Top, EASTWOOD, Nottingham NG16 3HY

TOY & HOBBY INTERNATIONAL LTD.

Now stocking a full range of fantasy games and Citadel Miniatures

TOY & HOBBY STORES

230/240 Grange Road
Birkenhead
Merseyside L41 6EB
Lowthian House Market Street
Preston

48/50 Foregate Street
Chester CH1 1AE
The Hardshaw Centre
Church Street, St Helens,
Merseyside WA10 1EB

Spring Gardens
Manchester
12/16 Princes Street
Stockport SK1 1SE

Unit 33
Town Square Shopping Centre
Ashcroft Street
Oldham OL1 1XP
Unit 1, Bryan House
Standishgate,
Wigan WN1 1UP

STANDARD GAMES

STANDARD MINIATURES

NEW

Our miniatures range continues to grow. Seen here is the standard bearer from our new range of dwarves. For a FULLY ILLUSTRATED catalogue of all our products, just send us a cheque or postal order for 50 pence, and a s.a.e. to:-

Standard Games
Arkon House
Station Road
Rings Langley, Herts.
Tel: (09277) 68328
Fax: (09277) 60740

Distributed in USA by:
The Armory, 4145 Amos Avenue, Baltimore, MD 21215.

DENITIA

DARK BLADES

Wizards and warriors battle as the evil mon-ogers try to conquer the magical Isle of Labyrinth.

£11.50

Scenario Book 2

Twenty-nine scenarios in one book! Full of ideas for your games as well as ours!

£3.95

Mon-Oger Chieftain’s Chariot. A fifteen piece model, over 4" long, over 3" tall, and weighing in at 10½ oz. Let him lead your troops into battle!

£7.95

"Most Miniatures are not toys and are not suitable for children under 12 years of age. They contain lead which may be harmful if chewed or swallowed."
ty against elves. He is subject to frenzy when fighting Skrag the Slaughterer. Wotan’s armour gives him an armour saving throw of 5 or 6.

Skrag the Slaughterer - Ogre Major Hero

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M</th>
<th>WS</th>
<th>BS</th>
<th>S</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>A</th>
<th>Id</th>
<th>Int</th>
<th>Cl</th>
<th>WP</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>9</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Special Rules

Skrag’s metal axe is not magical, but it behaves as if inscribed with an everlasting rune of cutting and smashing. His armour has a rune of protection, giving him an armour saving throw of 4, 5 or 6. As he is becoming symbiotic with his armour, it no longer encumbers him, so that his move is not reduced. Skrag is subject to frenzy.

The Tin Man

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M</th>
<th>WS</th>
<th>BS</th>
<th>S</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>A</th>
<th>Id</th>
<th>Int</th>
<th>Cl</th>
<th>WP</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Special Rules

The Tin Man’s metal skin gives it an armour saving throw of 5 or 6. Other special rules are given above.

Blood and Gore - Chaos Goblin Fanatics

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M</th>
<th>WS</th>
<th>BS</th>
<th>S</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>A</th>
<th>Id</th>
<th>Int</th>
<th>Cl</th>
<th>WP</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Special Rules

Blood and Gore are subject to frenzy, and are both armed with the ball-and-chain - see the Warhammer Fantasy Battle rules, Vol. 1 p. 41. They are unarmoured.

---

SPECIAL OFFER

The miniatures needed to fight out this special scenario are available from Citadel.

- Skrag is a C23 Ogre £1.50
- Spikes Harvey Wotan is a D4 Chaos Dwarf £0.60p
- The Tinman is available for a limited period of time only as part of the LE14 Tinman & Oxy O’Cetylene £1.50
- Blood & Gore are from the C27 Goblin Fanatics Range. 4 Figures for £1.95.

We are offering SKRAG, SPIKES HARVEY WOTAN, BLOOD & GORE and the TINMAN & OXY limited edition for the special price of just £4.00, for one month only.

---

DEBENHAMS

Now with a wide selection of Fantasy Board Games, Roleplaying Games and Citadel Miniatures

Debenhams
Rockingham Way Off Charter Row Sheffield
S Yorks

Debenhams
Bridgewater Place Manchester

Debenhams
Mercury Gardens
Romford
Essex

Debenhams
Frisht Road Croydon Surrey

Debenhams
Station Road
Harrow
Middlesex

Debenhams
Millbrook
Guildford
Surrey

Debenhams
Oxford Street
London

Debenhams
22 The Quadrant Swansea

Debenhams
Queens Buildings
East Street
Southampton

Debenhams
26/28 New George Street
Plymouth
Devon
RDF SOURCE BOOK £4.95 RRP
This supplement for Twilight 2000 tells you everything you need to know about America's Rapid Deployment Force — or what's left of it! Full details of the units that make up the force are included, and details of all special equipment and vehicles the RDF has available.

TROLLS OF THE MISTY MOUNTAINS £3.95 RRP
Contains three complete adventures for MERP set in the dark & rugged East-wood, which lies in the shadow of the brooding Misty Mountains. Lord Elsander plans to build a great road through the East-wood, but he will need help to defeat the Trolls of the Misty Mountain.

ROLEMASTER COMPANION £8.95 RRP
A fantastic new supplement for the Rolemaster game system that no Rolemaster player or gamesmaster will want to be without! Jam packed full of brand new material to expand and improve any Rolemaster campaign.

UNDEAD £7.95 RRP
A brand new Role-Aid from the talented Mayfair team, suitable for use with AD&D or any fantasy role play game system. Undead contains not only valuable reference material for use in any campaign, but also a complete scenario for 4-6 experienced characters.

ROADHOGS £4.95 RRP
Calling all Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles fans! Here is the latest and greatest supplement for cult TMNT RPG game. Set on the West Coast of a post-holocaust America. Roadhogs provides a new background and rules for games based on the TMNT game system.

19 DAY OF A’AKABAR £5.50 RRP
A deadly plague sweeps your land. The holy men say that if only they had the Talisman, they could create cures for this dread disease. Many adventures have tried and failed to find the Talisman of A’Kabar. Now it is your turn. Find these treasures, and save your people!

This manual contains over 60 fully developed adventures that can easily be inserted into any DM’s campaign. The intriguing encounters are ready to play and will challenge player characters of all levels. DMs are sure to find The Book of Lairs convenient, innovative play-aid for any wilderness campaign.

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS
The Immortal Storm
£5.50

The first scenario for the Immortals Set pits your party against a menace that threatens the very era of Immortal rule — a vast swirling grey storm of incalculable size, beyond Immortal control. And in its centre, an eye. A humanoid eye. The growing maelstrom emits a message which, if they can understand it, will allow the players to save this realm of existence.

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS
Creature Catalogue
£6.95

Are you ready to face the horror of Hivebrook, the gruesome Geonid or the dread Dusan? These and many other baleful beasts lurk within the pages of the Creature Catalogue. Whether your players are 1st, 21st, or 31st level the Creature Catalogue contains many fantastic creatures with which to confront even the most foolhardy adventurer.

CARSE
£6.95

Provides everything you need to run fantasy adventures in the fabulous city of Carse. This is the second of Chaosium's 'City' series of supplements, and it provides invaluable information for any gamesmaster wishing to run city based adventures.

HOW TO MAIL ORDER
Make cheques payable to Games Workshop Ltd. Include cost of postage & packing.
U.K., EIRE, BFPO: Add 95p for Orders under £10.00\nOrders over £10.00 are post free.
OVERSEAS: Add 33% for Carriage\nOVERSEAS AIR MAIL: Add 55% for Carriage.

HOW TO TELEPHONE ORDER
BARCLAYCARD VISA ACCESS DINERS CLUB
Simply & Quickly Telephone Your Orders Direct to us on Hotlines 0773/769522 or 0773/760462 between 8.30am and 5.00pm
Monder to Friday.

GAMES WORKSHOP, MAIL ORDER, CHEWTON ST, HILL TOP, EASTWOOD, NOTTS NG16 3HY
D15-M065
An optional rule for Call of Cthulhu

by Marcus L. Rowland

While the flavour of Call of Cthulhu is mainly derived from the writing of Lovecraft and associated authors, the way the game tends to be played owes quite a lot to the pulp detective stories of the twenties. Most investigators carry guns, associate with criminals, and live in a world of violence. As Philip Marlowe said 'Down these mean streets a man must go', investigators tend to travel streets even more sinister than those which Marlowe encountered.

Since the game owes so much to the pulps, it's odd that one major tradition of the genre is missed from the existing rules - it's almost impossible to knock someone out with a single blow. While this is usually an advantage, since players and NPCs need a chance to respond to attacks, it makes some types of activity difficult to arrange.

For example, let's suppose that a single assailant wants to temporarily incapacitate an investigator to steal an important clue, as part of a kidnapping plot, or to frame the victim for a crime. To do so the attacker must:

1. Approach silently (sneak roll).
2. Strike a single blow inflicting damage equivalent to at least half the victim's hit points (roll to hit, roll damage).
3. Hope that the victim rolls more than CON on 1D20.

This adds up to a fairly slim chance of success, and tends to leave the victim badly incapacitated for prolonged periods.

By comparison, pulp detectives were often knocked out, were usually able to get up and fight again soon after they recovered consciousness. This may not be totally realistic, since blows to the skull powerful enough to cause unconsciousness can easily lead to skull fractures or cerebral haemorrhage, but it was an aid to plot development.

The rules which follow are simple, totally unfair, and should not be made available to player characters; they should not be used to advance the plot of an adventure, and must not be used routinely, since they give the attacker too much of an advantage.

(1) Any surprise attack (or attack against a helpless foe) is intended to produce a knockout; won't leave the victim in inevitable danger of death; and is made with an appropriate weapon (eg a club, martial arts attack, fist, gun butt, etc.) will produce unconsciousness if the roll to hit is successful.

(2) The duration of unconsciousness is proportional to the damage rolled as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Damage</th>
<th>(hit points)</th>
<th>(unconsciousness - minutes)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6+</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

(3) If the blow produces a knockout under these special rules the victim revives with a splitting headache, but will only take 1 point of damage.

Example: Eli Still, the corrupt butler of Grimsdale Manor, has killed Lord Ernest Male and suddenly realises that he has lost the cursed Amulet of Set which is the symbol of the secret faith. Approaching the window where he left the body, he turns towards the peephole. An investigator, Sir Neville Smythe, is looking over the corpse, with his back to the secret door! Picking up the poker he had previously used to murder Lord Grimsdale, Still carefully opens the door, tiptoes up behind Neville Smythe and clips him behind the ear, recovers the gem and thoughtfully leaves the poker in Neville Smythe's hand. As Neville Smythe regains consciousness and staggers to his feet a trio of constables bursts through the door, and an over-excited housemaid screams 'He's killed the master!'...

Eli Still made two Sneak rolls, to open the door quietly and creep up to Neville Smythe, then rolled a hit with the poker. Normally the blow would do 4 points of damage (modified to 3 because Still is small and sneaky). Instead it knocks Neville Smythe out for 4 minutes, ample time for Still to get the gem, frame Neville Smythe, and escape.

Neville Smythe isn't in immediate danger (the bruise behind his ear should prove that he's victim), but the murder and the stolen gem will have put him in a vulnerable position. He may even consider the matter to be a temporary expedient in the catacombs under the mansion. The plot is kept moving.

Example: The sinister Doctor Wo Fat and a dozen thugs have cornered three investigators in his Whitechapel lair, but needs to transport them to Salisbury Plain for a ritual sacrifice at Stonehenge. He knows that they will start screaming if he lets them stay conscious, and signals his thugs to knock them unconscious.

Lady Amanda Prettiss is struck immediately, and knocked out for eight minutes. Sir David Neville Smythe and Joe 'Whippet' Hammond, his chauffeur, try to put up a fight. Neville Smythe can't break free from the thugs holding him and is clubs a knocked out for 15 minutes. Hammond is apparently luckier, he wriggles out of the thugs' grasp, and starts a fight. Unfortunately he is outnumbered 13 to 1, and once the thugs have beaten him unconscious. When all three are subdued, Wo Fat injects them with a sinister Oriental drug, they will recover consciousness when he injects the antidote.

As Wo Fat and his men carry out their unusually heavy laundry bampers, Inspector Fosdyke of the Yard, and a van full of constables prepare to follow them...

Under these special rules a helpless victim can't dodge a knockout, and a prisoner held by four thugs is effectively helpless. Lady Amanda was taken by surprise — Wo Fat gave a signal, rather than a verbal order. Neville Smythe struggled (opposing STR to STR) but can't break free, and is soon clubbed. Hammond is simply battered to a pulp. Luckily he's an NPC and the several weeks he'll need to spend in hospital won't seriously affect the campaign.

Despite appearances this isn't a hopeless situation, and Inspector Fosdyke and the police will arrive to free the investigators after Wo Fat has revived them and explained his plan to summon an Old One, moments before it actually materialises. Of course, the investigators' Mythos knowledge will be needed to block its materialisation, and they will be the ultimate saviours of England.

To summarise, this special rule should only be used to advance the plot, not in situations where investigators will be left in hopeless danger. Knock an investigator out to steal a clue, murder an NPC, or kidnap him, but don't use this rule to kill them as soon as they are unconscious. Don't use it more often than you have to, or investigators will treat every room and doorway with suspicion.
A Short Adventure for Pendragon, Warhammer Fantasy Role-Play and AD&D by Bryan Sturdy

This adventure should be suitable for a single high level character, or a mid-level party. You will have to decide for yourselves whether this short adventure will present a sufficient challenge for your player(s). Statistics for creatures and NPCs are presented in a separate section at the end of the adventure. Notes to such items as "gold pieces" should be translated into whatever coinage is appropriate. For AD&D you might like to inflate the amounts of money involved to take account of that game's abundance of gold.

BACKGROUND

Oakhelm is a village, built within the walls of a larger town, set on the southern side of Lowbough forest, surrounded by farmlands. The nearest large town lies some distance to the north through the forest although the path was, until recently, well-travelled.

Oakhelm was once a prosperous and thriving town, until 125 years ago when, on Midwinter's Eve, a group of trolls descended upon the town, killing, eating and despoothing everything and everybody that they found. The town guards put up a short fight, then fled with the rest of the townfolk. By dawn, the surviving townspeople had summoned enough courage to return, but the trolls had vanished into the forest.

By chance, a band of six Knights of the Order of the Silver Moon rode in from the north. When the trolls returned, the Knights rode out and harried them back into the forest, where the trolls were surrounded and utterly destroyed. Returning to Oakhelm, the Knights, three of whom had been mortally wounded, were horrified to find that the townspeople turned their backs on them. Furthermore, it appeared that the trolls had also stolen the fallen knights' swords, although those had actually been taken by Alunel the Mage, the indirect controller of the trolls.

The people of Oakhelm now feared the violence of the Knights as much as they had feared the trolls. The Knights rode away, vowing that they would make Oakhelm and its people pay for their ingratitude, discourtesy and theft.

Oakhelm went into its long decline, with less and less trade with the towns to the north, and smaller acreages being put under the plough. Now, the final backbreaking straw for Oakhelm's survival seems to have appeared.

For the past two months a mysterious knight in black armour has been blocking the path north from Oakhelm. The knight resides in a pavilion by the only ford in Lowbough forest. At all other points the river is too swift or its banks too steep for a cart even if another path could be found through the forest. All who have wished to cross the ford have been challenged, or a toll of 30 gold pieces or 'the swords' has been demanded.

Obviously, none of the knight's conditions can be met by the simple peasants of Oakhelm, who cannot fight, are desperately poor and don't know what is meant by 'the swords', so they can no longer travel north to trade. The villagers can just about raise 5 gold pieces between them, and they are willing to offer this sum to anybody who will rid them of the knight. They know that this is not much, even when it is all they have.

It is likely that the PCs will have to deal with the Oakhelm's 'Mayor', Bardolph Fletcher, who will explain the village's predicament, arrange for accommodation (although it is likely that the PCs would have to pay the miserly villagers), and pay the PCs (but only when the job is done).

Oakhelm is a miserable collection of huts, but the villagers will be happy to talk to the PCs about their sad history, but they will not mention the fact that they turned against those who helped them. The number of trolls will vary according to the speaker, but everybody knows that the trolls' cave, which has never been found, must be full of 'jools and preshus fings...'.

THE KNIGHT

There are, in fact, seven knights who wear identical suits of armour and take turns to watch and wait at the pavilion by the ford. The knights are the descendants of the original Knights of the Silver Moon, who have continued the vow of their forefathers. Honour prevents them from simply slaughtering the Oakhelm villagers, and they have settled on this scheme of blocking the way to and from the village - and strangling it by cutting all connections with the outside world - as the means of making the village pay.

The knights will remain where they are until the onset of winter; the bitter cold of winter should complete the villagers' downfall. Only when the village is finally abandoned, or if they ever the swords that were taken from the fallen knights will they finally ride away and leave Oakhelm in peace. The toll of 30 gold pieces will be taken, but only so that they can be given to the Order as a contribution to the upkeep of the knights' tombs.

Offering the knights any or all of the three swords that were taken from the fallen knights (and are now in Alunel's treasure chamber - see below) will also result in their departure. The knights assume that the villagers have the swords, and do not know that Alunel took the swords after the fight with the trolls was over. They will be willing to leave Oakhelm in peace if the swords are returned.

Each of the knights guards the ford for one day, while another awaits within ear-shot should the first one fall in combat. Even if these two knights are killed, another two will take up the watch on the following day, until all are dead.

The waiting knight at the ford will usually be a coward and finds it pitifully amusing to mounted on his large, black warhorse, with another similar horse tied a short distance away. He will answer no questions, but will demand the toll to use the ford, or challenge one of the PCs to a fight. He will dismount and fight on foot (required to do so). Any of the knights will fight until he can hold a weapon and will refuse any offer of surrender (although they will allow opponents to withdraw). If captured, a knight will kill himself at the first opportunity, rather than give his companions or purpose away.

Within the pavilion are food, drink and weaponry suitable for a knight - great swords, maces, lances and the like. The knight will offer the use of any weapon he has to the PCs who fight him, although not the use of a horse.

The knight's cave (where they spend their time when not at the ford) is well-stocked with food, and quite comfortable. The knight's have yet to discover that, at the back of their cave, is a concealed tunnel leading to the trolls' old lair. Allow the PCs a 50% chance of discovering this entrance.

THE OUTLAWS

Within the confines of the forest are a small band of outlaws, led by self-styled 'Defender of the Poor', Hugh of Lowbough. He and his men are complete thugs who would willingly cut the throats of their own mothers were there profits to be made. They know of the 'Black Knight' at the ford and of the other knights in the cave, but they have not made any connection between the two. Although they are scared of the Black Knight and what he might represent, they will make no deals with the PCs, preferring to stick with the 'old methods' of ambushing anyone who comes within their woods. Hugh knows the location of the abandoned trolls' lair, and that there are further tunnels beyond it, although he is too scared to enter.

He will trade this information for his life.

THE ABANDONED TROLL HOLE

This hole, hidden behind a boulder, has lain untouched over the last century, and contains quite a small amount of treasure considering the raid the trolls carried out on a then-wealthy town. Amongst the roofed clothing, bones, mildewed casks and other worthless items are scattered 200 gold coins, and a gold chain of office. This was the mayoral chain when Oakhelm was a prosperous town, and has the effect of increasing the wearer's impact on followers (increase charisma related abilities by up to 20%).

Inscribed on one end of the chain is a set of magical runes, which are unintelligible to any form of magic at most times. During times of change in the moon's phase (new, full, and the two waning and waxing phases) only half of the moon is visible the runes can be read, and their nature is such that they will cause any reader to be filled with a terrible fury (subject to whatever resistance to magic checks are appropriate to the game system). The reader will desire to destroy and destroy the nearest evidence of civilization - it was the effect of these runes that made the trolls descend upon Oakhelm in the first place. If an of the PCs are in the trolls' lair at the appropriate time they will feel a similar urge to fall upon the village and destroy it.

At the back of the cave, hidden beneath a particularly smelly pile of rubbish is a trudpoyer, which will collapse if any great weight is placed upon it. Beneath the trapdoor is a shaft leading down to a passage that leads into the tunnels and passageways of Alunal the Mage.

ALUNAL THE MAGE

It was Alunal who was responsible for placing the runes on the wall of the trolls' lair and subsequently it was he and his familiar that removed much of the wealth that had accumulated. Alunal was a corrupt and dishonest man, and felt no sympathy for the townsfolk whose livelihoods he was wrecking. However, shortly after the trolls were destroyed, and Alunal had taken the knights' swords, he was killed in a completely unrelated accident, when a port-ion of the tunnel roof fell on his head and broke his neck. His undying greed and petty malice have kept his spirit alive through the years, and he now roams the passages as a ghost-like creature. There is a cumulative chance of 5% per hour that Alunal's spirit, a tall, imposing figure that will cause unease in anyone seeing it, will be encountered.

His mouldering bones now lie beneath a small heap of stones and rock. The tattered robes on the body were once fine, and the skeleton still has a gold ring on one finger (the key to his treasure chamber), and a staff beside it. Should this corpse be removed or removed from the tunnel, Alunal would be freed after his century of wandering within his passages. However, the ghost is too greedy to allow anything to be taken away without a fight.

THE PASSAGES

1. After the site of Alunal's death, the passage continues onwards, and becomes dank, cold and very unpleasant. Being a cautionary man, Alunal took precautions against the trolls, and on one wall of the passage is carved a stylised and savage face, while beath is a faded and semi-legible inscription:

   $$-i\ e\ under\ pr-\ s-e\ would\ be\ bold(To\ put\ me\ under\ pressure\ would\ be\ your\ downfall)\ The\ face\ was\ intended\ to\ make\ the\ trolls\ reluctant\ to\ go\ any\ further,\ while\ the\ inscription\ is\ a\ reference\ to\ the\ pit\ trap\ that\ awaits\ ahead.$$

2. The pit trap is old and no longer functions properly, so that even if it is stood on it will merely sink an inch before becoming wedged in the hole below. However, the problem with the trap is that a troll became trapped down it a century ago. Since then, it has been for want of a better term - alternately 'hibernating' and working its way back up to the top of the hole. Should anyone step onto the pit trap, they will lose this and attack through the lid.

3. This chamber is completely empty. The secret door in the west wall is relatively easy to detect as its hinges have rusted and slipped, but this also means that the door is very hard to open (half normal chance of doing so).

4. The room is bare of all ornamentation, except for a murky looking pool in the centre of the floor. At the bottom of the pool can be seen the gleam of gold and jewelry.

   The water itself is fairly harmless, although it is green, slimy and smells decaying and decayed. More worked into the walls is the signs of corrosion almost immediately and if the water comes into contact with the skin, there is a 50% chance that some form of disease (your discretion) will be contracted. The gold and jewelry at the bottom of the pool is illusionary, although the creature that 'lives' there - a large undead fish motivates by Alunal's power - will not take kindly to anyone who comes to the water in the river.

5. The endless series of caves, chambers and caverns, all heavily coated with stalactites and curtains of stone, run miles beneath the hills. Unless the PCs mark the track, they will rapidly become lost in the never-ending series of similar and confusing chambers. You may make the cave system as large as you like, inhabited by whatever creatures are appropriate to your campaign. Only by taking the right hand path at all times from the door out of the first chamber in Alunal's caverns can the treasure room be found.

6. This iron door is very rusty, and apparently without a key. Carved onto its outer face is a large, hideous face with a protruding tongue. Placing Alunal's ring on the tongue will open the door (and a slight, circular depression in the tongue will be seen where the ring should go). Any other object placed on the tongue - or attempting to open the door will cause the door to reveal its true self as a (now rather rusty) iron construct. Although it cannot move, anyone within 10' is vulnerable to its attacks.

7. This is Alunal's treasure chamber, and it is here that Alunal's spirit will be encountered, along with the undead corpse of his familiar. The spirit will use all its powers to prevent the PCs removing any object from the chamber, even those that are illusionary treasures (see below).

8. The treasure room is clearly recognisable as such, as they rest in a rack and have been carefully wrapped in oiled cloth and protected from the worst excesses of years of damp in the passages. The blades are still in excellent condition, and the knights will be happy to receive the swords in this state.

   The rest of the treasure within the room is in a sorry state. Much of the cloth was once quite valuable and finely decorated, but has rotted over the years. There are several mildewed bags of coins scattered about, each apparently containing some 150 gold coins in various denominations. However, there is a 50% chance that the cloth will rot through, they will rapidly become an illusion and, should it be exposed to sunlight, its true nature as a bag of earth and stones will be revealed.

---

STATISTICS

AD&D

The Seven Black Knights

AC: 2; MV 9'; Fighter 4; hp 30 each; AT 1 weapon; Int Ave; AL LN; Size M; xp 240 each; armed with lances, broadswords and maces; all have heavy warhorses (AC 4; MV 15'; HD 3+; hp 20 each; AT 3; D 1-8/1-8/1-3).

Hugh of Lowbough

AC: 6; MV 12'; Fighter 5; hp 19; AT 1 weapon; Int Ave; AC: 4; MV 12'; Size M; xp 264; armed with longbow, shortsword and 3 daggers; 40 gp gems.

Outlaws

AC: 7; MV 12'; Fighter 1; hp 6 each; AT 1 weapon; Int Ave-Low; AC: CN(E); Size M; xp 32 each; armed with longbows, clubs and/or shortswords. 16 gp each.

Alunal The Mage

AC: 6; MV 12'; HD 3+3; hp 28; AT 1; D 2-5+plus strength drain; SA spells - magic missile (x2), shield, web, hold person; Int Ave; AC: LE; Size M; xp 567; ef shadow MM p68; Alunal also has the use of his staff of striking (1 charge) which is still by his body.

Hibernating Troll

AC: 4; MV 12'; HD 6+6; hp 40; AT 3; D 5-8/5-8/2-12; SD regeneration, Int Low; AC: LE; Size L; xp 845.

Undead Fish

AC: 8; MV /6'; HD 2; hp 16; AT 1; D 1-8; Int Non; AL: N; Size S; xp 52; ef zombie MM p63.

The Iron Door

AC: 1; MV 0'; hp 40; AT 1 tongue (10' range); D 1-12; SD immune to all mind influencing, electrical, heat and cold based attacks, +1 or better weapons to hit; Int Non; AL: N; Size L; xp 1080.

Undead Familiar

AC: 6; MV 12'; HD 1; hp 6; AT 1; D 1-4; Int Non; AL: CE; Size S; xp 2; damage done to the familiar is also done to Alunal.

Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay

The Seven Black Knights

M WS BS S T W I A Dex Ld Int Cl WP Fel
4 63 35 6 4 11 50 1 29 59 39 59 39

Skills

Dodge Bow Ride - Horse Specialist Weapon - Lance Strike Mighty Blow Strike to Stun Strike to Injure

Trappings

Plate Armour and closed helmet
Lance Shield Sword Mace

Warhorses

M WS BS S T W I A Dex Ld Int Cl WP Fel
8 33 0 5 3 11 30 1 - 10 10 10 10
Hibernating Troll

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M</th>
<th>BS</th>
<th>S</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>A</th>
<th>Dex</th>
<th>Ld</th>
<th>Int</th>
<th>Cl</th>
<th>WP</th>
<th>Fel</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>25</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>24</td>
<td>89</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>89</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Troll is subject to all the special rules given in the Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay rulebook.

Undead Fish

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M</th>
<th>BS</th>
<th>S</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>A</th>
<th>Dex</th>
<th>Ld</th>
<th>Int</th>
<th>Cl</th>
<th>WP</th>
<th>Fel</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>25</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>24</td>
<td>89</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>89</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The M score shown is for movement in water; the fish cannot leave the pool. Any wounds caused by the fish have a 20% chance of causing Tomb Rot; wounds that do not cause Tomb Rot have a 50% chance of causing Infected Wounds. The fish is controlled by the spirit of Alunal, and becomes subject to Instability once Alunal is destroyed or when it is out of water.

The Iron Door

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M</th>
<th>BS</th>
<th>S</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>A</th>
<th>Dex</th>
<th>Ld</th>
<th>Int</th>
<th>Cl</th>
<th>WP</th>
<th>Fel</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>0</td>
<td>73</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>29</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>-</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The door is immune to all attacks based on heat, cold and electricity, to magical attacks affecting the mind, and to normal weapons.

Undead Familiar

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M</th>
<th>BS</th>
<th>S</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>I</th>
<th>A</th>
<th>Dex</th>
<th>Ld</th>
<th>Int</th>
<th>Cl</th>
<th>WP</th>
<th>Fel</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>25</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>20</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>18</td>
<td>18</td>
<td>18</td>
<td>18</td>
<td>18</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Because of the magical relationship between Alunal and his familiar, damage done to the familiar is also subtracted from Alunal’s Wounds score. It becomes subject to Instability if Alunal is destroyed.

Pendragon

The Seven Black Knights

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Battle</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Heavy Chain</td>
<td>10 pts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wound</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knockdown</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Move</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Damage</td>
<td>466</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Healing</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Hugh of Lowbough

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Battle</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Cuirboulli</td>
<td>6 pts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wound</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knockdown</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Move</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alunal The Mage</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wounds</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knockdown</td>
<td>N/A</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Armour is based on the fact that Alunal is insubstantial. Magical powers are as assigned by the GM from Curse, Glamour and Summoning.

Hibernating Troll (Giant)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Club</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wound</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knockdown</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Move</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Iron Door

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Tongue</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Undead Familiar

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Hands</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wounds</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knockdown</td>
<td>N/A</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Undead Fish

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Blot</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wounds</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Energy Jewel. Alunal may use the Magic Points to maintain his physical form, or to cast spells, as the GM desires. The staff is capable of wounding creatures which are immune to normal weapons, even when drained of Magic Points.

Alunal the Mage (now a Wight)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour (Etheral)</th>
<th>Hands</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wounds</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knockdown</td>
<td>N/A</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Alunal has 3 Strength and 3 Magic Points when first encountered. He must expend Magic Points to remain active, at the rate of 2 points per round of combat. If he manages to accumulate enough Magic Points, he is still able to cast spells; the available spells are Aura of Resistance, Fire Ball and Steal Mind.

The components for the spells are still on Alunal’s body, and retrieving the components for each spell counts as a take-up action.

As a Wight, Alunal causes Fear in all living creatures. He is not subject to Instability while in the passages.

Energy Jewel. Alunal may use the Magic Points to maintain his physical form, or to cast spells, as the GM desires. The staff is capable of wounding creatures which are immune to normal weapons, even when drained of Magic Points.

Pendragon

The Seven Black Knights

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Battle</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Heavy Chain</td>
<td>10 pts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wound</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knockdown</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Move</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Damage</td>
<td>466</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Healing</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Hugh of Lowbough

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Battle</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Cuirboulli</td>
<td>6 pts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wound</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knockdown</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Move</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alunal The Mage</td>
<td>10 pts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wounds</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knockdown</td>
<td>N/A</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Armour is based on the fact that Alunal is insubstantial. Magical powers are as assigned by the GM from Curse, Glamour and Summoning.

Hibernating Troll (Giant)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Club</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wound</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knockdown</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Move</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Iron Door

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Tongue</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Undead Familiar

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Hands</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wounds</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knockdown</td>
<td>N/A</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Undead Fish

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Armour</th>
<th>Blot</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Total Hit Points</td>
<td>16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Wounds</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Illuminations

A Foray into the Art Crypts
By John Blanche

Judging by the weight of post that we receive round here from aspiring artists and people going “Oooh-er” at one piccy (a technical term for a drawing or other piece of artwork) or another, fantasy artwork is a growing part of roleplaying games.

Only a tiny proportion of the art that passes in and out of the Design Studio — where White Dwarf is put together — ever makes it onto the magazine’s pages. Even when adventures and roleplaying games are counted as well, there isn’t a lot of opportunity to print really good fantasy art for gamers to see. Which is a pity.

The art content of games and adventures is something that gets ignored — or at least this is so in many cases. It’s only when the illustrations are poor, or not there at all, that you really notice them. Good work seems so much part of the whole product that it fades into the background. This is hardly fair on the artist, who has often had to work for many, many hours to produce a single piece of art. Often, he will not know exactly what he is supposed to be drawing... so it’s even more remarkable when the images and the printed word come together.

Illuminations will try to redress the situation, by featuring the work of one or more artists in every column.

John Sibbick’s art has been featured on the cover of White Dwarf and Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay.

A freelance artist for the last 12 years, his work has covered a wide range of subject matter from Indian Mythology to encyclopedias on dinosaurs. His other work has included Fighting Fantasy covers for Puffin books, Time-Life magazine and various projects for Games Workshop, of which the most impressive is a stunning cover for Realm of Chaos, a major WFRP supplement.

John works primarily in gouache on artist’s board, and is well known for his sweeping landscapes and meticulous attention to detail. John Blanche by Steve Palmer

This article is the sequel to All in the Mind, which appeared in WD79. It deals mostly with a new psionic combat system, but also touches on other areas of mental ability. It is meant to be used in conjunction with the previous article. While references are made to AD&D psionics, these rules will work with any games system.

Psionic Combat

To my mind the problem with psionic combat in the past has been its unnecessary complexity. There are far too many different tables, extenuating circumstances, etc most of which I intend replacing with a much simpler system, but one which still has potential for interest and some strategy.

The idea behind this new system is either to overload your opponent’s mind with psychic energy, or to remove all his defence shields. Every natural psionic has a Psionic Strength (PS) of 1d100 plus one for every point of INT, WIS or CHA above 12 (giving a maximum PS of 118). The doubling and quadrupling factor for two or three 17+ abilities is scrapped — every psionic will therefore have a PS range of 5 - 118 (since a minimum score of 16 is still required in one of the above three abilities). PS is used when using abilities and in psionic combat. Latent psionics can never engage in combat, but use up their (limited) PS when their abilities are active. The numbers given in WD70 for ability costs can be switched straight from old-style STR to PS.

Compulsors get 1d6 added to their PS, whilst solitarchs add 1d6 to PT (see below), commensurate with these particular two classes.

Every psionic also has the use of the seven defence shields. These absorb psychic energy, but are lost if their energy handling capability is equalled or exceeded. Every psionic can use these shields in any order, one at a time, providing the energy handling capability (EHC) has not been equalled or exceeded. A shield is used against one discrete psychic energy attack (see Table 1).

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Cost to deploy (PS)</th>
<th>EHC</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>alpha</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>beta</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>gamma</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>delta</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mu</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>theta</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pi</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

As can be seen, the four lowest EHC shields cost nothing to use, but the most powerful three do, draining points from the individual’s PS. In each combat round, the opponents throw a bolt of psychic energy at each other, ie PS. The bolt may be absorbed by a shield, in which case the amount is knocked off the shield’s EHC. If it equals or exceeds the shield’s current (or initial) EHC, it is temporarily blown away, and in the latter case, the excess points have to be contained by the psionic. If he takes too much energy his mind will overload and he will be temporarily inactive. This is one of the ways of defeating your opponent.

Each psionic has a Psionic Threshold (PT) which, if equalled or exceeded, means his mind has ‘gone nova’. The PT is one third of the person’s PS (fractions are rounded to the nearest whole number), plus a random factor. Psionics add a d6 to their PT, master psionics add 2d6, and the upper two types add 3d6. If the opponent loses all his shields, the same system is applied and he is temporarily inactive (see Table 2) — this is the other way to defeat your opponent.

There is also the possibility of a draw or stalemate. This happens when both opponents have any of shields alpha to delta, but no PS. In this case there is simply no final result. Also, it is not compulsory to throw PS every round, though a defence shield must be put up. However, if both combatants throw no points on three consecutive rounds the combat is considered to be at an end — this is a stalemate. Note that providing one psionic throws at least one PS point, the other can throw none for as many rounds as he likes. Only when both throw nothing is it a stalemate. After a stalemate, psionic combat can only restart on the next melee round, should this be possible. Note also that if a person’s current PS is 0 the mu, theta and pi shields are considered automatically lost, though he can defend until the other four have gone. Indeed the opponent cannot win until the defender’s lower four shields are gone (or the PT is exceeded).

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Initial</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>PS</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5-50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>51-80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>81-99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>100+</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The difference between unconsciousness and coma is that unconscious persons can be brought round (though with great difficulty), whereas persons in coma are completely out. Dazed psionics can do easy or non-intellectual things, such as running away; stunned persons are pretty much able to help themselves. After the effect has run its course, the psionic is at 0 PS, with all defense shields on full EHC.

So, how does combat work? I suggest that the following chart is drawn up:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>point throw</th>
<th>round numbers</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>psychic energy throw, in</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PS</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>shield up</td>
<td>current total</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>alpha</td>
<td>currently used shield</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>beta</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>gamma</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>delta</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mu</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>theta</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pi</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PT</td>
<td>starts at 0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

On round one (each round lasts 1/60 of a melee round), the character fills in how much PS he wants to throw at his opponent, up to the limit of 22; one psionic can never throw more than 22 points. Then he fills in which shield he wants to use, and his new PS total. The opponent does the same. Then they compare defences with points thrown, and determine the results. Then round two begins. Below is a sample combat between two opponents, Nodonn and Abadon. A star indicates the shield is lost, its EHC equalled or exceeded; the numbers indicate the EHC left to that shield — how much PS the opponent needs to throw for it to be lost.

Nodonn (PS 99, PT 35)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>point throw</th>
<th>1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>PS</td>
<td>10 12 8 8 10 12 10 2 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>shield up</td>
<td>mu de th th th ga be pi pi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>alpha</td>
<td>*</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>gamma</td>
<td>*</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>delta</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mu</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>theta</td>
<td>13 6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pi</td>
<td>16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PT</td>
<td>5 11 11 11 18 24 24 27</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In this combat, Abadon decides to use his biggest shields first, even though it will be expensive, whilst Nodonn decides to chop and change to try and outwit his opponent. In round one, Abadon’s pi shield is hit for 10, so it drops to 12 from 22. He throws 15 at Nodonn, who, because he chose his mu shield, has it blown away and has to contain the extra five points. In round two, Nodonn guesses that Abadon’s pi will stay, so throws 12 points at it — it blows, but no extra points need to be contained by Abadon. Nodonn’s delta gets 12 points thrown at it, so it collapses and he has to contain a further 12-6=6 points, making his PT score 11. He decides to use a theta on round three, knocking off the extra 3 points. This carries on as shown. On round six, Nodonn forgets that he needed to throw 12 points; Abadon’s best shield available is a six-point delta. All Nodonn needs to do is blow it away, and conserve his points. On round seven he makes this mistake again. On round nine, Abadon guesses his alpha will go, and he’ll be subject to coma, so he throws all his remaining PS at Nodonn’s pi, hoping this will be blown away, and his enemy’s PT equalled or exceeded. The pi goes, but Nodonn manages to stay under his PT of 35. However he blows away Abadon’s alpha, and wins the combat by virtue of removing all Abadon’s shields. He is left with 6 PS. which could be used for his abilities.

There is no range as such for psionic combat, but the opponents must be within sight of each other — however far away this is (this assumes one or both know the other is psionic). Note that certain perceptors can initiate combat at practically infinite distances, making them very dangerous! If a combatant tries to get out of sight (by hiding behind a tree for example), this will never work since the other will mentally know where he is. Once combat is in progress, sight isn't required.

Note that if a psionic tries to initiate combat with a non-psionic, the PS he would have thrown on round one is simply lost, and the other person's type is then known. In this case, non-psionic includes latents, since they cannot engage in psionic combat.

Withdrawal From Combat

It is possible to withdraw from combat, but the combatant who does this will be at quite a disadvantage. If this course is chosen, the person cannot throw any PS at his opponent, but he must defend using one shield of alpha to delta. The opponent can attack as normal but need only put up a non-costing shield (alpha-delta), he knows no energy is coming his way. The withdrawer must declare his intention at the very beginning of the round that he intends to do so. Almost the only thing the withdrawing character can do is try to offput his opponent, but he may only use a psionic ability since each round is so short — there is no chance of him doing anything in 'real time'. Possible abilities might be domination (providing the victim is within range), telepathic projection, etc. Alternatively, the withdrawer can try to escape via a psionic ability — eg teleportation. If offputting is chosen, the opponent makes a save, and if he fails, the psionic combat is ended for that melee round (see Table 3). If one of the two combatants wants to restart it on the next melee round however, this must happen, providing the two opponents are in sight of each other. If the opponent makes his save, combat must continue as normal on the next psionic round.

Multiplexing

Multiplexing is the melding together of two or more minds to gain strength and organisation, the result of this action being greater than the sum of its parts. However, it is a very difficult and occasionally hazardous operation, and may only be attempted by a group that contains at least one member of master psionic status or above. It is not limited to psionic combat however — it is quite possible to increase range, duration or power of abilities by multiplexing, though in these cases the psionics must all have the ability in question.

First, abilities. All four levels of ability can be changed dramatically by multiplexing. Ranges, durations, relative powers or strengths can all be vastly increased, depending on the number of units in the multiplex, their degrees, and a random factor. The result is in terms of a percentage increase. The starting number is the random element, thrown as d100 (see Table 4).

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Table 4</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>d100 x numbers in multiplex x average of degrees</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Example — Three master psionics need to scry a group of revolutionaries on the other side of a sea. Normally one master psionic could do this as the ability has almost unlimited range. However, the need is urgent, so they want to reduce the time taken as much as possible. They go into the multiplex, and the DM rolls the dice - 70. This is multiplied by three, the number in the multiplex, and by the average of their degrees - 6, 8 and 9 means an average of 7.7 or 8 to the nearest whole number. Thus the time needed to scry is reduced by (70 x 3 x8)% or 1680%; quite a difference! The PS cost is shared equally by the psionics, though when one PS runs out (at this reduced rate), the multiplex will collapse. In this case, each master contributes a third of the normal PS cost of scrying.

An alternative way of looking at this example is to say that the distance mentally traversable is a given time is increased by 1680% — it amounts to the same thing. Note that it is at the GM's discretion as to whether a particular aspect of an ability may be increased by this method. For example, you might not want the range of Possession increased, since this might unbalance the game — as usual, it is up to individual GMs to decide.

If there are three or more in the multiplex, one of the characters can take the role of organiser of the others (as long as they trust him to do this). If this is attempted, the most powerful type takes the role (if more than one, either will be able to do this). The person counts neither his presence nor his degree of multiplex. Instead the final percentage result of the others is multiplied by half his degree (round up but take a minimum factor of two). The role has certain dangers; since the organiser is taking most of the responsibility of the multiplex, the psychic energy goes through him. At the end of the event, he must roll under his degree on 1d12, and if this is failed he loses 4d10 PS for 9-12 days, plus 3d4 CON for the same time. The organiser is entirely in control of the operation, and the other psionic units cannot change what he does with his power - thus a certain amount of trust is required.

In combat, multiplexing will ensure that the final result is greater than the sum of the parts. The psionics, including at least one Master, multiplex their minds and their PSs are added. To this is added 1d10 per unit in the multiplex; the barrier of 118 can be exceeded in this situation. The seven shields are still available, but their capabilities are multiplied by the unit number minus 1 — eg three masters in a multiplex would use a pi with capability (22x(3-1)) or 44. The maximum points throw is the unit number times 22 — ie. 66 for a three unit multiplex, 88 for a four and so on. Upper level shield costs are also multiplied by the number in the multiplex; i.e. a pi would cost 15 PS to use for a three-psionic multiplex, etc. PT's are also added, plus 1d6 per member. At the end of the event, the remaining PS is shared out equally between the members of the multiplex, subject to their personal maximums. All the above statistics are enumerated in Table 5.

Table 5

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>unit number</th>
<th>max. PS-throw</th>
<th>shield EH</th>
<th>shield costs</th>
<th>upper shield costs</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>alpha-pi</td>
<td>mu theta pi</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>44</td>
<td>1,3,4,9,15,22,33</td>
<td>2 6 10</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>66</td>
<td>2,4,6,12,20,3</td>
<td>0.44</td>
<td>3 9 15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>88</td>
<td>3,6,9,18,30,45,66</td>
<td>4 12 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>110</td>
<td>4,8,12,24,40,6</td>
<td>0.88</td>
<td>5 15 25</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

For multiplexes of three and above, one member can try to organise the others, much as with abilities (above). He adds neither PS, PT, nor his extra d10 and d6. The remaining sums are both multiplied by a factor from Table 6, which will make quite a difference to the final PS and PT. As such a large amount of energy is going through him, he must roll under his degree on a d20 in order not to lose 6d10 PS and 4d4 CON for 21-30 days, at the end of the combat. Note that 0 or less CON means death, though 0 or less PS can be survived.

Table 6

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>organiser’s degree</th>
<th>multiplier</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1 - 8</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9 - 11</td>
<td>2.5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Note than an organiser can be offset according to the withdrawal rules above. If he fails to make his save, the multiplex collapses. The opponent who offsets the organiser must himself be the organiser of another multiplex, or a solo psionic himself - the individual multiplexed members play no part in this, being the raw material shaped by the organiser. If an organiser uses a psionic discipline to escape, the multiplex collapses. In both of these cases psionic combat may re-start on the next melee round. As before, if the organiser makes his save against being offset, the combat continues as normal.

Multiplexing may also be used to combine PSs so the result exceeds 100; then the multiplex can strike at non-psionics as if they each normally had the ability. Again, to do this there must be at least one Master psionic in the group. The results and PS-throws are exactly as before. When entering the multiplex, 1d6 is added per member, and as before PS must be at least 100 before and after the throw. The barrier of 118 cannot be exceeded. The members of the multiplex must all be in sight of each other to initiate the event. When complete, the remaining PS points are shared equally amongst the members, up to their individual maximums. One member should be designated as the actual aggressor — a multiplex cannot chop and change with respect to this.

---

"WHITE DWARF" 45
Unit 12A, Olds Approach, Byfleet Industrial Estate, Tolipits Lane, Watford, Herts. WD1 8TS

Postage & Packing
UK 15% (50p minimum), Overseas 50%
Now you can fight your wars across the galaxy with our new 25mm range

GALACTIC WARS figures and vehicles

SP8  8 Wozel R.I.P. (reactive investigative probe)  £2.07
SP9  Terran 2-man 6 wheeled large laser turret  £3.97
SF1  11 Wozel hover 2 crew street vehicle  £2.98
SF17 17 Small sun-gun with two Reptolid crew in full battle armour  £2.07
SF22 Terran infantry in battle armour standing firing 4
naked rifle  £2p
SF33 Terran infantry in battle armour advancing with 5
naked rifle  £2p
SF24 Laser cannon with 4 Terran crew in battle armour  £3.80
SF28 Wozel battle robot advancing with sonic rifle &  5 ballistic launcher  £2p
SF29 Wozel battle robot kneeling firing large sun-gun  £2p
SF30 Laser cannon with four Wozel crew  £3.80
SF31 Forcefield generator  £2p
SF32 Terran 8 foot repair robot  £1.00
SF33 Terran creeper (Colossus recon. experiments)  £1.58 SF34 Terran crawler (Colossus recon. armoured weapons 6 launch) 6-legged  £6.95
SF35 Terran striker (warbot with thermal launcher)  £1.80
SF36 Terran craft (Colossus recon. assault carrier) 4-legged  £1.80
SF37 Terran enforcer assault walker 1-crewman 2 legs  £3.97
SF38 Insectoid with laser rifle  £2p
SF40 Insectoid with communications gear  £2p
SF45 Insectoid with 4 crew  £5.85

Paul & Teresa Bailey are now our authorised dealers for all conventions in the UK and they carry our entire range of over 600 items.

Metal Miniatures are not toys and are not suitable for children under 12 years of age. They contain lead which may be harmful if chewed or swallowed.

---

Special Offer
Fantasy Starter Packs
Worth £15.95
Yours for £13.95
PLUS FREE CATALOGUE
SUMMER 93 CATALOGUE OUT NOW!

Isn't about time your dungeons moved into the third dimension? Rooms, passages, steps, access - everything you need to convert your dungeon master plans into a table-top treat every time! Corners, junctions, dead-ends etc. are available too, to make your system super-flexible. Plus our range of Specials: Dragon's Cave, Wizard's Room, Tavern, Throne Room and Spider's Lair. All cast in sturdy resin with gridded floors and detailed walls to 25mm scale. Prices from 95p to £7.45.

33 Ardleigh Tavern

Send Stamped Addressed Envelope for details to:-
TORCHLIGHT, UNIT 15, BROOKSIDE WORKS, SPRINGFIELD DRIVE, WESTCLIFF-ON-SEA, ESSEX. SS0 ORA or enquire at your local games shop

* STOP PRESS - NEW RELEASES **********
C21 Graveyard Set: £1.95
C22 Miscellaneous Door Set: £1.75

US: Andelen, PO Box 4, Ochre River, Manitoba, Canada.
France: Jeux Actuels, BP 934, 27006 Evreux Cédex.
Italy: Ita Model, 20129 Milano, Via Sirtori, 16.
Norway: AIN Trading Co., Cort Adlers Gate 16, 0254 OSLO 2.
Sweden: GMS Import, Magistrat 51B, S2224 43, Lund.
W. Germany: Citadel, Mühlhänden 413-3, 2000 Hamburg 76.

---

8 NEW LEGION OF THE DAMNED

Mia, b, c & d: Leather armour wielding 2 handed weapon (2 parts)
M2a, b, c, d: Same figure with cloak and different head (2 parts)

Weapons choice:
a. Sword
b. Axe
c. Polearm
d. Ball & Chain
PRICE: 50p each
Postage Orders up to £2.50 add 25p. Orders over £2.50 add 10% catalogue 25p
(12p with order)

DENIZEN MINIATURES, 4a Powis Square, Brighton, Sussex BNI 3HH

---

25mm fantasy

NEW ZEALAND & AUSTRALIA

These superb U.K. figures are now being manufactured under licence in New Zealand. FREE FULLY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE - detailing the full range, trade terms and special Australasian discount package. Write NOW to:

DENIZEN MINIATURES NZ)
P.O. Box 3830, CHRISTCHURCH,
New Zealand.

---

The UNTAMED LAND is a play-by-mail game set in fantasy land. You take the place of a party, made up from 9 different classes of people. Search thousands of locations including caves, mines, castles, dungeons and other dark depths, to find your wealth or doom.

To enrol in the UNTAMED LAND send just £5.00 cheque/PO payable to TRELAND GAMES. For this you will receive your set-up pack and 3 FREE turns. Future turns cost £1.50 each. Or send a SAE for an information sheet explaining more about the game. Send to TRELAND GAMES, PO box 49, Newport, Gwent, S.Wales, NP9 6Y.L.

European players welcome.

THE "WARLORD" GAMES SHOP
818 London Rd., LEIGH ON SEA.
Tel. SOUTHEIND 73308
Open 9.30-1.30 and 2.30-5.30
Closed on Mondays

Stockists of DUNGEONS & DRAGONS
Most RPGs and Supplements
- Wargames * Fantasy Games *
- Science Fiction Games *

THE "WARLORD II" GAMES SHOP
362 Chartwell Square, SOUTHEIND
Tel. SOUTHEIND 815988
Open Mon-Sat 9.30-5.30

---
BEWARE!... you hold a creature in your hand

WEEDWADER

WORLDSHAKER CREATURE CREATION

WORLDSHAKER: Creature Creation is not a module, it is not a play aid, it is not a protracted list of needless statistics. WORLDSHAKER: Creature Creation is an introduction to WORLDSHAKER, the first 'systemless system'. This means that you can use Creature Creation with any system. Creature Creation is ideas. It gives you all the information you need to create your own creatures, humanoid races, plants and diseases. Size, shape, colour, capabilities, description, food sources, environment, behaviour, mating and reproduction are just some of the aspects covered. WORLDSHAKER: Creature Creation tells you how to use this information to create a living campaign. Whatever genre you're interested in—Fantasy, Science Fiction or Horror—there's something in here for YOU.

Compatible with any Role Playing Game WORLDSHAKER: Creature Creation costs £4.95 post free UK, Overseas add 20%.

Track down:

at 126 Northcote Avenue
Southall · Middlesex UB1 2BA

Please mention White Dwarf when replying to advertisements.
Welcome back to dungeon adventures.

The new ADVANCED DUNGEONS & DRAGONS® Dungeoneer's Survival Guide takes you into exciting new worlds — and all beneath your feet!

With new rules material on all aspects of the underdark and the lands of Deepearth, dungeons will never be the same again!

The AD&D® Dungeoneer's Survival Guide is available from better games and hobby shops, or contact

TSR UK Limited
The Mill, Rathmore Road
Cambridge, CB1 4AD
United Kingdom

TSR Inc
POB 756
Lake Geneva
WI 53147

ADVANCED DUNGEONS & DRAGONS and AD&D are registered trademark of TSR, Inc. The TSR logo and PRODUCTS OF YOUR IMAGINATION are trademarks of TSR, Inc. ©1986 TSR UK Limited.
THRU THE BARBARIAN

A DARE AND SNIFFER CASTLE, HIDING A BIZARRE SECRET, AND AN OCCASIONAL ENCOUNTER WITH BEASTS.

RARRRMMABBBLE

IT LAST, THE FINDING TOUCHES - TIME I GOT BARBARIAN WILL SOON TROUBLE ME NO MORE.

THINK OF IT! THE BRAIN OF A DEAD MAN WANTING TO LIVE AGAIN IN A BODY UNMARCHED WITH HIS OWN HANDS.

DANGEROUS ABNORMAL HUMAN BRAIN DO NOT USE IN TANKS

THE STORM GROWS STRONGER - IT IS ONLY A MATTER OF TIME BEFORE THE AWESOME POWER OF NATURE BREATHE LIFE INTO MY CREATION.

JUST THINK - AN IMPROBABLE COINCIDENCE IN THE TRAVEL PILOT...

BADMM!

IT LIVES, HOW TO DESTROY THE BARBARIAN ONCE AND FOR ALL!

AMAAARGH!
Fig 1-8: Kevin Adams' New Gothic Horror Miniatures.
Fig 9: Naismith's Excellent hard line work on the C100 Space Marine Range.
Fig 10: A selection of Kev Adams' New Goblins.

Fig 11: Jes Goodwin's Chaos Sorcerer & familiars.
Fig 12-14: Ali Morrison's latest additions to the troll range.
Fig 15: Trish Morrison's Magnificent New Dragon
(don't worry folks it will have Wings, honest).
Fig 16: Another Jes Goodwin construction: The Manitcore.
Fig 17-18: Various Armatures.
This Month: Birth of the Figure

There are several ways of making a Citadel figure designer very cross. One is to threaten his favourite bottle of strong drink... Another is to suggest that, perhaps, the masterpiece he has just created could do with just a few more spiky bits... Or you could - and this is really dangerous - ask him why he paints all the figures green... The reply will be very illuminating.

Figure designers are sensitive people.

On the other hand, they are fairly well, very talented. Without them, there wouldn't be any figures to lavish paint upon. The tame Citadel loonies, err, designers, are an extremely talented bunch. And that, they claim, is official. But who are they?

Kevin Adams is the latest addition to the design group, and the owner of the world's heaviest feet. Although from Cambridge, Kevin has specialised in designing Goblins and vaguely goblinoid creatures (the snottings, for example). Even as you read this, Kevin will be proving that it isn't just Gobboes that he can design, with a new batch of Gothic Horror figures, even more Zombies and a four-wheeled wagon for adventurers. However, just to keep his hands in, Kevin will be producing some extra Goblin Fanatics.

Jes Goodwin's work for Asgard was well-regarded (not to say drooled over) before he ever joined Citadel. Classics such as the Skaven, the Eternal Champion Boxed Set and the latest Ogres are all his handiwork. He's just finished doing some Silvan (wood) Elves for Middle-earth and a selection of Mind Flayers for the AD&D range. There are, apparently, only so many things you can do with a face full of obstacles... The next figures from his clever little fingers include a Manticore, a series of distinctly bizzare Chaos Wizards and Familiars and a crew for the new Elf Chariot.

Aly Morrison is, among other things, terribly Scottish. A wierd eye problem has kept him away from figure production, but he is currently venting his talents upon a new range of trolls and a few odd wizards. Also in Aly's pipeline (if you'll forgive the expression) are another group of Talismans figures to complement the latest expansion kit for the game. Add to this some (shush, secret) figures for a soon to be announced new game from GW, and you'd think the wee chappie had never been out of the model soldier game.

Trish Morrison is mildly Scottish - perhaps it's infectious. In her 2½ years as a Citadel designer, she has contributed numerous acts of designing, and been responsible for the perpetuation of a number of figures. These include the massive Villagers range, the Judge Dredd Perps and the Gothic Horror figures. She asks that several other figure ranges be taken into consideration.

Although the designers are working on fantasy figures, the next stage is, perhaps, one of the most important to the overall look of the figure... and often determines whether the finished figure looks right or not. The basic anatomy of the model is decided upon, and a wire armature is built for each figure. This is carefully soldered together so that the right proportions for the figure's limbs and body are set - and obvious things like the knees and elbows are in the right places! The feeling of movement in the finished figure is also set at this point, because the degree of animation comes directly from the pose of the armature. The armature is the support for the figure while it is being built - its skeleton, in fact.

Once the armature is finished, work on the rest of the model can start. The bulk of the figure is added using Milliput (a type of epoxy modelling putty). Musculature, for example, is added at this stage in a fairly appropriate way, as are such items as voluminous cloaks, pointed hats and the like.

Because of the working qualities of Milliput, it is also used to make objects which have a lot of straight lines and planes. Seige equipment, for example, is built almost entirely from sheets of Milliput and, once it is dry, it can be carved to make items like handgongs.

The fine detail of the figure - and usually its complete top surface - is produced using a different two-part epoxy putty which, when mixed, is green. This is what leads to the assumption that all figures are painted green for some reason and secret reason. It's at this stage that the designer can really shine, adding as much surface detail and personality to a figure as eyes and finger-nimblessness allow. Often some - not much, fortunately - of this detail can be lost during the process of making the mould for the production castings.

Occasionally, several similar figures are required - like the range of AD&D Mind Flayers, for example. When this is the case, the first castings are sent back to the designer for a conversion job. This is why you will come across ranges of figures with similar bodies but completely different heads, or figures who have the same nose but radically different armament. It also means that a far larger range of individualized models can be offered than would otherwise be the case.

The final stage on a figure can take anything upwards of a day for the designer - so usually they are working on several figures at once. The final job is to add slottabases and labels to the castings.

From the designers, the figures go off to the production department, so that several master figures can be made, a production mould produced and the figures sold. Which is a lot more work than it sounds.

What is fascinating is that after all the work to produce a new figure, lots of people still rush off and convert them into something completely different.

NEXT MONTH: A TRIP INTO THE DARKEST DISMAL DANK DEPTHS OF DEEPEST... ER, SHEFFIELD.
Full range of roleplaying games and accessories, fantasy and sci-fi board games, historical war games and rules, as well as complete range of traditional games. Demonstrations every other Saturday.

NORTH LONDON'S GAMES SPECIALIST

LEISURE GAMES

91 Ballards Lane
Finchley, N3 1XY
Telephone: 01-346 2327

(Just 3 minutes walk from FINCHLEY CENTRAL UNDERGROUND)

OPEN 6 DAYS A WEEK 9.30am-6.00pm
(SAT - 5.30pm)

We can offer mail order - send SAE for details

Chaos
NINJA

ALSO CHAOS SAMURAI
THE BEST ORIENTAL ROLE PLAYING FIGURES IN THE WORLD!

Send S.A.E. for list of NEW RELEASES only or ask at your local stockist

IF YOU WANT THE FULL CATALOGUE SEND £1.50p
(Price includes Post & Packaging)

NINJA POSTER – Superbly eye-catching! ONLY £1.50 including Post and Packing

OUR USA & Canadian distributor is:
Mr. J.B. Hood,
Area Code: 304 547 0000,
Wargames Box 278, Route 40 East,
Triedelphia, W.V. 26059.
USA TEL: 304 845 7215.

DIXON MINIATURES. Unit 28, Spring Grove Mills,
Linthwaite, Huddersfield, W. Yorkshire. Tel: (0484) 846162.

*Metal Miniatures are not toys and are not suitable for children under 12 years of age.
They contain lead which may be harmful if chewed or swallowed.
CANTERBURY SOFTWARE & GAMES
9 THE FRIARS CANTERBURY
KENT CT1 2AS
(0227) 453531

LARGE STOCKS OF:
DUNGEONS & DRAGONS, RUNEQUEST;
TRAVELLER MIDDLE EARTH, DR WHO STAR TREK, CHAMPIONS, TALISMAN,
JUDGE DREDD

MODULES FOR ABOVE MINIATURES
BY CITADEL, GRENADEIR PAINTS
& BRUSHES. PLUS A LARGE RANGE OF SERIOUS BOARD GAMES AND LOTS MORE

A New 3-D Dungeon System from parkways

A fully comprehensive range of both single and double width corridors, rooms, and accessories for role playing games. Rooms size and shape flexibility with each new adventure due to our unique variable independent wall and slab concept. Each piece is hand cast in durable resin having fine detail, strength and originality. The range has been designed and manufactured to give the optimum playing space to cater for 25mm scale figures

4 WARREN HILL ROAD, KINGSTANDING, BIRMINGHAM, B44 6EX.

D & G GAMES

10% DISCOUNT ON ALL GAMES & FIGURES.
GAMES FROM GAMES WORKSHOP, TSR,
AVALON HILL, WEST END, GDW, FASA and more
FIGURES FROM CITADEL, MINIFIGS & GRENADEIR

66 CREWE RD.,
ALSGER,
Nr. STOKE ON TRENT, CHESHIRE

Telephone: 093 634091

Mail orders
U.K.
Please add 10%
Orders over £15 POST FREE

OVERSEAS:
Please add 50% (min. £1)
Airmail add 60% (min. £1)

THE MARINES ARE HERE.

SPA1 Marine in power armour with laser and jetpack
SPA2 Marine in power armour firing laser rifle
SPA3 Marine in power armour running
SPA4 Marine in power armour with tactical combat pack
SPA5 Marine commander with blaster
SPA6 Marine in power armour with comm.pack
SPA7 Marine in power armour with heavy laser and powerpack
SPA8 Marine in power armour with TAG, missile pod
SPA9 Marine in power armour with twin heavy lasers mounted on tripod

SO ARE THE ALIENS.

SPA1 Tico mercenary in partial armour with twin auto cannon
SPA2 Tico mercenary in partial armour with heavy particle weapon
SPA3 Tico mercenary in full armour with TAC. missile pods
SPA10 Tico in partial armour with laser rifle
SPA11 Tico in partial armour with auto cannon on cyborglizard
SPA12 Tico in light armour with TAC. missile on mechanical lizard

AND THE VEHICLES.

SPV1 Military/TAC-TUG (light g.p.)
SPV2 Military/Assault vehicle
SPV3 Civil/personal anti-grav sled

Metal Miniatures are not toys and are not suitable for children under 12 years of age. They contain lead which may be harmful if chewed or swallowed.
THEY 'VE BROKEN LOOSE!

For the D&D® Game...

THE CREATURE CATALOGUE

- 96-page, large paperback volume
- UK Design
- Over 180 fiendish monsters from the feverish imaginations of the TSR design teams
- Profusely illustrated, with drawings of every listing
- Complete index to all D&D™ monsters & complete encounter tables

For the AD&D™ Game...

THE BOOK OF LAIRS

- 96-page, large paperback volume
- Pre-generated scenarios to liven up those tedious wilderness treks
- 61 Detailed lairs, each with its own deadly denizens
- Maps and illustrations
- Full monster stats

ALSO AVAILABLE...

- NEW AD&D PLAYER CHARACTER RECORD SHEETS - revised and up-to-date with the latest AD&D character classes, spells, abilities, etc.

- GDQ1-7 QUEEN OF THE SPIDERS - a 128-page AD&D Supermodule! The sequel to Scourge of the Slavelords, situated in the WORLD OF GREYHAWK™ fantasy setting.

- I9 Day of Al'Akbar - a spicy AD&D module set in, around and under an oasis town. You must find the sacred relics to avert the dread plague.

- IM1 The Immortal Storm - the first module for the D&D Immortals rules. Mighty Immortals from the five spheres of power meet in a desperate battle to obtain the Key to Eternity.

TSR UK Limited
The Mill
Rathmore Road
Cambridge
CB1 4AD

WILDERNESS SURVIVAL GUIDE

WATCH OUT FOR ARRIVING MID-NOVEMBER

The symbol ™ denotes a trademark of TSR Inc. All rights reserved © 1986 TSR UK Ltd.
Andrew Butler & others, The Koji Corporation, Trimmersouth, Devon, Terra. We enclose a contribution to the fund to fly over Laurille Miller for Games Day. We hope there will not be too much trouble with the currency conversion. Also, we should be most grateful if you would pass on the enclosed invitation; the reply (if any) should be addressed to the above sub-branch of the Koji Corporation, who are handling Terran bookings. The place aboard the Lucky Lady for this VIP trip has been presented by Victoria Hindmarsh, President of Virginia Holdings LIC, for services to the cause of Feminine Womanhood everywhere.

Alan Bishop, Herne Bay, Kent: What is it that makes relatively competent male roleplayers gibber and foam at the mouth at the thought/mention/sight of an attractive female player? Haven't any of these drooling hulks who have screamed for autographs, photos and pieces of her attire ever seen a member of the gaming species who happens to be female? This factor - sometimes known as the Slobbering Maniacs Syndrome - could be the reason why so few female gamers can be seen roleplaying.

James Wallis, Woodbridge, Suffolk: One thing puzzles me. Why is there all this fuss about Laurille Miller, an American when Britain has its own favourite female fantasy girl. I speak, of course, of that femme fatale of RPG, the delightful designer of dozens of dungeons, the simple, stunning, intrepid adventuress and regular WD writer, Fiona Lloyd. Where, pray, is all the fan mail to her? She seems just the sort of person any gamer with his genes in the right place would drool over. Give her the recognition she deserves!

Welcome, citizens, to another edition of the Letters page, that centre of intellectual thought about all that is germane to gaming. The flood of money that came into the Laurille Miller fund has paid for a lengthy post-Games Day holiday for the editorial team, and so - rejuvenated - we can tackle anything. Even this:

Brian Duguid, Turriff, Aberdeenshire: I was interested by Robert Povey's comment in W&D. Why should kids admire Judge Dredd? Dredd is Sylvester Stallone in a silly costume. Dredd is evil; Dredd represents tyranny and oppression. Is this the kind of person Robert wants kids to look up to? How about Adolf Hitler? Mussolini? Reagan?

How about independence of thought? Since when does a kid need a hero to look up to? Perhaps we should be encouraging them to respect their own worth, rather than having to admire others' greatness. The world's problems cannot be solved by shooting them.

Kublai Hoare, London: Why do people consider Judge Dredd a hero? He uses high-explosive bullets when in our time plastic bullets are coming under question. He arrests people without trial and kills people without enquiry. Hitler would have liked him. So why do you print things about a butcher like him?

Craig Oxnbrow, Edinburgh: I think it is good that we can admire Judge Dredd. Although Mega-City is a depraved society, Judge Dredd and his fellows bring law to its lawbreakers. He certainly isn't a 'murderring swine'; in his 1984 annual, even Satan has to admit that 'he's the stubbornest case I've ever had to face.'

Ben Young, Ripon, N Yorks: I think the JDporg system is great, but I can't see the pleasure in playing Judges, who are emotionless dispensers of Law and Justice. If Robert Povey thinks that children should admire JD (who once beat up and interrogated a jove on the grounds that he 'wasn't suspecting criminality'), then he must have something wrong with his head. Far better, is it not, to look up to Superman, Indiana Jones, or even Mad Max (someone try to challenge me on that, just try it...). Long live Mike Goldsmith and Stan Lee!

Judge Dredd, Stourton, Worcs: Actually, I am a murdering swine.

Brian Jones, Plymouth, Devon: Why have there been no articles in WD for the excellent Chill rpg system? This apparently little-known game is well thought-out, and opens the realms of roleplaying into the previously unexplored ground of the era of gothic horror covered only in those wonderfully ridiculous Vintage Price horror films (ie, 1875-1940/50). Please do an article on this Chill-ing game, if only for us sadistic megalomaniac GMSs... ha, ha, ha.

But less of this. I move on the more pressing matter or punishing deviant judges in the JD rpg. I noticed this gap in the game rules, so I developed the following table to discourage rash roleplaying. I find it very useful, and I trust you do too....

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Judges Offence</th>
<th>Punishment</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Minor Offense</td>
<td>1 charge</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>eg, failure to report in</td>
<td>Reconditioning</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 charges</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major Offense</td>
<td>5-15 years on Titan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>eg, possessing illegal goods</td>
<td>Life on Titan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2nd Major Offense</td>
<td>Retraining - next</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unnecessarily endangering</td>
<td>XPs to be spent on</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>innocent citizens' lives</td>
<td>skill falling/lowest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unjust killing of innocent</td>
<td>20% on Titan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>citizens</td>
<td>The Long Walk</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Treason</td>
<td>Frontal lobotomy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Judge Killing</td>
<td>Life on Titan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corruption</td>
<td>Life on Titan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Softening of judgement</td>
<td>20 Years on Titan</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

One final question. When is Slaughter Margin to be released? Where is the Sistrontium Dog rpg? Why are there no supplements available for Chill? When will the Paranoia book be released? Eh, eh? Find out, then! I want a reply! If I've wasted 17 Credits on something that's going in the bin, I'll -

You have a reality problem here, citizen. Of course your letter has ended up in the bin - recycling is the civic duty of all citizens. Still, at least we managed to ask the relevant questions of those with the power to make decisions here, and they answered your 'last question' with: Next year, in the hands of a brave author and due out late next year maybe, dunno nothing to do with us gun, and what is your security clearance?

A man who's middle name is 'Popular' (a lie; his real middle names are available to anyone who sends a stamped addressed envelope), is one of those who have come to know MGP and to love him. Read on, and see if I'm not right.

Peter Burden, Hitchin, Herts: I was shocked to read in your latest issue the attitude you profess to hold towards all Lrgps. I would agree with you that the 'rubber sword' brigade do the hobby no good whatsoever. It is also true that they are promiscuous in their pursuit. Please tell the Press. Something you do not seem to have taken into account are the groups who are not reported in the Press.

Believe me, there are a few groups who are not of the club and who are members of some other hobby group. The group I belong to has evolved over a period of five years to such a stage where we use a great deal of authentic equipment and armour. Even so, we have yet to have any injury of any sort even though we use metal swords and other paraphernalia.

I think you will find that the groups to which you refer are all run on a profit-making basis, and so cannot be so discriminating as to who takes part, and cannot afford to spend many hours on training. Obviously, you cannot know about every group, but I feel offended when lumped in with what you term 'a bunch of loonies'.

Please, in future, try and consider that you may be offending a large number of people in such groups as the Sealed Knot, who for the most part are engaged in a worthwhile and informative hobby. It could be said that people playing RPGs are all schizophrenia escaping from reality, but obviously this would be attacking your membership in an unacceptable manner. This is exactly what you have done in your response to Kevin Jacklin's letter.

David Rawlins, Canterbury, Kent: What, may I ask, has live roleplaying done to deserve your scorn? For a long time now, I have seen snide remarks appearing in WD about most worthwhile hobby. With the recent editorial changes, I thought I had seen the last. Apparently not.

I resent being referred to as one of a 'bunch of loonies who dress in silly costumes and hit each other with silly clubs'. I know the comments were made in jest, then I suggest you rethink your position as Editor of the Letters Page. If you have never been live roleplaying, then I suggest you apologise and remedy the fact. The Lebowski is the most competitive live roleplaying environment I have ever had the good fortune to enter.

Your attitude, Mr Gascoigne, stinks of a bigotry I don't expect to find in a 'free' hobby magazine. Or else, you just throw gibber words on paper in what should have been a sensible reply to a well thought-out letter. In either case, I find myself wondering what you are doing editing a Letters Page.
LETTERS

Dave Morris, Wandsworth, London: Marc, it is extraordinarily obuse of you to suppose that reviews serve no function other than to fill up space. I can see how that might be the attitude of some people, but not of WD. In my book, people who do not take the trouble to read the reviews do not immediately gain access to every new product that is published, and often the only thing they have to go on is a review. Back-up features in WD are just as important. I do feel we are over-concerned with Games Workshop stuff anyway! Candy-floss like Superpowers, Warrior Knights and Judge Dredd are thus "important enough to deserve heavy coverage", but we get no reviews of Blandford, Let's Drink & Disregard, Palladium’s weapons and castles sourcebooks.

The whole discussion about more people entering the hobby has made the assumption that this is a wholly good and desirable thing. Obviously, from a commercial point of view it is important to those who make a living out of the hobby. That applies to me, in fact, but as a gamer I find it a matter of supernatural irrelevance whether there are 15,000 or 30,000 people out there (it’s 20,000 at the last count). I don’t even consider it a religion where every convert is a soul saved! WD was never more worthwhile than in the Jamie Thomson days when the circulation was less than half what it is now. In place of articles on Judge Dredd, in those days, we had developed fantasy adventures like Teddy, we have now. Thud, ninja, ‘notions’, adolescent parodies of Macbeth and letters on how to swap properly in Mael, Civic, City, One, Apart from the fact that we are all a rite mite better than we used to be. I can’t see how the extra 20,000 converts have done this hobby any good.

I am too. You turn your back for a minute and the hired hands are getting you into all kinds of trouble. Oh, those new players have done to the hobby; what matters is that they are getting something out of it. The same is true of live role-playing; some people in the hobby may sneer at what they do, but so long as they have found a niche in the hobby in which they can enjoy themselves, I don’t see where anyone has the right to say they shouldn’t be allowed that place. It seems funny to me that when we’re dealing with people who are supposed to develop free-thinking, some people are becoming more narrow-minded than ever.

The Computer, Alpha Complex: Attention. White Dwarf editor. Once again you pleased The Computer and avoided vapourisation. The treasonous commune mutant science fiction, the perpetration of the All New Computer Horror Real Action Show, is thought to include a subversive map of ILM, but to further confusion and death it was removed. The Computer will be happy for WD to print a blank atlas and guidebook. After all, The Computer is your friend.

Phil Widdows, Kirkham, Lancs: The one responsible for the lay-out of the All New Computer Horror Real Action Show is obviously a commie spy and should be terminated at once! How are we supposed to play without the maps?

In exactly the same way, citizen. Variables have been removed from circulation, but Nethor didn’t stop us printing two pages of the Traveller adventure in the wrong order, or replacing Grenadier’s advertisement with an old Mail Order ad! If you have noticed the job advertisement elsewhere in this magazine (please let it be on the back cover there!), don’t be fooled. We don’t want an editorial assistant, we want a Red level troubleshooter...

N Forsku, Cottingham, N Humberside: Why, in WD81, was the WD subscription form incredibly easy to pull out, fill in and stick through the letter box (after only a minor piece of origami), post-free, whilst the Games Day awards questionnaire required you to rip great chunks out of your sparkling new WD, and then pay for the postage?

Surely something is wrong here! If you want to know what the wide majority of gamers think, surely you should be encouraging them to reply?

And where were you when we did the Readers Poll? If we are going to make any pronouncements about what the ‘wide majority of gamers think’, that is what they will be based on. Mind you, in the future we had about unprintable replies, it is going to take us some time to sort the answers through. But here, as a matter of fact, the responses to question 1, based on about two-thirds of the filled-in questionnaires:

Section Answer

Critical Mass

a) 157 137375 52
b) 15% 24% 32% 18%
c) 15% 24% 32% 18%
d) 15% 24% 32% 18%
e) none

Fuccus

96% 2009 1969 249 39
6% 25% 48% 16% 5%
Fuccus

2020 Vision

96 497 1650 1136 630 30
2% 13% 42% 28% 18%
Small Ads

2% 13% 42% 28% 18%
6% 50% 99% 9% 3%
Letters

15% 36% 37% 9% 3%
5% 50% 99% 9% 3%
"Easy Metal"

14% 83% 347 319 143 2
37% 30% 93% 5%
Gobbledy-gook

14% 33% 14% 6% 5%
44% 33% 14% 6% 5%
Thud

44% 33% 14% 6% 5%
50% 32% 12% 4% 2%

If you recall, (a) responses meant the reader real-

If you recall, (a) responses meant the reader real-

If you recall, (a) responses meant the reader real-

If you recall, (a) responses meant the reader real-

If you recall, (a) responses meant the reader real-
From the people who brought you PARANOIA:

GHOSTBUSTERS

The Roleplaying Game

Ghostbusters — Skilled professionals on call 24 hours a day to serve all your supernatural elimination needs!
Wisdom, Science, and Unlicensed Nuclear Accelerators in the service of humanity.

Look at all the neat stuff you get for only £12.95:
- Ghostbusters Training Manual
- Equipment Cards
- Ghostbusters Operations Manual
- Five Mundane Randomizers (dice)
- Player Handouts
- One Ghostly Randomizer (nifty die)

AND NOW!

TWO GREAT ADVENTURES!

GHOST TOASTIES
The first adventure for GHOSTBUSTERS. A 24 page romp through the world of the supernatural and breakfast cereals (!?!). A major ethereal menace threatens the world's junk food eaters, hey, that's us! Who we gonna call?
Includes 3 panel GM's Screen.

HOT RODS OF THE GODS
A 48 page adventure of usual looniness and spectral crazies. Actually a close encounter of the 1950s kind, sort of. HOT RODS features a card stock map of Manhattan, The Mostly All New & Improved Super-Mega Ecotribal and full colour Hot Rod counters.
Available in December 1986.

£6.95

COMING SOON

West End Games
251 West 30th Street, Suite 11
New York, NY 10001

Games Workshop
Chewton St, Hilltop, Eastwood, Notts.

For access & Visa Orders ring the mail-order Hotlines on (0773) 769522/760462

GHOSTBUSTERS logo and logo design ©1986 Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. All Rights Reserved.
If Games Days can be likened to films, then this year’s was Aliens. Action-packed, with thrills and horrors aplenty, it certainly drew the crowds. Directed by Ian Livingstone and Steve Jackson, the weekend starred Sandy Petersen (designer of Call of Cthulhu) as the beleaguered victim of the eldritch tentacled horrors. Sandy was repeatedly forced to confront a motley collection of slimy alien nasties during the weekend, but delivered his lines impeccably. A sample of the great man’s wisdom: ‘Using dynamite is a sign of failure - unless you’re using it properly.’

As ever, the hall contained a large complement of heavily armed warriors. This year, Labyrinth Live Role-Players had produced a book to explain to a bemused public just what it is that Live Role-Players get up to. Very necessary it was, too, as upstairs, in the mazy networks of Seminar Rooms, Mother Alien Marc Gascoigne was to be found defending his comments about LRP as this very magazine. It was all in vain, unfortunately, for some wily young adventurer had found his way to the very top of the building, where the Fanzine Editors were spending the weekend plotting ruin and destruction for all. Asking these vile creatures for aid he was told the Two Arcane Middle Names of Marc Gascoigne, and waited for an escape and made his way downstairs in order to Roast the embarrassingly Warlock editor on Sunday, along with the various other celebrities.

Biggest crowd-pullers were, of course, Ian Livingstone and Steve Jackson, who caused a mass stampede when their signing session was announced. Punters were busy during the whole weekend, though, using the space for autographs thoughtfully included in the programme booklet... More studious types could use the space to make notes in the erudite seminars given by famous game designers like David ‘Railway Rivals’ Watts and Derek ‘Warrior Knights’ Carver. Or they could make sketches if the went to the Fantasy Art seminars with the likes of Chris Achilleos.

‘Smart guns’ of the weekend were definitely Messrs Cockbourn and Brunton of White Dwarf (baa! surely not?) who were able to take part in an assortment of events without having their middle names exposed. These talks included discussion on ‘The Future of the Hobby’, The verdict? ‘Yes, it has one’.

New Products. Well, the boardgame Warlock of Firetop Mountain was unleashed upon a unsuspecting world, and seemed to catch on right away. Also new was Kings and Things. If Games Days can be likened to games, then this years was Kings and Things. Action packed, with thrills and horrors aplenty... no, wait, I’ve done that.

And, and, and... the Games Day Quiz, the Warhammer demonstration (complete with stunning balloon!), the Auction and many other events made this Cert. (18) spectacular the best yet. Look forward to the sequel next year!

GAMES DAY ‘86

As reported by a bemused Paul Mason

Listen carefully, I will say this only once... A casual word of warning. If some foreign chappy comes up to you and goes “Ere, Mister, want to buy some naughty French toy soldiers…”, you should think several times before parting with your money. Bridge, a French figure manufacturer, have apparently decided not to bother with housing and feeding any of their own designers by using somebody else’s products as their master castings. Of course, if you want to buy (not very good) copies of Citadel figures at higher prices than the originals that is entirely a matter for you. And over here, we’ve got these really nice used cars...

Ooops and Grovelling Apologies 1: Somebody (mentioning no names) forgot to put a further mention of Dragoonoid in to last month’s Fracas. After the success of the last one with £500 being raised and the D&D marathon record being broken (and equalled by the second team), they’re going to do it all over again over Easter 1987 in London. This time there will be another marathon, a games convention and comics. The money raised will go to Help the Aged, Help a London Child and Paramedico. If you think you could help, contact Mike Sharp on 01 245 2967 or Richard Beatty on 01 597 5760.

Ooops and Grovelling Apologies 2: Apart from missing out the maps in the Paranoia adventure in WD81 (but really, that kind of information is classified), and managing to stick two pages of the Traveller adventure down in the wrong order (you mean you didn’t notice either?) we also managed to leave out a Grenadier advert completely. Ashes and sack-cloth all round, and apologies to Doug Cowie of Grenadier UK Limited for the confusion caused. This issue we’ll get everything right. Probably.
DISCOUNT MAIL ORDER
DISCOUNT ORDERS OVER £10 - 5% ORDERS OVER £20 - 10%

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS
Basic Set £8.95
B3, B17, B18, B18 Solo ea. £5.50
Expert Set £8.95
- B1, X1, X10 ea. £6.95
- X6, X7, X8 ea. £6.95
- X Solo, X52 ea. £5.50
- X11 £7.95
- X12 £4.95
Companion Set £9.95
- CM1, CM2, CM3 ea. £5.50
- CM4, CM5, CM6, CM7 ea. £8.50
Master Set £8.95
- M1, M2, M2 ea. £5.50
Accessories for D&D
AC1 - Shady Dragon Inn £4.95
AC2 - Combat Shield £3.95
AC3 - Dragon Ties £3.95
AC4 - Dragon Ties II £3.95
AC5 - Book of Marvellous Magic £6.95
AC6 - Player Character Records (revised) £3.95
AC7 - Master Player Screen £3.95
ADVANCED DUNGEONS & DRAGONS
Dungeons Master Guide £12.95
Players Handbook £11.95
Monster Manual £10.95
Monster Manual II 10.95
Faul Folio £10.95

Legends & Lore £10.95
Unearthed Arcana £11.95
Oriental Adventures £11.95
UK4, UK5, UK6, UK7 ea. £5.50
Dragons of Doom Source Book £5.95
D1, D2, D3, D4 ea. £5.50
D6, D6, D10 ea. £5.50
D12, D12 ea. £5.95
D11 Dragons of Glory £8.95
D12 Dragons of Faith £7.95
D13 Dragons of Truth £6.95
G1, G1, G1, D1, D6, Dn, Dn £5.95
Lankmar City of Adventure £8.95
C1, C2, C3 £5.95

MSH Advanced Set £9.95
MA1 Children of the Atom £7.95
MH1, MH2, MH3, MH4 ea. £3.50
MH5, MH6, MH7, MH8 ea. £3.50
MHAC2, 2:3:4:5 ea. £3.50
MHAC5 £3.95
MHAC8 £3.50
MHAC9 £3.95
MHAC7:8 MHSF1 ea. £3.50
MHSF2 £4.95
Star Frontiers Boxed Set £8.95
Starfrontiers Guide to Space £3.95
SFI, SFP, SFR, SFO ea. £4.95
SFO01, SF001 ea. £4.95
Knight Hawka Boxed Set £4.95
SFO1, SFO1:2:3:4 ea. £3.95
Indiana Jones Boxed Set £3.95
U1:2:3:4:5:6:7 £3.95
Conan Boxed Set £3.95
CN1, CN2, CN3 ea. £4.95

GAMES WORKSHOP
Judge Dredd RPG £12.95
Judge Dredd £9.95
Judge Dredd Board Game £9.95
Talman 2nd Edition £12.95
Talman Expansion Set £9.95
Talman the Adventurer £4.95
Warhammer Revised £9.95
Bloodbath at Oasis £9.95
Terror of the Lichemaster £6.95
Blood on the Streets £6.95
McDeath £6.95

Kings and Things £12.95
Warlock of Firetop £12.95
Call of Cthulhu (Hardback) £12.95
Chthon by Gaslight £14.95
Dreamlands £16.95
Super Power £12.95
Cosmic Encounter £12.95
Warrior Knights £16.95
Railway Rifles £12.95
Batte Cars £8.95
Dr. Who Board Game £9.95
Golden Heroes £9.95
O.H. Supervisors Pack £3.95
Legacy of Eagles £9.45
Queen Victoria/Holy Grail £2.95
Get Out Plans £3.95
Monster Plant Set £5.95
GRENADA MODELS (All 25mm)
War Mammoth Masterpiece £5.95
Dragonoids - Dragondark £3.95
Sea Dragon £3.95
Iron Dragon £3.95
Land of the Rings - Fellowship of the Rings £4.50
Saurons Dark Ones £4.50
Shelob Liar £4.50
Hilman of Trolldjaw £4.50

FOR ACCESS ORDERS RING ROD ON TELESALES HOTLINE (0244) 28802.
Credit card orders despatched same day subject to availability.

MEDWAY GAMES CENTRE
1 CHURCH STREET
CHATHAM, KENT
Tel: MEDWAY (0634) 814750
Fantasy Games ● Board Games Figures: CITADEL, GRENADIER, PRINZ AUGUST, MINIFIGS
Open Mon-Sat 9.30-5.30
(Closed Wednesday)

SOUND-SCAPES
THROUGH TIME & SPACE A NEW DAWN HAS BEGINNED - WITH IT HAS ARRIVED JANUS, MUSIC-LORD OF THE COSMOS

M54 1:500 Scale Map
Map Code: 7

Please mention White Dwarf when replying to advertisements.
OUT NOW!
The latest addition to our popular STARCRAFT 2000
25mm interiors range –
SS2: STARCRAFT CONTROL CENTRE – all the main parts to build a Starship...
...and seek out new civilizations!!

ONLY £2.20 (+ 30p postage)

DISCOUNT MAIL ORDER CATALOGUE All ranges in stock with many special offers each month, i.e. (if ordered before Nov 22nd 1986) –
- Third Dimension Spaceship Starter Pack SS1 £2.20 only E1.95 (+ 30p post)
- Dark Blader (Standard’s new game) £24.95 only £17.35 (+ 30p post)
- Prince August Accessory Kit no 1400 £6.85 – 50p off if ordered with a mould) Many more discounts on figures, rules, games etc. (send 8p p & s to SA for our latest catalogue)

THIRD DIMENSION DESIGNS
18 RYDER CRESCENT, AUGHTON, nr ORMSKIRK, LANCASHIRE, L39 5EZ

The Ogre is just one of the thirty or so races that can be met on the huge world of ORION. In this play-by-mail game of intrigue adventure and warfare players take on the role of mercenary leader of a clan, which wander the world in search of fame and fortune. The game combines strategic wargaming with fast moving roleplay as players fight for power over the hundreds of settlements that dot the landscape and tackle the mysteries of ORIONS past.

For more information write to ORION Games, 6 st. Austell Rd,
Manchester M16 8WQ. To start send £5 for the set-up material which include the first three turns.
Please make cheques/PO payable to ORION GAMES. Future turns cost £1.25.

GAMES STORE
161, Linthorpe Road, Middlesbrough,
Cleveland. Telephone: (0642) 247553).

Stockists of:-
Games Workshop, Citadel, Games
(of Liverpool), Tabletop, Skytrex,
TM Games, Denizen, Torchlight, Flying Buffalo, Standard Games, and many more.

Computer software:
For the most popular computers ie. C64, C16,
Spectrum, Atari, BBC, Amstrad and MSX etc.
Mail order (+12½ %) P & P.

SCOTLAND’S
PREMIERE HOBBY STORES

EDINBURGH
13 Forrest Road,
Edinburgh EH1 2GH
Tel: 031 226 3354

GLASGOW
536 Great Western Road,
Glasgow G12 8E2
Tel: 041 334 1583

1 Scarisbrick Rd.,
Burnage, Manchester, M19 2BT

Please mention White Dwarf when replying to advertisements.
CALL OF CTHULHU

The new hardback edition of Call of Cthulhu contains all of the information players and gamers need to enter a world of Gothic horror in the true Lovecraft tradition, as well as eight full-colour illustrations and all of the information previously published separately in the Cthulhu Companion.

KINGS & THINGS*

Kings & Things* is quite literally the fantasy game with everything but the kitchen sink. And if we could have figured a way to do it... There's so much we could tell you about Kings & Things*, like how it keeps and castles & heroes & the archmage & everything! But why spoil all the surprises? Just send off for a copy and find some friends to play it with. Boy, are you going to have fun!

WARLOCK OF FIRETOP MOUNTAIN

Based on the astonishingly successful Fighting Fantasy gamebook, Steve Jackson's Warlock of Firetop Mountain is a truly great game that can be enjoyed by 2-6 players. You won't need a degree in calculus to understand the rules, but even the most sophisticated gamers will find hours of enjoyment stalking the dungeons in search of glory.

STATUE OF THE SORCERER/ VANISHING CONJURER

Two new adventures in one Call of Cthulhu sanity-blasting package. The Statue of the Sorcerer: a strange parchment and a mysterious death lead to even stranger goings-on in San Francisco. The Vanishing Conjurer: can the investigators pose as stage magicians and infiltrate the Inner Brotherhood of Magicians?

PARANOIA

Welcome, Troubleshooter! On this special day you have been granted the opportunity to purchase the Paranoia rolegame. This is evidence of the computer's love and trust in you. Go now and order Paranoia. Serve the computer. The computer is your friend. Do you doubt the computer? The unashamedly brilliant Paranoia is now available in a UK-printed, 160 page hardback version - including three adventures previously published separately with the Paranoia Screen.

HALLS OF HORROR

From the fevered imagination of Bob Naismith comes Halls of Horror, a complete set of gothic room plans suitable for use in horror and fantasy role playing games. The 12 sheets of full-colour A4 sized card include thirteen (!) complete rooms, with all the 'regulars' used in fantasy and horror scenarios, plus accessories and furniture which can be used to set the scene in any period up to the present day.

DOUBLE PARANOIA

Yellow Clearance Black Box Blues and Vapours Don't Shoot Back. Two classic adventures from Paranoia that no High Programmer should be without! Specially repackaged for British Alpha complexes, these two exciting modules are now amassing value. 80 pages of honest-to-goodness mayhem, action, lasers, commies, traitors, and the ever-present, ever-vigilant computer just to keep things running, er, smoothly.

SKELETON HORDE

Citadel Miniatures is proud to present the Skeleton Horde - a boxed set from the makers of Psychostyrene Dwarves and Drastik Plastik Orcs. The boxed set contains six sprues with enough body parts to make up 24 superbly detailed 25mm skeleton figures, complete with shields and bases. A range of body positions, heads, arms and shields allows almost endless variations - all for the unbeatable price of £3.95.

HOW TO MAIL ORDER

Make cheques payable to Games Workshop Ltd. Include cost of postage & packing.

U.K., EIRE, BFPO : Add 95p for Orders under £10.00

OVERSEAS : Add 33% for Carriage

OVERSEAS AIR MAIL : Add 55% for Carriage

HOW TO TELEPHONE ORDER

BARCLAYCARD VISA ACCESS DINERS CLUB

Simply & Quickly Telephone Your Orders

0773/769422 or 0773/760482 between 8.30am and 5.00pm

Monday to Friday HELP!!

We all know how utterly brilliant White Dwarf is, but believe us or not we’d like to make it even better! And we’d like you to help us!

What we are looking for is a young, literate and enthusiastic man or woman to join us as a Publications Assistant in our Design Studio in Nottingham. The ideal candidate will hopefully know how to hold a pen, type and spell—a few A-level passes would be most helpful too. A good knowledge of the games world is essential, and previous magazine experience would obviously be an asset. Job duties will initially involve assisting the editor of this very magazine, and helping with the preparation of our vast range of new games.

The salary isn’t quite up to Chairman of ICI standards (it’s not up to Cleaner of ICI standards, to be quite honest), but the job does offer interesting and varied work, alongside nice people in very pleasant surroundings.

If this seems just what you’ve been waiting for all your life, send your CV and a covering letter to:

Jervis Johnson
Games Workshop Design Studio
Enfield Chambers
14-16 Low Pavement
Nottingham NG1 7DL

SPECIAL OFFER!
10 Fearless Orcs led by their Herp ‘Haley Tosis’ (pictures here) - ONLY £5.25 POST FREE!

ESSEX FANTASY
UNIT 1, SHANNON CENTRE, SHANNON SQUARE
THAMES ESTATE, CANVEY ISLAND, ESSEX.

NEW ADDITIONS TO OUR EXPANDING RANGE

TREASURE ITEMS 35p
21a Chest (closed)
21b Chest (open)
21c Strong Box (closed)
21d File of weapons
21e File of Treasure

DUNGEBON EQUIPMENT 35p
22a Wishing Well
22b Floor Grill (1)
22c Pressure Door (2)
22d Pair of Wooden Trap Doors

MONSTER SET 2 45p
23a Wraith
23b Skeleton
23c Female Vampire

FIGHTERS 2 45p
24a In Scale Armour
24b In Scale Armour
24c In Chain Mail
24d Eastern Fighter
24e Archer
24f Female Elf - Sword & Shield

NEW ADDITIONS TO OUR SERIES
OF LARGE FIGURE SETS
ELEMENTALS £1.50 ea.
25a Earth
25b Wind
25c Fire
25d Water

TROLLS £1.99 ea.
26a with Bone Club (35mm)
26b with long Handle Axe (65mm)
26c with Large Hammer (65mm)

DEMONS £3.50
27a Demonic King
27b (52mm) £1.99
27c Demon King
27d Demon Servant (45mm)

NEW ADDITIONS TO OUR EXPANDING RANGE

TREASURE ITEMS 35p
21a Chest (closed)
21b Chest (open)
21c Strong Box (closed)
21d File of weapons
21e File of Treasure

DUNGEBON EQUIPMENT 35p
22a Wishing Well
22b Floor Grill (1)
22c Pressure Door (2)
22d Pair of Wooden Trap Doors

MONSTER SET 2 45p
23a Wraith
23b Skeleton
23c Female Vampire

FIGHTERS 2 45p
24a In Scale Armour
24b In Scale Armour
24c In Chain Mail
24d Eastern Fighter
24e Archer
24f Female Elf - Sword & Shield

NEW ADDITIONS TO OUR SERIES
OF LARGE FIGURE SETS
ELEMENTALS £1.50 ea.
25a Earth
25b Wind
25c Fire
25d Water

TROLLS £1.99 ea.
26a with Bone Club (35mm)
26b with long Handle Axe (65mm)
26c with Large Hammer (65mm)

DEMONS £3.50
27a Demonic King
27b (52mm) £1.99
27c Demon King
27d Demon Servant (45mm)

WE ARE NOW PRODUCING... METAL MINIATURES

Metal Miniatures are not toys and are not suitable for children under 12 years of age. They contain lead which may be harmful if swallowed.

SEND S.A.E. FOR FREE CATALOGUE

TELEPHONE ORDERS 0268 682309
ACCESS - VISA - AMERICAN EXPRESS THE BEST
Super Hero Role-Playing Game
JUST GOT EVEN BETTER!

The MARVEL SUPER HEROES™ ADVANCED SET is not a new game.

It is not a “second edition”.

It doesn't need to be.

It does have new heroes, new powers, a new character generation system, new combat options, a new Universal table, new campaign rules and...

...more of what you expect and want from the best heroic role-playing game available.

Which means a complete expansion of all the great ideas that make the MARVEL SUPER HEROES game so good — there's more than twice as much in this set than in the Basic package.

But then, did you expect any less from TSR?

Available from better games and hobby shops or, in case of difficulty, contact:

TSR UK Limited
The Mill
Rathmore Road
CAMBRIDGE, CB1 4AD
United Kingdom

TSR Inc
POB 756
Lake Geneva
WISCONSIN
WI 53147, USA

MARVEL SUPER HEROES is a trademark of Marvel Comics, a division of Cadence Industries. ©1996 TSR UK Limited.
HIL SECTOR CAMPAIGN PACK

£5.95

Rejoice citizen! Your friend the Computer has chosen you to become a HIL Sector Internal Security Blue. Trooper. This Campaign pack for PARANOIA RPG shows and tells you just what this means in glorious detail, mostly detail about HIL Sector's unfortunate mortality rate.

Here's what you get in HIL Sector Blues:
- A brand-new and highly innovative PLAYER SCREEN, covered with all the information a player needs to stay alive in the mean corridors of HIL Sector!
- Full-colour Cardstock Commissar™ figures!
- A 64-page booklet brimming with important rules, zany mini-adventures, clever illustrations, nifty charts and tables, and a magnificent pull-out loaded with pre-generated PCs, NPC rosters, official Cardstock Commissar™ props and accessories, maps, and the HIL Sector Int-Sec Gazette.

HIL SECTOR BLUES is available from Mid-November at all good games shops or, in the UK, direct from: GAMES WORKSHOP, CHEWTON STREET, HILL TOP, EASTWOOD, NOTTINGHAM NG16 9XW. Available in the US from WEST END GAMES, 231 WEST 30TH STREET, NEW YORK, NY10001, USA.